Chapter 1031 He Gives Up!

In the morning two days later, both Freya and Georgia recovered and were discharged from the hospital.

Georgia and Efren were about to return to New York, so even the nanny and babysitter came.

Efren held the baby with one hand and Georgia's waist with the other.

When Freya saw them, she hurried forward to say hello, "Mr. and Mrs. Serrano, are you leaving today?"

Georgia just nodded slightly at her, while Georgia smiled and held Freya's hand.

"We have been out for too long. If we don't go home as soon as possible, our family members will think we settle here and will come to take us back."

After Georgia finished that, she asked Freya, "What about you?"

"I'm going to be discharged, and Hayden will send me back to my hometown. I will stay there for some days."

Georgia hesitated if she should say something after hearing that.

Freya knew what Georgia was worried about, so she just said everything.

"We haven't broken up. He wants me to wait for him for another half a year. When he handles everything, he will marry me..."

"That's good." Georgia was really happy for Freya because she could tell that Freya loved Hayden very much.

"I have to say sorry to you. If I hadn't caused so many troubles, you wouldn't have wasted so much time."

Freya believed that Georgia was smart enough to figure out that she and Hayden were here for Efren.

It was just that Georgia probably also guessed that she had reasons, so Georgia never made things difficult for her.

"There's no need to say this. It's all over."

As soon as Georgia said this, Hayden walked over, carrying Freya's luggage.

"Hello, Mr. and Mrs. Serrano."

Hayden greeted them and apologized to Efren.

He was sorry for delaying their trip this time and promised he would visit Efren another day.

Hayden didn't even mention their previous cooperation, so Efren took the initiative to talk about it.

"As for the negotiation before, you can just draft the contract and mail it to my company. If there are no major problems in the contract, I will sign it."

Hayden was a little surprised. He didn't expect that Efren would actually agree with his suggestion.

But he also knew that Efren did this for Freya's sake.

He still didn't know what kind of agreement Freya reached with Efren that night, but Efren really agreed to give up the profit.

However, Hayden still refused it, though he knew how rare such an opportunity was.

"Mr. Serrano, let's forget about the negotiation before. I made a lot of mistakes this time. I can't accept your kindness."

Hayden added, "And I also plan to give up the fight for the family property. I will talk to my family after I return."

Efren also knew about Hayden's family background. If Hayden wanted to marry Freya, he would definitely lose out in the family property competition.

So giving up directly was a better choice.

"Then what are your plans for the future?" Efren asked.

"I plan to start my own company. Even if I can't make a lot of money, it should be no problem to support my wife and children."

When Hayden talked about children, he couldn't help looking at the kid in Efren's arms.

The little guy's eyes were bright, and he was looking around curiously. His chubby little hands were still waving vigorously.

Hayden felt that it was time to have a child.

When he saw the cute child now, he actually felt envious and even imagined what the child of him and Freya would look like.

So after separating from Georgia and Efren, Hayden went with Freya back to Freya's hometown and couldn't help talking about the child...

Chapter 1032 Jealousy

"Freya, how many children do you think we should have in the future?"

Hayden was still driving the car, while Freya was drinking water.

Hearing Hayden's sudden words, Freya couldn't help but spit out the water from her mouth.

"What's wrong?" Hayden was not angry and quickly parked the car on the side of the road. Then he took a tissue for Freya.

After Freya calmed down, she said, "I'm fine. I just think you have changed too much."

"How did I change?" After Hayden was no longer obsessed with wealth all day long, he would often chat with Freya.

"You used to focus on your career and hated anything that hinders your career. But now, you not only start to yearn for marriage but also want to have children."

Freya couldn't believe that Hayden would become like this. It was so amazing.

But she had to believe it because she saw Hayden's every change.

"Do you think I'm no longer ambitious and want to give up my career? Who made me like this? Silly girl."

As Hayden said that, he even knocked Freya on the head. They seemed to have returned to the time when they were just in love on campus.

Freya smiled awkwardly. "I just think you are not a man who wants a child."

Hayden suddenly held Freya's hand and touched it.

"But I really want to have a child with you and then watch him or her grow up slowly. The three of us hold hands and go shopping. We will also spend the holiday together..."

Indeed, the future picture drawn by Hayden was really beautiful, and even Freya couldn't help yearning for it.

Seeing Freya's expectant face, Hayden was also moved. He looked at her and coaxed, "Give me a baby, okay?"

