

Snatched 581

Chapter 581 Burst Into Tears

"Let's rush to the emergency room."

"All these blisters should be treated by a doctor."

Arnold, William, and the Hansen elders took Sara to the emergency room.

At that moment, only Cora, Byron, and Martin were left in the ward.

Martin felt like he had done something wrong. He was worried about Sara's hand injury and was feeling down.

Cora held Martin's hand and glanced at the several thermoses on the table.

All of them were just taken out of Sara's bag.

There were six thermoses that was just knocked over. Each could hold 33 ounces.

All of them together were pretty heavy.

But Cora remembered that Sara had been holding them all along before coming up.

Cora smelled a faint aroma of pumpkin in the air. She figured the oatmeal that had been knocked over must be pumpkin flavored.

She liked pumpkin, so smelling this aroma suddenly made her crave it.

She couldn't help herself and opened the lids of the other thermoses.

Besides pumpkin oatmeal, there was chestnut, sweet potato... and jujube cashew-flavored ones.

Cora looked at the soft and sticky oatmeal, and all were her favorite flavors.

In the end, she couldn't resist, and she took a spoonful to taste.

Then, she was touched.

Tears fell down.

When Martin saw Cora crying, he got nervous.

He wanted to rush forward, but Byron held him back.

"Don't go. Mom is happy," he said.

Martin looked up at Byron, full of confusion.

He didn't understand how Cora could cry with happiness after tasting oatmeal made by a stranger.

Byron patted Martin's head and told him, "This is the first time your mom has tasted the flavor of motherly love..."

After treating her wound, Sara planned to go back to Cora's ward.

But as she walked out of the doctor's office, she saw Byron and Martin standing in the distance.

She quickly approached.

"Why did you all come out? What if something happens to Cora alone in the ward?"

"Cora will be fine," Byron said.

He knew that Cora just needed some time alone to vent.

So he left the ward with Martin.

"But..." Sara knew Cora, a mother, wouldn't easily give up.

But she was still uneasy about leaving sick Cora alone. What if she needed something and couldn't find anyone?

But before she could express her worries, Byron pushed Martin toward her.

"I brought him to apologize."

Sara looked down and saw Martin standing in front of her with a sullen look.

"It's okay. I've treated the wound. It doesn't hurt anymore."

It would be a lie to say it didn't hurt.

But Martin was Cora's child, her sweetheart. How could Sara blame him?

Martin heard Sara wasn't blaming him. She even said in a gentle. So he looked up at her.

Sara looked at Martin. She felt she could see a trace of Cora on his adorable and handsome face. So she squatted down to talk to him.

"From now on, when someone is holding something hot, you can't bump into them. Not even to protect your mom. Because you might get burned too."

Martin was stunned for a moment, then nodded his head. Clearly, he knew Sara was looking out for him.

"Good boy. In a few days, I will look for a good kindergarten for you."

Sara thought about the news she had read online the night before. The news mentioned that kindergartens had rejected Martin because he couldn't speak. So she said these words casually.

Yeah, she decided to buy a kindergarten for Martin. From then on, the kindergarten would be Martin's domain. No one would dare to reject him and criticize him...

Chapter 582 Love Rivals Together

When Sara tried to touch Martin's face again, he hid behind Byron.

In his eyes, things were to be taken on their own merits.

On the matter of Sara getting burned, he knew he was wrong and needed to apologize.

But for Sara to have contact with him, she first needed to gain Cora's forgiveness.

Seeing Martin still rejecting her touch as always, Sara felt somewhat sad.

But she knew that she couldn't blame Martin or Cora.

If she hadn't messed up so badly in the first place, none of this would have happened.

At that point, Byron said, "I'm already contacting the kindergarten. You don't have to worry about it. Just go home."

Regardless of Sara's mistakes, the fact that she saved Martin just now was undeniable.

Whether to accept her apology, Byron thought that was up to Cora.

"That's fine. I'll come to see her in the afternoon."

Sara was worried that visiting Cora's room at this time would upset her, hindering her recovery.

"If there's anything she wants to eat, just tell me. I'll cook it for her."

Her hand was burned and might leave a scar.

But as long as she could get another glance from Cora, she felt everything was worth it.

"Sure."

Byron, with Martin, saw Sara and the others out.

