

Snatched 811

Chapter 811 Temper From Being Alone

When Georgia was with Lenard before, she was cautious in everything, fearing that he would discover her identity.

She was also worried that if she had a relationship with Lenard and he found out later that she was from the Hansen family, he wouldn't be able to stand the pressure and leave her.

So she insisted on it all the time that the two would be together only after they got married.

Even during the heat of the moment, when they kissed occasionally, she always stayed clear-headed.

Whenever Lenard behaved out of order, she immediately pushed him away to stop those uncontrollable things from happening.

But in front of Efren, she found that she could not stay so clear-headed.

Even if she knew, the problems in front of them were no less than those with Lenard before.

But when she faced Efren, she just couldn't help it. She couldn't help but sink.

So much so that in the end, she seemed to be more into this kiss than Efren and even vaguely expected something to happen.

However, at this critical moment, Efren let go of her.

Suddenly without the man's embrace, Georgia was a little lost.

Efren looked down from above at her condescendingly, seeing her eyes gleaming with confusion and anticipation. He couldn't help laughing.

"Why? Not enough?"

Georgia came back to her senses and realized what the man had asked. Her face blushed immediately.

"Did I?"

She was not that type of woman!

"Then, why are your cheeks so red? Why are you holding on to me?"

The man continued to admire the girl's embarrassment.

"I..."

Georgia lowered her head and realized her hands still held onto Efren's shirt.

She immediately felt that the shirt was like a piece of hot coal and quickly let go of it.

"I didn't. Don't be ridiculous. I just..."

It was just that she had never been so intimate with a man before, and she was very nervous, so she wanted to hold on to something.

But she thought, if she explained it this way, Efren would probably feel that she was anxious to prove her innocence.

But she wouldn't know how to justify herself if she didn't say it.

The more she thought about it, the more annoyed she became, and she couldn't understand why.

When in front of Lenard before, she was pretty calm and now became so awkward in front of Efren!

Then, it was Efren who closed in from behind and hugged her. "Okay, I know you're nervous."

His breathing was still unstable, and seemed on the verge of restraint.

At such close range, Georgia could even hear his heartbeat, which was fast.

This proved that he had lost control just now because of her.

Georgia even wondered if she would go all the way with Efren today. Then the man suddenly let go of her again.

"I'm going to take a shower." Then, he went into the bathroom without looking back.

Georgia was left alone on the bed, bewildered.

"What the hell is this?" She thought. "Toying with me and let go?"

Did he think she was touched by Lenard and was polluted?

Or did he think she was not as good as a woman with big breasts and a big ass like Susan, so reluctant to continue with her?

While Efren was taking a shower, with no exception, Georgia had another self-defeating experience.

When Efren came out of the bathroom wearing a robe, he saw that the pillows, quilts, and cushions on the bed before had all been kicked to the ground.

Even the suit jacket he had hung on the rack before was not spared...

"What's the matter? Can't you stay out of your temper if you are by yourself?"

Efren didn't blame her but patiently picked up a pillow on the floor and put it back on the bed.

But when Georgia saw that he didn't lose his temper, she became even more angry.

Seeing that he picked up the pillow and put it on the bed, she kicked it again, causing it to roll back to the ground...

Chapter 812 Let's Make a Deal

Efren looked at the pillow that rolled to the ground again but still kept his cool.

He simply sat beside Georgia, put his arms around her waist, and asked her, "How did the pillow offend you? How about I get someone to take it apart and burn it for you to vent your anger?"

This extremely pampering tone was indeed what Georgia liked.

But when she thought this man didn't want her, she became frustrated again.

So once again, she started pushing.

But this time, the object of her pushing was Efren.

But Efren was not a pillow, something that would not resist.

He quickly evaded her claws and nimbly pushed her down and under him.

Then, from the top advantage point, he asked her with a smile, "Why? Do you want to occupy the whole bed?"

"I don't want this bed!" Georgia felt more annoyed seeing Efren smiling all the time.

Since he didn't want her, why keep on provoking her?

She turned her face away, no longer wanting to look at the man's smiling face.

But the man hooked her chin and forced her to face him.

"Don't want the bed. What do you want? Me?"

When he asked this, his face moved a little closer.

The lips of the two were about to touch again, but short of kissing.