Freya's face was blushing, but she still nodded.

She also wanted to have a child with Hayden...

...

Hayden took Freya back to Freya's hometown, and almost all the neighbors came out to watch.

"Wow, this car looks so cool."

"It seems to be very expensive."

"Is this Freya's boyfriend?"

"Freya, you've become rich, but don't forget about your cousin."

As soon as Hayden's car stopped, he was surrounded by countless people.

Some people even ask Freya about Hayden's occupation and even wanted to ask Hayden if he could find jobs for their sons and daughters in a big company.

Of course, some people who knew the news started to gossip.

For example, Freya's cousin, Rose Wills, said to some people, "Do you really think that a rich man who is with Freya is her boyfriend? You know what, Freya is just this man's mistress."

Rose married a fellow villager. Although that man was hardworking and reliable, he was poor.

Villagers in the city had been rumoring that Freya had a rich boyfriend, and Rose felt jealous.

Fortunately, Freya never brought her boyfriend back to the village, nor did she mention the marriage, so Rose felt better.

But today, Freya brought that man back, and he was still driving a luxury car.

In contrast, Rose felt jealous.

In Rose's eyes, Freya was similar to her, so how could Freya marry such a rich man?

With limited vision, Rose wished to ruin the relationship between Freya and Hayden and ruin Freya's good reputation.

Therefore, under her deliberate guidance, everyone no longer admired Freya but began to mock her with contempt and ridicule.

Some people even said to Freya when Freya and Hayden got off the car, "Freya, we can't even give up reputation and morality for money, can we?"

Chapter 1033 Guilt

It was the first time for Freya to return to the village with Hayden, so she was already a little nervous.

However, these folks from the village were still gossiping, which made Freya angry.

"You said I have no morals and no reputation just when I come back. I didn't offend you, right?"

Mrs. Simons was the one who yelled at Freya just now. Mrs. Simons didn't expect Freya dared to talk back when so many people were talking about her.

Besides, it was Freya's cousin, Rose, who started the topic just now. Mrs. Simons just thought it was true.

Freya dared to challenge her now, so she must teach Freya a lesson since Freya destroyed a family.

So Mrs. Simons began to curse Freya, "You have no morals because you are a mistress. Your parents brought you up not to let you destroy a family. I just don't want your parents to feel disappointed. I persuaded you out of kindness, but you bite me like that."

Others were even more excited when they saw Mrs. Simons and Freya arguing.

Rose hid in the crowd, feeling very proud of herself.

Freya was scolded for no reason, so she naturally felt uncomfortable. She wanted to go forward and continue her argument with Mrs. Simons.

But Hayden put his arms around Freya's waist and while giving Freya support, he said to Mrs. Simons with a loud voice.

"Madam, Freya and I are dating openly, and we are going to get married soon. Freya is not a mistress, and I don't need you to teach her any lesson."

As soon as Hayden said this, he attracted everyone's attention.

Only then did people see that he was not only rich but also handsome like a star.

In addition, his aura was so impressive that rural people like them had never seen it before.

Even an eloquent villager like Mrs. Simons had no words to refute Hayden.

But Mrs. Simons also knew that if this man really married Freya, then she could not offend Freya.

Her two sons who dropped out of high school still needed a good job. Mrs. Simons hoped her sons would also buy such a luxury car in the future.

So Mrs. Simons thought about it carefully and then told everyone who her news came from.

"I also heard it from Rose that Freya was a mistress. I thought you were relatives, so she couldn't have lied. I..."

Now, everyone looked at Rose.

Rose never expected that Mrs. Simons would push her out so quickly, and she was a little stunned for a while.

Hayden originally wanted to punish the culprit, but when he heard that it was Freya's relative, he was a little hesitant.

He was not sure about the relationship between Rose and Freya and even Freya's parents.

If their relationship was good, he would offend Rose before he married Freya, which would cause Freya trouble.

Freya didn't know that Hayden was thinking about her now. She just looked at Rose coldly and asked.

"Rose, we have no grudge, and neither do our two families. Can you tell me why you slander me so maliciously?"

Rose's sinister intentions were undoubtedly exposed, causing her to be criticized.

Rose was very embarrassed, but she talked back in annoyance, "I also heard it from someone else.

You just feel guilty because you are afraid of slanders."

Freya was furious. She never expected Rose to be so shameless.