Nora had always wanted to thank Cora in person because her life had been saved by Cora too.

In the end, she and Osborn were sent away by Byron for the sake of not upsetting Cora.

But Byron didn't expect to find Jerry in Cora's room when he returned.

Jerry and Byron shared a smile, both men's faces beaming, yet the air seemed to freeze.

"Mr. Hansen, you should rest if you have no other matters. I'll take care of Cora and Martin."

Byron was silent.

The words felt oddly familiar.

Didn't he say the same to William and the Hansen elders?

He was speaking as Cora's husband.

So, did Jerry consider himself Cora's husband?

Byron frowned in response.

"Mr. Lloyd, are you joking? It doesn't make sense for others to care for my wife and son."

Jerry didn't back down. "Your wife? If I remember correctly, you and Cora are divorced. She is your ex-wife."

"An ex-wife is still a wife. I will take care of her. No need to trouble, Mr. Lloyd."

Watching the back and forth between the two men, Martin looked at his daydreaming mother and started pushing them.

"Martin, don't you welcome me?"

Being pushed by Martin felt like a mental punch to Jerry.

Seeing this, Byron smirked. "A stranger isn't as close as a father, right, Martin?"

But Martin's reply was to push him out as well.

Suddenly, Byron wasn't as happy anymore.

Jerry understood Martin's meaning. "He wants us to argue outside. You thought he was taking your side?"

As the words fell, Martin pushed him again, and his face puffed up in anger.

So, Jerry had to concede. "Fine, fine, I'm going out."

Of course, before leaving, he didn't forget to drag Byron along. "What are you standing around for?"

Let's argue outside."

Byron suddenly remembered the task he had given Jerry in Leucrest Town and felt he needed to talk seriously with him.

Then, these two love rivals left together. Their departure was somewhat bizarre.

Chapter 583 Return to the Yoris Family

On the overpass on the second floor of the hospital, two tall and handsome men leaned against the guardrail and smoked.

Many passers-by couldn't help but cast their eyes on them.

However, both ignored the envious eyes, and their indifference was precisely the same.

"How is it going?" Byron spoke first.

"Well, it's all done. Do you want to do it today?" Jerry gave Byron a cold look. He never thought that he would work with his rival in love.

"Not yet."

"When do we have to wait? Didn't you see the netizens almost drowned Cora with saliva?"

Jerry wanted to solve the problem quickly and accurately.

"She will have a terrible fall when she stands high. If she falls now, she will only be disabled at most."

Jerry couldn't help thinking that Byron was ruthless.

"Is it cruel to do that? I heard that the woman was your ex-girlfriend."

Byron stubbed out the cigarette. "As for my girlfriend, Cora is the only one in the past, now and in the future. I am not you, Mr. Lloyd, who has dozens of girlfriends."

"Now I am regretful for what I have done, which proves that my love for Cora is sincere." Jerry was not annoyed when Byron mentioned Jerry's life of hanging out with girls.

When the two were about to quarrel, Byron received a call.

The call was from Carter.

"Mr. Hansen, the public opinion on the Internet has escalated, and the police had to release Miss Yoris under pressure."

The reason for Jane's sudden disappearance was said by someone online to be the frame of Cora's husband.

Therefore, many netizens took the initiative to ask the police to release Jane.

[What should cancer patients do if Dr. Yoris doesn't show up?] Comments like that were countless.

Reporters rushed to the prison gate after hearing the news, hoping to obtain first-hand information.

After the reporters took photos of Jane walking out of the prison, Jane appeared on trending topics.

"There were witnesses and physical evidence, but they couldn't even detain her. What's wrong with them?"

Byron was so angry that he even cursed.

"The physical evidence is gone."

"What?"

"They searched the police station but couldn't find it."

Byron and others hurried to send Cora to the hospital, so they ignored the physical evidence.

However, the physical evidence couldn't disappear.

Therefore, someone must have helped Jane destroy it.

After thinking about it, Byron suspected George.

"Find someone new and send them to search Mr. Cook's residence."

From Byron's words, Jerry knew what was going on.

After Byron hung up the phone, Jerry asked, "Was Jane released? Can we do it now?"

After Byron pondered for a while, the two started to take action separately.

Soon, another two days passed.

Cora recovered well, and the doctor said she could be discharged from the hospital.

