

Still Loving You Nonetheless Chapter 1465

She had tried every method that she could think of in hopes to find her daughter.

"It's alright. Tell me where you gave birth to her, the name of the doctor, and everything that you know."

Ivy nodded then reached for her phone and sent a message to him.

Liam checked his phone and nodded. "I got your message."

"Liam, you're busy..."

"Don't worry. I won't go there personally. Plus, I'm not a professional in this. I will hire someone to look into it, okay?"

"Okay, thank you."

"Look at you being all polite again."

"If you want to think that way, so be it."

"You're unbelievable, Ivy!" Yanne walked toward Ivy and she looked like she was about to hit her. "Don't you dare think that just because you have Liam on your side, you can hurt me as you wish?

I will not let you have what you want!"

Seeing how Yanne was about to hit her, Ivy grabbed Yanne by the wrist to stop her.

Yanne suddenly collapsed onto the floor and started wailing in pain.

Ivy could see through her lousy acting instantly.

But before she could move away, she heard a cry, "what are you guys doing? Yanne!"

It was Madam Sheldon and a few nurses.

Seeing how both ladies were arguing and how Yanne was sprawled on the floor, Madam Sheldon was furious yet at the same time worried.

Ivy knew she would not be able to explain herself but still, she said to Yanne who was on the floor, "You can drop the act, Miss Yanne. I am not in the mood to do this with you."