She was so angry that she wanted to pull Rose's hair and fight with her.

But at this time, Hayden said, "I wanted to be polite to you, cousin, since I'm going to marry Freya, and you are Freya's relative."

Chapter 1034 Destroy Her House

"But now, it seems that you don't deserve my politeness. We don't need the relative who bullies Freya.

Freya did nothing wrong. If you dare to slander her again, I will ask my people to destroy your house."

Hayden directly fought back.

He knew how to deal with barbaric and unreasonable people like Rose. These people would flinch when they faced someone more powerful.

As expected, Rose immediately flinched.

"How can you be so unreasonable? You can't destroy my house just because of my words."

Although her house was quite dilapidated, it was also a place for their family to settle down.

If it was destroyed by Hayden, where should they live?

Most importantly, Rose was very likely to be kicked out of the house by her incompetent and rude husband!

Thinking of this, Rose immediately changed her attitude and complained to Hayden and Freya tearfully.

"No matter what, we are all a family. How can you bully me like this?"

People sympathized with the weak. Even if Rose did something wrong first, everyone began to feel sorry for her when she cried.

Even Mrs. Simons spoke for Rose.

"Freya, after all, Rose is your cousin, and she is happy for you when you bring your boyfriend back. But you even want to destroy her house. You have gone too far."

"Didn't you see that she slandered me with lies? Do I have to compromise with her just because she cries?"

Freya felt angry again.

She was panting heavily because she just recovered.

When Hayden noticed it, he quickly patted Freya on the back. "Don't be angry. I'll handle this."

"But..." Freya wanted to say something, but Hayden kissed her on the forehead in front of so many people.

Freya was stunned by his action.

Although she and Hayden had been in love for many years and had done many intimate things, it was the first time that he kissed her in front of so many folks from the village.

She was at a loss and didn't know what these people would think of her.

But in fact, the onlookers were also a little confused.

Most people think those from the city were too open-minded.

It was still broad daylight, and so many people were watching, but the two kissed.

But they could also tell that this rich man liked Freya very much.

His kiss was so careful with his love for Freya.

Even Rose was surprised.

Her useless husband always yelled at her and had never been so gentle with her.

This rich man seemed to love Freya very much.

Rose was definitely jealous of Freya.

Compared with Rose's husband, Freya's boyfriend was not only wealthy and handsome but also loved

Freya very much.

As for Rose's husband, who was poor and not handsome, didn't even have basic respect for Rose.

When Rose was almost overwhelmed by jealousy, she heard Hayden speak again.

"If anyone of you thinks we have gone too far and dares to speak for that woman, I will also destroy your houses."

Hayden said it while looking at Mrs. Simons, so it meant that Mrs. Simons was also his target.

Mrs. Simons was just messing things up to take revenge on Hayden and Freya for embarrassing her just now, and she didn't want to get into trouble at all.

So she immediately said, "That's your family affair. It has nothing to do with me. I have to go home and cook."

After Mrs. Simons said that, she ran away.

The onlookers didn't want to cause trouble, so they dispersed immediately.

Soon only Rose was left.

Rose glared at Freya angrily, then turned around, and went home.

Freya thought that Rose just felt guilty and ran away. She didn't think much about it and brought Hayden to her home.

Chapter 1035 Let Her Go

In the McBride family, Freya's parents cooked Freya's favorite meal after they learned that Freya was going home.

They didn't even have time to care about the noises outside.

Freya finally brought Hayden into the house.

"Mom, Dad, we're back."

As soon as Freya's voice came into the yard, her parents ran out of the kitchen.

"Freya, we cooked for you early in the morning..."

But when they saw Hayden, they were a little surprised.

Before Freya came back this time, she didn't tell her parents that she would bring Hayden back with her.

"Hayden is here too." Duncan tried his best to smile when he saw Hayden.

But when Maeve saw Hayden, her face turned cold. She didn't even bother to say hello and just dragged Freya into the room to talk.

She didn't even lower her voice, as if she was expressing her dissatisfaction with Hayden.

"Why do you bring him back? You've been his girlfriend for so many years. He doesn't want to marry you or give you a future. What's the point of wasting time with him like this?"

"Mom, Hayden and I want to get married. We need to talk." Freya tried to comfort Maeve.

"If he really wants to marry you, it won't take so many years. Freya, no matter what he says this time, I won't believe him again."