The distance between kissing and not kissing was even more ambiguous.

Georgia thought that if he refused to move forward, she might as well make a move, then the man suddenly let go.

This made Georgia stunned a little again. When she was about to get close to the man to see what was wrong with him and whether there were any hidden health issues, she heard the man say, "The cold shower was wasted, have to take another one."

The man, with his robe on, walked toward the bathroom again.

Georgia wanted to follow.

She wanted to question Efren. If he didn't want her so much, why was he so keen on her last time at his lakeside villa in Cloudville?

If she hadn't tried her best to stop him, then he would have eaten her up long ago.

Now that he chased all the way to New York and pretended to be a saint!

But as she followed a few steps, Efren quickly turned around to stop her. "Don't follow, or I really can't help but have you in the hotel."

Georgia looked at Efren in astonishment.

So he let her down repeatedly because he didn't want such a thing to happen in the hotel?

Perhaps her doubts were expressed too obviously, so Efren explained, "The hotel is not the rightful place. I don't want our best memories to happen in this kind of place."

Now, Georgia understood.

It turned out that in a man's heart, she was precious.

So the best memory of the two of them, he wanted it to happen on his own territory.

With such a clear explanation, she immediately felt like she had flown to the top of the clouds.

Hell in one second, heaven the next. That was probably how it feels like.

So even though Efren spent a long time taking the second cold shower in the bathroom later, Georgia didn't feel lonely and even thought of the sound of cold water splashing as extraordinarily tranquil.

After Efren came out of the bathroom, he fell asleep.

Georgia didn't leave either, and she just stayed by his side.

Initially, she just wanted to look at him a little longer, then go to the office.

But maybe it was because she didn't rest well last night. Leaning against Efren's side, she also fell asleep in a daze.

However, while the two were snuggled up and sleeping soundly. They didn't know that Susan was standing outside the door at this time.

She had been looking forward to Georgia coming out of the room, but that didn't happen.

She was so angered that her fingernails sank into her palm!

She waited outside the door for more than two hours, but Georgia did not come out, and finally, she dialed someone's phone. "Mr. Lenard Sheldon? Let's make a deal..."

Chapter 813 Bite Off More Than One Can Chew

Lenard and Susan met in a fancy restaurant.

Before him, Lenard looked at the woman with a graceful curve and a face that was one in a million. He couldn't conceal his surprise.

But at the same time, his brows were furrowed because he didn't know the woman in front of him.

But this woman got his contact information from somewhere, not only called him but also went to the logistics company where he was working to find him and proposed to have dinner together.

Yes, after the Hansen Group fired Lenard, he couldn't find a decent job anywhere.

At the moment, he could only work as a porter in a logistics company not owned by the Hansen Group, barely making ends meet.

As for Layla and her family, Lenard really didn't want to pay attention to them.

If it weren't for them, he would still be on good terms with Georgia now, and he might have become the Hansen Group's new son-in-law.

However, Layla found out she was pregnant a few days ago and even brought the ultrasound photo to the logistics company.

With the mediation from the management of the company, Lenard had to go back to live with her again.

But after living together, Lenard found out that Layla's father, Hadley, was sent to the hospital for emergency treatment after he collapsed at the Hansen family some time ago and spent all the savings the Kardon family had to save him.

At the moment, the whole family was living in a crowded rental house, and even the basic daily expenses depended on Lenard.

Lenard was going crazy.

He chose to be with Layla to improve his current life.

But in the end, his life didn't improve, and her family might drag him into the abyss.

Maybe it was because life was too hard, so even if he knew that the other party was not kind, he still couldn't help but go to the appointment of this beautiful woman.

"Mr. Sullivan, I know you must be curious about what I'm looking for from you. Don't worry. Let's talk while eating."

Susan knew how to show off her femininity, which stunned Lenard.

Then, he sat across from her and began to eat those items that looked very delicate but couldn't fill his stomach at all.

"What exactly is Miss Thayer looking for from me? It's better to say it clearly. I only have half an hour and will have to return to the warehouse."

Working in the warehouse of a logistics company, he moved goods non-stop every day.

This also meant that he must eat something to fill his stomach to have the strength to do his job.

He didn't want to wait until the talk was over, and he didn't even have time to eat, and then return to that damn place to move goods.

