

Snatched 632

Chapter 632 Go and Find Him!

Cora panicked inexplicably and quickly opened the only letter.

On it was Jerry's handwriting: [Cora, when you read this letter, I should already be several thousand meters above the sky and heading to Spain. The last three requests were made out of my willfulness. I didn't expect you to really compromise. At this point, I feel as if I have won over your ex-husband. So these few days are the happiest I have had since then. Thank you very much for allowing me to be self-willed at the last moment and leave us terrific memories. I'm sorry to say goodbye to you and Martin this way because I don't like seeing you or him cry. But in a corner deep in my heart, there is still a place for you. I'm just sorry. I may not dare to meet you again in the future. I'm afraid I can't help it because I love you very much and have already regarded you two as my family. In the end, I must say, Cora, I like you very much. I will never be your friend for the rest of my life after I fell in love with you at the very first sight I saw you. But I know that you will not be happy staying by my side, so go find him. I believe that after going through so much turmoil, he should know how to cherish your hard-won love even more. Tell him I will always pay attention to you. Once he makes you unhappy, I will come to take you away at any time. From Jerry, who loves you and Martin forever!]

After she read the letter, Cora's tears were like beads with a broken thread.

She quickly took out her mobile phone and called Jerry. But his phone was turned off.

Cora once took Martin with her, wanting to leave the fast-food restaurant and go to the airport to find Jerry.

But when she reached the door, her footsteps stopped again.

What should she do after finding Jerry at the airport? Ask him to stay here?

But could she give Jerry the love he wanted? She couldn't give it.

Her heart was not big, and she could only accommodate one person in her life.

So even if they chased Jerry to the airport because of reluctance to let him leave, their ending would still not change.

Her tears burst even more at that moment. Jerry's letter made it clear that they might never see each other again in this life.

The man who used to be like an elder brother gave her warmth beyond friendship and took good care of her and Martin but never complained. She would never see him again in this life.

She shouldn't have left so soon if she had known that the separation after the tooth extraction was novelbin permanent.

Regret, sadness, and depression... All kinds of emotions were intertwined, which made her cry.

Martin also seemed to understand something from her crying. He looked at the blue sky outside the glass window of the fast-food restaurant, and his eyes were full of sadness...

Perhaps it was because Jerry left hastily and firmly, which caused Cora to have a lot of resistance to Leucrest Town.

Two days later, she booked a flight back to New York. Before leaving, she took Martin to visit John again.

John was still the same as before, sitting in the yard and playing with the birds.

But she didn't know if Jerry's departure made his back look slightly lonely.

But when he saw Martin, John was still as happy as ever. "Martin, come here quickly."

Martin happily ran forward and let John hold him to watch the birds.

When they had almost finished playing, John asked Cora, "Is everything ready?"

"Well, it's almost there." Cora nodded.

"If you leave this time, even if you come back again, you won't be able to stay forever." John was obviously sentimental.

But he understood that there was no banquet in the world that never ended. Cora didn't belong here and would leave here sooner or later...