Later, Freya seemed to be worried that Maeve would say harsher words, so she directly covered Maeve's mouth.

Duncan tried his best to maintain a smiling face and said to Hayden, "Freya's mother is always straightforward, so don't mind her words. Let's go into the room. Don't stand here."

Although Duncan didn't react as violently as Maeve, Hayden could also feel that Duncan's attitude was obviously much colder than before.

In the past, when Duncan greeted him, he always treated Hayden like his son.

At that time, Freya's parents really liked him as their son.

But Hayden knew that he couldn't blame anyone. He made so many mistakes before and disrespected Freya, which hurt Freya's parents over and over again.

Thinking of this, Hayden said, "I come with Freya this time to talk about our marriage."

Hayden's tone was rarely serious.

It also made Duncan look at him in surprise.

But Duncan quickly explained, "Sorry, I was just a little surprised. After all, Freya said before that you had no plans to get married in recent years."

When Hayden heard this, he felt guilty.

In fact, he was also very curious about how did Freya continue to persuade her parents during the years when he refused to get married. She even made her parents call and chat with him occasionally.

But now, he understood that Freya had been lying to them all the time and to herself.

Seeing that Hayden was silent for quite a while, Duncan thought Hayden was blaming Freya, so he persuaded Hayden.

"Hayden, if you really have no intention of marrying Freya, then let her go, and let yourself go. Life is short. You don't have to be so stubborn."

Duncan added, "Actually, the first time I saw you, I thought you wouldn't marry Freya. Your family background is too good, and Freya is just from an ordinary family. The two of you will not overcome it.

At that time, I told all these to Freya, but she praised you and asked us to believe you too."

"We can tell that Freya loves you very much, so we agreed to wait for you for three years. But we didn't expect that there would be another three years. Girls at the same age as Freya were all married, and some of them even had children..."

Chapter 1036 Get Married!

"Freya used to be the best girl in our village, and so many boys came to her and wanted to marry her.

But Freya insisted on waiting for you, and it was inevitable that gossip would spread. Her mother heard about the gossip in the village and got angry. When we asked Freya a while ago if you want to get married, Freya said that she would wait for you for another three years. The mother and the daughter argued again..."

In Hayden's impression, Duncan always talked little.

Even when Hayden visited the McBride House, Duncan was relatively taciturn before.

But Duncan said so much today. He just wanted to persuade Hayden to break up with Freya if Hayden couldn't marry Freya.

Hayden didn't expect that he would be persuaded to break up when he came to Freya's family to talk about their marriage. He felt mixed feelings for a while.

However, he also knew that he deserved all this because he made mistakes.

So he quickly calmed down, suppressed his emotions, and looked at Duncan seriously.

"I really come to talk about our marriage. I want to marry Freya and spend my life with her."

But Duncan didn't respond directly and still looked at Hayden with hesitation, as if he was distinguishing whether what Hayden said was true or not.

Hayden hurriedly added, "I admit that I did make mistakes before, which hurt Freya, you, and her mother. But I still beg you to give me another chance. I will definitely not disappoint Freya and you again..."

Hayden spoke seriously. He was unaware that Freya and Maeve had come out of the kitchen at this time and heard what he just said.

Maeve just learned from Freya that Hayden came to propose marriage this time, and she still couldn't believe it until she heard what Hayden said just now...

As a mother, Maeve didn't really want to force her daughter to break up because it would make Freya sad.

She forced Freya and Hayden to make a decision as soon as possible.

Now that Hayden had made a decision, Maeve was willing to try again to accept him.

Hayden turned around and saw Freya and Maeve standing behind him, so he repeated what he had just said to Duncan.

Maeve's attitude toward him gradually became better.

After the meal, Maeve ordered Freya, "Go to the vegetable market at the entrance of the village and buy some eggs."

"Mom, don't we have a lot of eggs at home? Why do you want to buy more?"

Freya knew that they wanted to talk to Hayden alone and was also worried that their conversation would be unpleasant, so she refused to leave.

"Those eggs are not tasty. Go and buy some better ones," Maeve said.

"Eggs are all the same. There is no better one."

Maeve naturally knew that Freya wanted to listen to their conversation, so she got angry and pushed Freya to the door.

"If you don't want to buy eggs, just check the house and see what we need to buy. Buy them all! You haven't been married yet, so you must listen to me."