On the day she was discharged from the hospital, William, Sara, and Arnold all came to the hospital.

Seeing Cora start to pack her luggage, Sara wanted to help her.

Cora alienatedly refused. "I'll do it myself. Otherwise, I can't find them easily."

Sara could only give up.

After a few seconds, Sara said, "Look at you. You've lost a lot of weight. Cora, you'd better go home with us. I will take good care of you at home."

Hearing Sara's words, William and Arnold echoed one after the other.

"That's right. You have just recovered and have to take care of Martin. There must be many inconveniences. Just go home and live with us."

"I am still strong and can help you take care of Martin."

The three arrived at the hospital early in the morning, trying to persuade Cora to return to the Yoris family.

However, before Cora responded to them, another voice came from the ward door.

Chapter 584 I Make It Through

"Cora will return to the Hansen Mansion with us. Martin can't do without his mother."

Sara turned around and saw Nora and Osborn walking into the ward with Martin.

When Cora was hospitalized, Martin could only be taken care of by Nora.

After a few days of getting along, Martin still didn't like Nora touching him.

When they entered the ward, Martin broke free from Nora's hand and threw himself on Cora's lap.

When Cora saw Martin, her face was no longer expressionless, and she picked Martin up.

"Martin, do you miss Mom?"

Martin nodded. He was so well-behaved and mild that he didn't look like the soldier who fought against Nora and Osborn with his wits and courage in the Hansen Mansion.

"I will be discharged from the hospital. And I can stay with you all the time."

Cora's words made Nora smile.

Martin had been living in the Hansen Mansion for the past few days, so Cora would live there if she wanted to stay with Martin.

Then, Nora could play with Martin every day and take care of Cora to make up for what she owed Cora.

Moreover, once Cora lived in the Hansen Mansion, Nora would help Byron protect his wife and child.

They wouldn't be attracted by others. That was the most important thing for Nora.

Nora had bumped into Jerry visiting Cora several times in the past few days.

Seeing Jerry caring for Cora, Nora felt the two must have an unusual relationship.

When Martin was there, they looked happy and like a family.

Later, Nora learned from Byron that Jerry was Cora's boyfriend.

How could Nora allow that to happen?

Therefore, Nora acted secretly, vowing to protect Byron's destined marriage.

Although Nora had her plan, the Yoris family had theirs.

They didn't care if Byron and Cora would be reconciled. Anyway, Cora was beautiful and capable. Even after giving birth to a child, she had many admirers.

Even if Jerry failed, many others would pursue Cora.

For the Yoris family, it was more important to resolve Cora's resentment towards them and return to their family.

In their eyes, it was the best time to thaw the relationship.

Hearing Nora's words, Sara said, "Cora should go home and live with us for some days. She is weak and needs to recuperate."

"She can recuperate in the Hansen Mansion, and Martin likes the atmosphere of the Hansen family."

Nora didn't give in.

Arnold said, "The atmosphere in the Yoris family is also good. I can teach Cora and Martin how to carve, and we can also paint together."

Osborn joined in the battle of robbing Cora. It was related to Byron's lifelong happiness, so he couldn't sit idly by.

"I know how to carve and paint, and I also know how to play chess. I have bought Martin two kindergartens, and I am waiting for him to choose."

Cora didn't expect her and Martin to be so popular.

She got a headache from the quarrel, so she could only say, "Stop quarreling. Martin and I will live in our apartment."

"How can you do that? You have just recovered. However, you are still weak. How can you have the energy to take care of yourself and Martin?"

Sara was the first to object.

"That's right, Cora. Even if you don't want to go back with them, you can go back with me and Osborn.

If you drag your newly recovered body to take care of Martin alone, you will be exhausted."

Nora also hurriedly said.

However, Cora said, "This happened before, and I made it through."

Hearing that, the Yoris family and the Hansen elders showed guilt.

Chapter 585 Martin's Father

That was right. After Cora gave birth to Martin alone in Leucrest Town, her situation must be hundreds of times worse.

At that time, some of them complained about Cora and ignored what happened to her because their son's whereabouts were unknown. Some didn't know that Cora was their family and laughed at her for killing her husband and being kicked out of the family.

Sara choked and said, "Cora, what happened before was because we didn't know about your situation, but now you have us. There is no need to be alone."