Seeing that he was a little impatient, Susan put down the knife and fork.

"Mr. Sullivan, you are Miss Georgia Hansen's former boyfriend, right?"

When Lenard heard that name, his face suddenly became ferocious. "Are you here to make fun of me?"

Georgia had become his unattainable dream and the source of all his pain.

He didn't want to hear anything related to Georgia!

"No, I'm here to help you." Susan suddenly smiled, and her smile was brighter than the sunlight outside the window.

Lenard couldn't help thinking of the words femme fatale.

"What can I do? The Hansen family dominates, and my current situation resulted from that domination!"

Lenard thought of his current situation and closed his eyes almost in despair.

"Forget it. I'm not stupid as to bite off more than I can chew."

"I can understand that, but you are willing to be a cuckold?"

What Susan said coldly made Lenard open his eyes in surprise.

Chapter 814 She Cheated on Him?

"Impossible. Georgia is not that kind of girl."

Although Lenard questioned Georgia's motives for not telling him about her family background, he realized how ridiculous his thoughts were after carefully recalling the details of their time together.

If Georgia didn't like him at the beginning, it would be impossible to accompany him to go cheap night markets every night, let alone be so happy because of the fake necklace he gave her.

She was a good girl, but he lost their fate.

But under Lenard's veto, Susan immediately took a few photos from her bag. "You can see for yourself.

There are dates on the bottom of these photos."

Lenard took the photo, and his expression suddenly changed.

Because in those photos, Georgia was very intimate with a handsome man.

In some of them, they even kissed intimately among the scenery of lakes and mountains.

Looking at the date of the photo, it was actually around this time.

"This..."

Lenard felt his chest was congested.

Georgia had been with him for such a long time, and kissing him in such ecstasy may not be possible.

Combined with the dates of these photos, he really began to wonder if Georgia was with the man in the photos before breaking up with him.

When Susan saw Lenard's face turning pale, she smiled slightly.

During the time Georgia stayed in Cloudville, she didn't conflict with her. It was just to reduce her defense.

But Georgia was too cunning. As long as Susan was present, she didn't get close to Efren.

Until that day, when she went to the villa by the lake again, she accidentally ran into the scene where

Georgia and Efren were kissing by the lake...

At that time, she was extremely mad and even thought about rushing up and pushing Georgia directly into the lake.

But in the end, she suppressed the crazy jealousy and took out her phone.

She thought there might be a place for these photos to come in handy.

Later, after she finished taking the photos, she began to investigate Georgia.

Unexpectedly, she actually got something. Georgia had a boyfriend who just broke up...

"Now you can see clearly! What is your plan?" Seeing that Lenard had finished looking at the photos, Susan asked him with great interest.

"What plans can I have? Even if she really cheated me, do I dare to trouble her? Is the Hansen family someone I can afford to offend?"

Lenard was indeed angry, but he was also afraid of the authority of the Hansen family.

Especially after he had already suffered a lot in the Hansen family, he didn't dare to be as reckless as before when it came to Georgia's affairs.

But Susan said, "I'm not asking you to trouble her. I just want you to do a little favor."

"Then you should ask others for help. My life is messed up enough now. I don't have time to meddle in other people's affairs."

Lenard wanted to refuse and even got up to leave the restaurant.

But Susan said again at this moment, "After the matter is done, I can give you 1.6 million dollars, as well as the air tickets and passports of your whole family. You can take them to any country."

Lenard paused.

1.6 million dollars, and the family's passports and air tickets...

He could get rid of Layla's family and the current predicament.

But he also knew that Susan wanted him to do some tricky things with this kind of offer.

If he failed, he may even lose his current life.

"I am eager to change the current state of my life, but I am not brainless." After saying this, Lenard left.

But Susan said unwillingly to his back, "If you change your mind, you can call me anytime..."

Chapter 815 Accidental Injury?

Lenard hastily returned to the logistics company, past the rest time.

Even if he wasn't full from the meal just now, he still had to devote himself to work.

Because the supervisor here was very strict and would fire the employees if they failed to do a good job.

The key was that the people gathered here were all real physical workers.

They were not highly educated, and it was obviously not suitable for them to seek other jobs.

So even if the work here was very hard already, they could make it even harder.

In order to keep his job, Lenard could only force himself.

But going to work without a full meal was obviously not acceptable.