Seeing Freya being scolded, Hayden felt sorry and amused.

"It's okay. Just go. Your parents won't hurt me."

Hayden also showed Freya a bright smile. Freya finally agreed. "Then I'll go buy some fruit."

Freya went out, and the conversation between Duncan, Maeve, and Hayden about the marriage started.

But what exactly did they talk about? After Freya came back, she kept trying to know it from Hayden.

That night...

Duncan and Maeve went to sleep, and Freya also took Hayden back to her room.

They had to stay together. Freya's house was not big with just two bedrooms, and the sofa in the living room was too small.

So every time Hayden came to the McBride House, he had to live in Freya's room.

Freya took the opportunity to ask Hayden, "What did you say to my parents today?"

However, Hayden turned over on the bed and pushed her under him.

Chapter 1037 Have a Baby?

"Are you really so curious? Please me first, and I'll tell you..."

Hayden hooked his lips and smiled wickedly.

Because Freya fell into the water with a high fever and caused pneumonia, the two hadn't had sex for a long time.

The two of them were young and full of energy. It was hard to control themselves when they slept together.

Therefore, Hayden not only spoke bluntly, but also his body was getting hotter.

Freya would have let Hayden do that if they were in another place.

But this was at her house. Freya was a little shy.

She refused, "Don't do that."

"Freya, your parents agreed with us to get married. We are allowed to do this now."

Hayden coaxed Freya and took the opportunity to do what he wanted.

"You bastard. You still haven't told me what you said to my parents. You just bully me!"

Freya didn't get the answer she wanted but was coaxed to have sex with Hayden. She was a little angry now.

She even struggled to get rid of Hayden's control.

But Hayden pressed her tightly and whispered in her ear, "It doesn't matter what we talked about, as long as you know that we will get married soon, and that they sincerely bless us..."

Maybe Hayden's words had a kind of magic to comfort her, Freya gradually gave up struggling and got lost in his arms.

Freya still did not forget to ask Hayden to take contraceptives even though she was at a loss.

But she heard Hayden coaxing in her ear, "Freya, give me a baby. I know it's not the best time, but I really can't wait..."

Seeing Efren taking Georgia and their child today, Hayden envied the happy family when the three of them stood together.

Duncan and Maeve were still reluctant to believe Hayden, which made Hayden panic.

So Hayden was thinking if he could change their attitude with a child of Freya and him. They might not insist on separating them anymore if so.

Freya also knew that she shouldn't agree to Hayden now. After all, even if Hayden wanted to marry her, there were still many tests in the future.

The Gollust family would not agree with their marriage.

In such a situation, if Hayden had a child, their future would be even more confusing.

Once Freya was pregnant, and Hayden failed to keep his promise, she might be regarded as a mistress who wanted to pester Hayden with a child.

But Freya agreed impulsively, perhaps because the atmosphere at night was too hot or Hayden was too good at bewitching her.

So Hayden got more and more excited and didn't stop for almost the whole night...

...

When Freya woke up the next day, she could no longer see Hayden on the bed.

Freya quickly got dressed and came out of the room.

But Hayden was not in the living room either.

There was only the sound of chopping vegetables from the kitchen.

Freya hurried into the kitchen and saw Maeve cooking.

"Mom, where's Hayden?" Freya walked forward and asked.

"He went to help your father thresh grain." Maeve's words made Freya a little surprised.

"Can he thresh grain?"

"He can learn it if he doesn't know it. No one is born with it. We all didn't know it and then learned it,"

Maeve said.

"That's true, but..."

But Freya knew that Hayden didn't like doing such messy things.

She was afraid that Hayden would feel annoyed later and lose his temper.

But Maeve interrupted her and said earnestly, "Freya, no matter how much you love him, you can't follow him in everything. You are going to be with him for a lifetime. If you are the only one who pays, your life will be very tiring..."

Chapter 1038 Ungrateful Girl

Freya was at a loss for words for a while and didn't know how to respond to Maeve.

It turned out that her parents had always known that she was the only one who paid.

"Alright, we just want to test him. If he can't even pass this test, he will never get you."

After all, Maeve didn't want to make Freya sad, so she quickly changed her mind.

"Then don't make the test too hard," Freya said.

As soon as she finished speaking, her mother knocked her on the head.

"You haven't married yet! Don't speak for him, ungrateful girl."

Freya giggled.