Nora said, "Cora, your ordeal is over. Don't be exhausted again."

"I didn't want to make you feel guilty. I just have recovered. It's not a problem to bring Martin back to the apartment and alive alone."

"But..."

Cora had made it clear, but the two families didn't want to give up.

At that moment, there came Byron's voice. "If you want to go back to the apartment, go back to the apartment."

Nora became furious. "Byron, how could you let Cora live in the apartment?"

Nora tried her best to wink at Byron. If Cora fell in love with Jerry, Byron wouldn't have a chance.

Byron ignored Nora's hint and said, "She can do whatever makes her happy."

Nora murmured in her mind, "She is happy. How about you?"

However, she still didn't make Byron embarrassed in front of so many people.

As for the Yoris family, they knew that Cora had made up her mind and would not go back to the Yoris Mansion with them, so they could only let her go temporarily.

Cora brought Martin back to the apartment.

Sara and William wanted to stay longer with Cora, so they followed her to the apartment.

The Hansen elders planned to help Byron chase his wife, so they also went to the apartment.

Not to mention Byron, he drove his wife and son home.

When the car stopped, they saw Jerry carrying a lot of food and waving at them.

The faint smile on Byron's face disappeared.

When Martin got out of the car, he ran to Jerry and hugged his thigh.

Jerry put down the two bags of food and lifted Martin high. Their bright smiles were even more heart-wrenching to Byron.

Byron found that Jerry and Martin were like father and son.

"Martin, I brought you two new game controllers. Shall we practice after dinner?"

Martin jumped happily and nodded repeatedly.

Looking at the scene, the Hansen elders felt uncomfortable.

"This man looks more like Martin's father than Byron."

Although Osborn had seen Jerry in Cora's ward, Osborn found nothing wrong.

At that moment, Jerry and Martin were so intimate, and Jerry came downstairs to Cora's apartment with so much food.

The Hansen elders thought Jerry was more like the man in Cora's family than Byron.

"You finally realized that. He has been with Cora for four years and has taken care of Cora and Martin."

When Nora finished her words, Osborn rolled his eyes politely.

"Since you know, why don't you help Byron?"

"I want to, but look at Byron. He is not anxious. Why should I be anxious?"

Jerry carried Martin in his arms and talked to the Yoris family and Cora while walking toward the elevator. Seeing that, Nora urged Byron to catch up with Cora.

Chapter 586 Straighten Your Mind!

A group of people entered Cora's small apartment. The apartment was crowded.

When the Hansen elders and the Yoris family felt uneasy, Jerry took the initiative to prepare to cook.

The Hansen elders hurriedly had a meeting with Byron.

"Byron, what's the relationship between you and Cora? Your rival in love has taken the kitchen as his."

Byron looked up and saw that Jerry was busy talking and laughing with Cora and Martin. His eyes suddenly darkened.

"She wanted to be reconciled with me, but I refused her. Later, she agreed to date Jerry."

As soon as Byron finished his words, he was hit by Nora.

"Why did you refuse? What a good chance! Do you want to give up your child's mom to your love rival?"

Osborn also scolded, "Did you refuse her? Something was wrong with your thoughts. You waited for Cora to coax you. However, it turned out to be self-defeating, and you gave your rival a chance."

Byron didn't know what to say.

He didn't expect Osborn to know his thoughts accurately.

Byron was silent. Seeing that, Nora punched Osborn.

"I said his wisdom would hurt him, but you didn't believe me. Look at him. Isn't the truth right in front of you? His emotional intelligence is enough for him to be a bachelor for a lifetime.

"Although he is rich, tall, and handsome, it's useless."

Osborn was scolded because of Byron and became unhappy. "If you don't help in the kitchen, you have to send her a gift when your wife marries another man."

"If you didn't talk to me, I would have been there." With that, Byron went to help in the kitchen.

However, Nora knew Byron didn't know how to cook.

Therefore, she went to the kitchen too.

In the kitchen, Jerry was cooking.

Cora was helping him, and they were talking and laughing.

"Don't make so many deep-fried ones. Your teeth can't accept it."

"Martin likes it."

"Don't always take Martin as an excuse. I believe you are the one who will eat the most today."

"Ha ha..."

