

Snatched 637

Chapter 637 Crisis

Being stared at by Carter was a little uncomfortable, Byron said coldly,

"I have given her the storefront. Do I need to send her all kinds of papers?"

He just wanted to see if she would succumb to him by giving her a storefront.

Otherwise, every time he succumbed to her, feeling that love was his one-man show.

"Alright, I'll send them to Miss Lane right now," Carter said.

Anyway, it was not Carter who was in love, so it didn't make any difference to him whether to send them or not.

So, Carter took the relevant documents and called Cora.

"Miss Lane, it is me, Carter."

"Carter, what's the matter?"

"Mr. Hansen wants to give you something. Where are you now?"

"I'm at the Yoris Mansion."

Soon, Carter set off to the Yoris Mansion.

The Yoris Mansion was very lively today, and the whole mansion was decorated with balloons.

When Carter arrived, the steward of the Yoris family was still instructing the servants at the gate.

"What's the matter?"

When following the steward into the house, Carter asked.

"Miss Lane took Mr. Martin Lane to dinner at home today. Old Mr. Yoris thought he would like these, so he asked us to do it."

The steward added, "By the way, Tyler just happened to come to visit Sir Yoris today. I didn't expect that he and Miss Lane know each other..."

Hearing this, Carter didn't feel anything wrong at first.

Until he followed the steward into the hall of the Yoris Mansion and saw Tyler, who was more mature,

talking happily with Cora... novelbin

At that moment, he felt that even as Martin's father, Byron still faced a crisis.

After thinking about it, Carter secretly took a picture of Cora and Tyler talking happily and sent it to Byron.

After that, he entered the hall.

"Carter."

Cora was the first to notice Carter.

Carter's poker face forced a smile, and after responding to Cora, he greeted the elders of the Yoris family and Tyler.

"Mr. Cooper seems to be planning to return to New York for development?"

Tyler hadn't appeared in New York for several years, and in the chat with Cora, he frequently mentioned some work problems, so Carter asked directly.

"Well, I've been studying outside for a few years, and now I'm planning to settle down. It just happens that Cora has returned to New York, so we can exchange ideas at any time."

Tyler said and smiled at Cora.

No matter how long they had been separated without talking, they could still talk about everything when meeting again, and their views and ideas were also consistent.

Tyler and Cora were like this.

Even though their emotions at the beginning had faded, the two still maintained the same level of thinking, especially many ideas and surgical technical exchanges, which were still inspiring.

After the communication, Carter felt that there was nothing to do with Byron.

Fortunately, Cora remembered something. "Carter, what did you say you want to give me?"

Carter originally wanted to give this thing to Cora after Tyler left and praise Byron, so Cora might reconcile with him as soon as possible.

But the elders of the Yoris family asked Tyler to have dinner together, and Tyler also agreed.

Although they also asked Carter, Byron was still waiting for his feedback, so he refused.

Now that Cora asked, Carter directly took out the store's transfer documents...