"I'll make spaghetti later. Send it to your dad and Hayden. They are doing a hard job today, so I guess they can't come back until evening," Maeve said.

Freya nodded in a hurry.

When she came to the field with the spaghetti made by Maeve, she saw Hayden wearing a shirt and trousers with a large bundle of grain over his shoulder and walking around.

He tied the dried grain into a bundle and then sent it to Duncan next to the machine. After Duncan took it, he put it into the machine, waited for the grain to be ground by the machine, and then packed it into bags.

The two cooperated well and seemed to be talking and laughing.

But Freya looked at Hayden's back, feeling inexplicably sorry.

Hayden was born with a silver spoon and had never had to do such hard work.

But now...

At this time, Duncan noticed Freya and shouted with a smile, "What are you doing there? Quickly bring the spaghetti to us. Hayden must be hungry."

Duncan's shout brought Freya back to her senses and made Hayden look back at Freya.

"Why are you here?" Hayden put the bundle of grains on his shoulders next to the machine before coming to Freya.

Busy in the field all morning, Hayden's handsome face was a little flushed, and there was sweat on his forehead.

However, Hayden didn't look embarrassed since he had a special aura. On the contrary, he looked a little more masculine.

He still had a bright smile on his face, and he didn't look reluctant.

This somewhat made Freya heave a sigh of relief.

However, Freya still took out a towel and wiped away the sweat for Hayden. "You must be tired."

"I'm not tired. Your father said he was going to catch fish at night, and I want to follow him."

Hayden didn't expect that the McBride family also bought a pond to raise fish.

This somewhat changed Hayden's views on the countryside and made him feel very interested. He really wanted to learn more about it.

"But..." Freya knew Hayden might not stop working until the evening. If Hayden went to catch fish with her father at night, there would be no time to rest for the whole day.

"But what? I'm much younger than your father. He can do it, and so can I."

Hayden took a plate of spaghetti, talking while eating.

At this time, Duncan also said, "That's right. Hayden, I'll show you the hairy fish I raise in the evening.

They're all big. If you like it, we'll catch a few and have a drink at night."

Hayden quickly agreed and said, "I'm very expecting the fish you raised."

Duncan laughed and said, "It must be better than those you eat in the city. My fish are so fat."

Seeing Hayden talking and chatting with Duncan, Freya was very happy.

But when she thought that Hayden had worked all day and was going to catch fish with her father at night, she also felt a little worried.

Her father had been used to working hard all year round, so he didn't feel particularly tired, but Hayden had never done such a tiring job before.

Now Hayden had to work all day, which made Freya worried.

Chapter 1039 Exhausted?

After eating the spaghetti, Hayden was sitting on the ridge of the field, and Freya hurried over.

"You've been busy all day, so let's just go home tonight. I'll explain it to my father. You just have a rest at home."

Freya added, "If you want to eat fish, I will go there with my father at night and catch some for you."

But Hayden raised his hand, rubbed her hair, and said with a smile, "Freya, you don't have to worry about me. I used to go to the gym to exercise. Now I just use the energy in the gym to work."

"But..." Freya was still worried.

She knew that Hayden had the habit of going to the gym, but gym exercise was different from working in the fields.

But Hayden said directly, "You don't have to worry about me. Okay, we've finished the spaghetti. You should go back and don't disturb our work."

Duncan also urged Freya to go back.

In the end, Freya could only leave with the empty plates.

As Hayden promised, he actually went to catch fish with Duncan at night after working hard for the whole day.

The two returned home with fish. Duncan steamed a few fish and wanted to drink with Hayden, only to find that Hayden was leaning on the sofa and fell asleep.

Duncan smiled and nodded. Then he found a blanket to cover Hayden and asked Freya to wait. When Hayden woke up, Freya should take him back to the room.

"As for the fish, I'll catch a few more for him tomorrow. Let him take a good rest. He's tired."

When Duncan returned to his room, Freya looked at Hayden's sleeping face, feeling both sweet and worried.

After working all day, Hayden must be very tired, but this time he didn't complain at all.

In the past, he didn't like going to the fields. Sometimes when he went out with Freya in the fields, he would lose his temper because of the mud on his shoes.

But this time, Hayden not only didn't lose his temper but also helped Freya's father with all the farm work.

This was the first time Freya had enjoyed the two sided-love. She was moved.

After taking Hayden back to her room to sleep, she felt a little sleepless.

