Chapter 1075 Go Back on His Promise

Looking at Hayden, Freya didn't know what to answer for a while.

At this moment, the doctor in the ultrasound examination room shouted, "Freya McBride, it's your turn."

Freya quickly withdrew her gaze from Hayden, turned around, and entered the ultrasound examination room.

The moment she turned around, the tears burst uncontrollably.

Meanwhile, Maeve finally caught up with Hayden, pulling Hayden. "Did you forget what you promised me? Don't bother Freya again."

Hayden's eyes were so red as if they could bleed. "Mrs. Maeve McBride, Freya is pregnant with my baby. How can you leave her alone?"

"Let her go, and let yourself go, won't you? Please." Maeve noticed that Hayden had lost a lot of weight recently and that he was still wearing a hospital gown. She knew that he must have had a hard time.

Hayden said nothing.

He admitted that after confirming that Freya was pregnant with his baby, he became greedy again.

He even thought that the baby could be the bridge to their reunion...

That was why he didn't dare to ask about Freya's recent situation and her whereabouts anymore.

He was afraid that he would lose control and go back on his previous promise when he saw Freya.

Soon, Freya came out after checking.

She had a report in her hand, and her face was a little pale.

Seeing Freya walking out, Hayden immediately went to support her.

He even wanted to reach out and touch Freya's stomach, wanting to feel the baby.

But before he could touch Freya, Freya stretched out her hand and slapped him away.

"Stop! We've broken up!"

In the ultrasound examination room, Freya had wiped away her tears and calmed down.

She admitted that the moment she saw Hayden, all her efforts to forget him in the past seven months were in vain.

But she also knew that their relationship was not just a matter between the two of them. Her mother was also involved.

It must be difficult for Maeve to let go of Duncan's death.

Otherwise, she would not have followed Hayden and asked him to fulfill his promise when she met Hayden.

Therefore, no matter how much Freya loved Hayden, she still had to consider Maeve's feelings.

Duncan had already paid the price with his life for the relationship between her and Hayden. Could she anger Maeve to death?

Freya could only pretend that she didn't care about their love and tried her best to cut off the relationship with Hayden.

Frankly, Hayden was hurt by Freya's cold attitude.

However, he pretended not to care and took the examination report from Freya's hand.

The report showed the number of weeks and the current health condition of the baby.

Looking at the baby's week number recorded above as thirty-three weeks, Hayden reconfirmed that

Freya was conceived the night he pestered her to give birth to him.

Apart from excitement, Hayden was more worried about the baby's condition.

Because it wrote: [Amniotic fluid is too low, and the umbilical cord is around the neck of the baby.

Hospitalization is recommended.]

Hayden was extremely anxious and quickly called the experts in obstetrics and gynecology.

Maeve didn't like Hayden getting close to Freya, but she had to temporarily accept Hayden's help when she heard that Freya and the baby were in danger.

Now Freya was her only family, and Maeve couldn't accept that Freya and the baby had an accident.

Freya had resisted, but Hayden forcefully took her to the ward he had arranged.

But Freya didn't expect that the ward Hayden arranged for her was next to his...
