Chapter 638 Party

Cora took it, looked it over, and found that it was the transfer document of the store.

The store was located in a commercial area, and the surrounding traffic was also extremely convenient.

"Hearing that you were looking for a store, Mr. Hansen transferred this store to you."

Carter was about to say something, but Cora had already spoken first.

"No thanks."

Cora gave the file back to Carter.

This was what Carter never expected.

"Miss Lane, if you don't accept it, it will be very difficult for me to tell Mr. Hansen when I go back."

He originally thought that Byron's gift of the store would solve Cora's urgent need, so she should accept it.

Moreover, the location of this store was excellent, and the value was high, s ordinary people wouldn't refuse.

But Cora refused that.

Cora said, "But I have found a suitable store."

At this time, Sara had just finished working in the kitchen and came out to participate in the topic. "Cora and I have already found a place in the afternoon, and I have paid the full amount. Mr. Pope should put away the documents and have dinner together."

Tyler stood up to help Sara. "Sara, what else do you need to help?"

"I made some sausages for Martin. You can fetch them from the kitchen for me."

Tyler went to the kitchen, and Cora hurriedly followed behind. "Let me help you, Tyler."

Seeing Tyler getting along well with the Yoris family, Carter could only stand up and say goodbye.

When the others started eating, William quietly called Sara aside.

"Don't get involved in the matter of Cora and Byron."

The more others got involved, the harder it was to reconcile.

But Sara was a little unhappy.

"I don't want to join in, but when he wants to give something to Cora, he should have shown up. He asks Mr. Pope to give it. Does he only make a perfunctory effort?"

Speaking of this, Sara looked in the direction of the dining table. Seeing Cora and Tyler talking happily and Tyler taking good care of Martin, she smiled.

"I remember Tyler also liked Cora before. So I can't let Tyler look down on Cora."

William also knew what Sara meant. If Byron and Cora couldn't get back together, Tyler would be their new son-in-law.

Although he was still optimistic about Byron, he didn't know how to speak for him as Byron didn't show up.

At this time, Arnold also urged, "What are you doing there? Have dinner together. Cora and Martin are rarely at home!"

"I'm coming."

Both William and Sara returned to the dining table...

After Carter left, Byron stayed in the office alone.

But he couldn't focus on a single document, so he kept waiting for Carter's feedback or Cora's call.

In the end, he only received a picture from Carter.

In the picture, Cora and Tyler were talking with smiles on their faces.

And when Tyler was talking to Cora, he was still putting vegetables into the child's plate.

If the woman and child in the photo were not Cora and Martin, he might have thought it was a family of novelbin three.

Seeing their happy smiles, Byron had the urge to smash his phone and ruin everything.

But at this moment, Carter sent another new message, [Miss Lane didn't accept the store and