Byron stood between the two of them and fixed his eyes on Cora. "Is there anything I can do?"

Before Cora answered, Jerry said, "Do you know how to cut lettuce? Help me cut the lettuce, and I'll make a salad."

Without saying a word, Byron took the lettuce and the knife and started chopping.

Byron was in a suit and leather shoes, and he was expressionless. When he chopped, he sent shiver running down others' spine.

It seemed that he was not chopping Jerry instead of the lettuce.

However, Jerry didn't seem to know about that. He pointed at the lettuce chopped by Byron and said,

"You chopped it. It's not suitable for the salad."

Byron stuck the knife on the cutting board with a clang.

The sound made everyone in the room look at him in astonishment.

Byron asked Jerry expressionlessly, "Why is it not suitable?"

Jerry said with a smile, "Cora doesn't like chopped lettuce, so it is not suitable."

Neither of them showed an angry expression, but the feeling of being evenly matched and not giving in made others feel like there was something burning.

A conflict was about to break out. Seeing that, Nora hurried forward and picked up the knife that Byron had put down and neatly cut the lettuce.

"Since Cora doesn't like chopped lettuce, I will cut them into tiny pieces."

Although Nora hoped that Byron could be reconciled with Cora, she didn't want Byron's failure to develop into a murder case.

While cutting the lettuce, Nora did not forget to urge Byron.

"Byron, help Cora wash the vegetables. She has just recovered and needs a rest."

Therefore, Byron, who was about to fight, had taken over the vegetables from Cora's hands.

Chapter 587 Some Clues

Cora was sent back to the living room to rest.

That was exactly what the Yoris family wanted.

"Cora, you have just recovered. Don't be tired."

Sara also wanted to help in the kitchen but was coldly rejected by Cora.

She wanted to pull Cora to sit beside her, but Cora also refused.

"I'll play with Martin. I haven't been with him for several days."

Then, Cora played with Martin all the time until dinner was ready.

After Jane was released from prison, she stayed in a hotel.

Although it was a five-star hotel, Jane couldn't get used to living in it because she had always been sheltered by the Yoris family.

If possible, Jane would rather go back to the Yoris Mansion.

However, the Yoris family knew that she was not a child of the Yoris family. How could they allow her to go back?

Byron kicked Jane in prison, but the Yoris family didn't care about her. Jane was full of anger when she thought about that.

"Ah..."

Jane swept everything on the table to the ground and smashed them to pieces, but her anger was not vented.

After thinking about it, she took out her phone and made a call.

"I'll give you another 340 thousand dollars. Maximize the denunciation of Cora, so that the police have to detain her again."

As long as Cora was in prison, Jane would have a chance to kill Cora.

Jane thought Cora had taken everything from her, so Cora had to die.

After Cora died, the Yoris family would be in great pain.

As for Jane...

She knew killing people was against the law. Plenty of people wanted to save her as long as she firmly grasped the cure for cancer.

Thinking that the Yoris family would lose their daughter but could do nothing with her, Jane felt indescribably happy.

After Jane paid 340 thousand dollars, all kinds of articles about Cora causing Isidra's death but being exempted from punishment because of his wealth and power were reposted online.

More and more online games paid attention to the issue, and netizens discussed it below the news.

[If it cannot be resolved, I don't think there will be justice in the world.]

[Isidra is so pitiful. She was brutally murdered by an unscrupulous doctor at such a young age. In the end, she couldn't even get justice. It is probably the tragedy of ordinary people.]

[Isidra is not an ordinary person. If you search for Isidra's brother, you will know she is not ordinary. I can only say the power of capital is great.]

When the blame for Cora and the capital behind her reached the peak, several videos were also quietly posted online.

In one of the videos, an old man suffering from cancer fainted in a small medical clinic, and a young female doctor gave him treatment. The old man was miraculously saved, and the doctor was praised by countless people.

In the other videos, Isidra seemed to recover and was shopping with her bosom friends.

In addition, several cancer patients held their ID cards and supported Cora, saying that their cancer was cured by Cora.

With the spread of the videos, many netizens discovered some clues.

[Is that the medical clinic in Leucrest Town? I heard from my uncle that his cancer was cured there. It is said that a young female doctor developed the medicine. The doctor in the video looks like Dr. Lane.]