But Hayden suddenly turned over and held her waist. He then brought her into his arms.

"Why haven't you slept yet?" Hayden rubbed Freya's ear. His voice was hoarse just after waking up.

"I wonder if you will run out of enthusiasm one day and don't like this place anymore." Freya held Hayden's hand and rubbed it.

Sometimes the happier people felt, the more they worried about gains and losses.

Freya was just like this now.

She was afraid that the tedious affairs in the countryside would make Hayden tired and make him escape from here and from her.

And what she was most afraid of was that she would not be able to adapt to the lonely days when she was abandoned after being extremely doted on by Hayden.

But when Hayden heard this, he suddenly turned over and pressed on her body.

"It's my fault. I shouldn't give you time to think too much."

As soon as he said that, his kiss came.

Freya quickly struggled and refused, "Are you crazy? You are so tired today. You need a good rest!"

"I have rested just now, and now, my energy is replenished. Don't you believe me? Let's try it."

"I won't believe you."

But Hayden still made it regardless of whether she believed it or not.

When it was over, Freya was too tired to move. She didn't even bother to take a shower and fell asleep directly in Hayden's arms.

Hayden hugged Freya, feeling indescribably satisfied.

It was midnight, and the two quickly fell asleep.

Chapter 1040 Embarrass Herself

Hayden accompanied Freya and lived in this small village for a week.

During the day, he did farm work with Duncan, and at night, he would have a romantic night with Freya.

This kind of life was relaxing, making him feel unprecedented happiness.

However, there were continuous conflicts between the Gollust and Chambers families.

Hayden had already told his family that he would call off his engagement with Maura. But neither his family nor the Chambers family could accept it.

Maura directly refused him.

She said, "At the beginning, Hayden pestered me to be engaged to him. Now, he doesn't want me and distances himself from me. He did these things at will. There is no such good thing in the world!"

Maura was the apple of the eye in the Chambers family. She was always the one to dump her boyfriends. So she couldn't accept being dumped.

Once she liked something, she would never give it up to others.

Including her boyfriend!

"Call the Gollust family and tell them I won't agree to call off the engagement!" Maura asked her father to put pressure on the Gollust family, making Hayden have to attend her birthday party on her birthday.

The Gollust family had notified Hayden, but Hayden refused. "I won't go there. Anyway, I'll call off the engagement, so I won't waste time acting with her anymore."

After saying this, he hung up the phone.

But the Gollust family didn't give up. They made many phone calls daily to urge Hayden, hoping he would change his mind.

Maura didn't receive any reply from the Gollust family, so she thought Hayden had agreed to attend her birthday party.

Today was the day of Maura's birthday party.

The Chambers family invited all the celebrities of the city to the party and planned to announce the wedding date of Hayden and Maura according to Maura's request.

Maura decided to announce her marriage to Hayden first, setting the wedding date and making it public.

Even if the Gollust family agreed to Hayden's decision, they had to consider a series of adverse effects caused by breaking a pledge of marriage after she announced the wedding date.

For example, it would cause the falling stock price of the Gollust Group and offend the Chambers family and even its business partners.

The Gollust family was a typical merchant family. They would give her a satisfactory response after weighing the pros and cons.

To achieve this goal, Maura even changed the birthday cake into an engagement cake, which was taller than a person's.

And the banquet hall was decorated like a wedding site.

When the guests came and saw this hall, they guessed that the Chambers family would have something happy to announce, so they congratulated Maura in advance.

Maura accepted everyone's congratulations with a gentle smile and waited for Hayden's arrival.

But Hayden didn't show up until halfway through the party.

Maura was worried that there would only be a joke if Hayden didn't show up, so she quickly went to Brian and asked him to call Hayden back as soon as possible.

But Brian was also helpless. "No matter how much I persuaded him, he refused to come here."

In the past, Brian could use the family property to pressure Hayden to make him come back obediently.

But since Hayden gave up everything about the Gollust family, he ignored his family's persuasion.

"Why don't you tell him that if he doesn't return, you will freeze his credit card and take back the house and car that were given to him?"

Brian thought it was a good idea, so he immediately asked the secretary to call Hayden.

But Hayden was not threatened. After the secretary told him about this, he refused to attend Maura's birthday party.

Brian looked at Maura with a guilty face. Maura knew that her scheming arrangement would embarrass her.