[You are right. That's Dr. Lane. Dr. Lane is famous in our city. She cured many cancer patients in

Leucrest Town. She is the heroine of Leucrest Town.]

Chapter 588 Unprepared

Some netizens: [I am Isidra's college roommate, and we are close. I can prove that the girl in the video is her.]

Another netizen: [I am in charge of the spinal cord bank. I just checked the ID card in the video. The man did register with us for spinal cord donation, and he withdrew it last month. The reason for the withdrawal is having recovered.]

Some thought those netizens' comments were credible. However, some believed they were false proofs hired by Cora, so they deliberately liked the comments to make more people see and laugh at them.

In short, the netizens' comments made the videos a trending topic soon.

Therefore, Jane quickly saw those comments.

"Isidra? It was filmed a few years ago. How dare they use it as perjury. Her corpse should be cremated.

How could you see?

"How dare you support Cora? I have taken screenshots of your ID cards and saved them. If you get cancer in the future, I will not help you no matter how you beg me."

Jane was confident in her cancer treatment, so she didn't take those people seriously.

At that moment, a comment appeared.

The poster's ID was "I am Isidra".

The comment: [Friends who want to see whether I am still alive, come to my live stream at 8 o'clock tonight. I will see you soon!]

Jane was panicked. "Is she alive? Impossible."

After she saw the account's information, she laughed.

It was a new account. Apart from the profile picture of Isidra in a hospital gown and the comment, it posted nothing.

In other words, the account wanted to take advantage of Isidra's popularity to live stream.

"I thought it was Isidra, but it turned out someone was taking advantage of a dead man."

Jane threw the phone aside with disdain and began to have dinner sent by the five-star hotel.

After Isidra posted the comment, she asked, "Vaughn, is the comment enough? The account doesn't have a single post. Is it unconvincing?"

She added, "Is an official certification necessary?"

"If you do that, someone will block the account in advance," Vaughn said.

To prove Cora's innocence, Vaughn had also done a lot.

He found someone to take pictures of Isidra and guided public opinion. He would appear in Isidra's live stream. Moreover, he had found a behind-the-scenes team to control the comments. He did it all by himself.

What Vaughn did was not ordered by Byron. He just wanted to express the gratitude of the Wolf family to Cora for curing Isidra.

If what Vaughn did could calm Byron, it would be great.

Even so, the Wolf family would apologize to Cora.

"Is Jane so capable?" Isidra was surprised.

"She is incapable, but she lied she could cure cancer, which made countless ignorant people in power willing to do things for her for themselves or their families."

Vaughn added, "If you want the official certification, I will have someone get it for you five minutes before the live stream."

Isidra's eyes glittered. "I got it. You are going to make her unprepared."

Vaughn smiled.

Soon, it was 7:55 p.m.

Chapter 589 Thoughtful

Isidra's account was quietly certificated.

Many people scolded Cora in the comment sections and wanted to uphold justice for Isidra. Soon, they discovered Isidra's account.

[Have you noticed that I am Isidra has an official certification.]

[If it's not Isidra, how could it be?]

[The live stream will start in five minutes. Let's go to her live stream and take a look. Anyway, there will be no loss for us.]

The netizen's comment was liked more than 10 thousand times, and soon it quietly became a trending topic.

As a result, countless people who wanted to confirm whether "Isidra" was real flocked to Isidra's live stream.

At eight o'clock in the evening, the comment section of Isidra's live stream was maxed out.

[Don't you want to prove that you are Isidra? Why haven't you started yet?]

[You dare not let us see your face because you are chasing the clout. If the cyberbullying happened in real life, you would be in trouble.]

[I think she might be true. Look at the certification. She is a violinist and Vaughn's sister.]

[What's wrong with your mind? Do you believe anything they wrote?]

[The live stream will end before it starts. Let's go.]

At that moment, a picture appeared in the live stream.

A woman in a black dress appeared in the picture.

"Hi, everyone. I'm Isidra. It is my first to live stream, so I'm sorry for being late."

The woman was with red lips and clean teeth. She was so beautiful.

After she showed up, countless questioning remarks appeared in the comment area.

[Isidra was so thin that she would fall in the wind. You'd better lose some weight before cheating us.]

[Isn't it a crime to pretend to be someone else? Let's call the police.]

[Although you do look somewhat similar to Isidra, you can't be so shameless.]

Isidra had a headache, seeing so many comments questioning her identity.

"Why don't you believe me? I'm Isidra. I promise. novelbin

"I was thin because I was sick and would throw up anything I had. After Dr. Lane cured my illness, I could have six meals a day. It's no wonder I'm fat.

"If you don't believe me, I will play the violin for you. It's the music you watched me play in the ward."

Isidra took out her violin while answering netizens' questions in the comment area. Soon, the melodious music came from the live stream.

[The music was played by her when she participated in the show before, but it can't prove she is

Isidra.]

[That's right. Her mental state and weight are different.]

The doubts in the comment area did not stop.

At that moment, a male voice came into Isidra's live stream.

"Isidra, has the live stream started? How is it going?"

Isidra didn't conceal anything and responded to the man's question in the live stream.

"Vaughn, the live stream has started, but they still don't believe that I am Isidra. I even played the violin for them."

While Isidra was answering, someone continued to leave messages in the comment area.

[Is there someone playing Vaughn?]

[Liars are so thoughtful.]

When everyone discussed, the man's voice came from the live stream. "Let me see."

In less than two seconds, Vaughn appeared behind Isidra.

Chapter 590 The Situation Changed

The moment Vaughn appeared, no one left messages in the comment area for a moment.

When everyone was silent, Vaughn took the chance to speak. "Hello, everyone. I am Vaughn. I am not lying."

The man in front of the camera was in a suit, and his hair was well-groomed, but he was relaxed, which couldn't be seen in political news.

He pulled off his tie and said casually, "I have clarified with everyone that Isidra has recovered under the treatment of Dr. Lane, but few people believe that.

"In the past few days, the situation became out of control. We even discovered that many overseas accounts were guiding public opinion. We run on the live stream to get justice to Dr. Lane as soon as possible."

Vaughn was expressionless but had a power that was difficult for ordinary people to match, so everyone had to listen to him.

When Vaughn finished his words, the comment area, which had been silent for a long time, had new messages.

[Oh my, he's Vaughn. I have gone to watch tonight's political news. Vaughn is wearing that suit, and even the tie is exactly the same.]

[I have never expected that I could talk to Mr. Wolf in the live stream in my lifetime.]

[We believe that you are Mr. Wolf, but Isidra's appearance is so different.]

Vaughn took a look at the comment area. Many netizens were still questioning Isidra, so he raised his hand and touched Isidra's head.

"Isidra has suffered a lot in the past few years. She was so painful every day that she couldn't have meals normally. Especially in the past two years, she almost vomited whatever she had. She could only survive by putting on a drip."

Vaughn continued, "Because of Dr. Lane's medicine, Isidra has recovered. Now, she has a good appetite. She likes to have steaks, pizza, and milkshake. Occasionally, she wants to have supper."

"Vaughn, if you go on, everyone knows that you are raising a pig."

"Isn't it good to be a pig? I'd rather you be a pig, so I can rest assured." Vaughn touched Isidra's head again.

Isidra's eyes were red. "Vaughn, don't worry about me. From now on, I will be fine."

Through the screen, everyone could feel that Vaughn and Isidra cherished their life after Isidra regained health.

Everyone began to believe that the girl was Isidra.

"If someone still doesn't believe that this is Isidra, you can look for those photos of her before she got novelbin sick. There is no difference from her current appearance.

"Besides, Dr. Lane cured Isidra. She has helped the Wolf family. If someone wants to ruin Dr. Lane's fame, he will be the enemy of me, Vaughn Wolf, and the Wolf family. We will defend Dr. Lane's legal rights with the law."

After Vaughn said that, he announced, "I'll have a transnational video conference later, so let's call it a day."

Vaughn spoke sententiously. Then, he stopped the live stream after explaining everything.

People trying to guide the opinion in the live stream dared not to say anything wrong about Cora.

They only dared to say: [If Dr. Lane can cure cancer, Dr. Yoris' medicine is also not bad.]

[Dr. Yoris' medicine should be more effective than Dr. Lane's treatment. Dr. Yoris cured cancer before.]

Many people asked: [What about Dr. Yoris' ten patients? Isidra has recovered. How about them now?"]

"The ten people were on live stream before. Why haven't they been on live stream recently?"