When Lenard was carrying a large cargo, he lost his strength and let go, and the cargo fell on his leg.

"Ah..." He was in pain.

After hearing his sound, other workers rushed over.

"There are people injured."

"Call the emergency quickly!"

Later, Lenard passed out.

Waking up again, before opening his eyes, he heard such a conversation in the room.

"He made such a fuss with just a bit of leg injury. I thought he was dead."

He recognized that this was Layla's mother, Jennifer's voice.

"It will be good if he died, and there will be a lot of compensation."

It was Layla's voice, full of annoyance.

She also said, "Now he just hurt his leg, and he can't do this kind of heavy work in the future. Maybe I have to support him."

The voices of Hadley, his father-in-law, also joined in. "I think you might as well have an abortion and marry another one."

"Dad, it's not that you don't know that I had two abortions before, and now the uterus is very thin. If I get this aborted again, the doctor said that I might not be able to have children in this life."

"But now that he has framed us like this, his own livelihood will become a problem in the future. Do we need to support him for the rest of his life?"

Hadley was almost out of breath...

Lenard actually couldn't listen to what they said afterward.

He was so sad that his heart almost died.

He betrayed Georgia back then to be with Layla, and he ended up like this.

She had two abortions, and the uterus was very thin.

But what was even more irritating were the bitch's parents.

If the family hadn't used the promotion to lure him back then, he wouldn't have broken up with Georgia.

It turned out they wouldn't let him go after they made his life a mess.

Now they even said that he framed them?

Disgusting!

It was fucking disgusting!

And the most desperate thing was revealed inadvertently during the family conversation that his legs could no longer do heavy work.

He could only find the drudgery now so as not to be hindered by the Hansen family.

But God wouldn't even let him have the only way to make a living.

For the rest of his life, was he really going to be locked up with the disgusting Kardon family?

No...

He didn't want to struggle in hell anymore.

So that night, when Layla was sleeping like a dead pig, he called Susan back.

"Miss Thayer, I promise to help you. But you need to give me at least 3.3 million when things are done."

Intuition told Lenard that what Susan asked him to do must be very dangerous.

Since it was dangerous, it shouldn't be a problem for him to ask for more money to ensure that even if he couldn't do heavy jobs after going abroad, he would be able to live comfortably.

"Okay. 3.3 million it is. From now on, you have to follow my orders..."

The day after the call ended, Lenard sat in a wheelchair and appeared in front of Georgia's company.

Chapter 816 He Was Never Handsome

Georgia hadn't come to work in the company for the past few days because Efren was in New York.

Therefore, she always used the excuse of working time to find Efren and stay together with him.

She didn't know if Efren really intended to do projects in New York or if he just didn't want to part with her. He hadn't left New York these days.

After finishing his work every day, he would take Georgia to play around.

Now Georgia looked forward to working time almost every day!

As soon as the time came, she would rush to Efren.

But early this morning, someone from the company called and said, "Ms. Georgia Hansen, Mr. Sullivan is here."

"Mr. Sullivan? Which Mr. Sullivan?"

Maybe it was because she was so happy with Efren during this time. The matter of Lenard was as far away as the last life to Georgia.

Until the person on the phone told her, "It's Mr. Lenard Sheldon."

Georgia was taken aback. "Lenard? What is he doing in the company?"

They had broken up, and he had been married.

Georgia didn't think Lenard still had a reason to come to her again.

"I'm not sure, but he looks terrible. Anyway, you'd better come and see for yourself. Otherwise, I'm worried that if he just sits at the door of our company, it will really damage our company's image."

The company was founded by Georgia, and now it had finally started to get on the right track. She didn't want it to be destroyed.

"Okay, I'll go there now. If he makes trouble, you can ask some security guards to control him."

Georgia was actually quite worried that Lenard would suddenly go berserk like he did at Grandma's birthday banquet last time, hurting her staff.

But the person on the other side of the phone said, "Mr. Sullivan won't be able to make trouble now."

"Why?"

"You can see for yourself."

After finishing the phone call, Georgia sent a message to Efren, saying that she might be late.

Efren didn't blame her but said that he had someone prepare breakfast and that they could have breakfast together if she came early.

Of course Georgia wanted to have breakfast with him.

So she promised, "I will definitely rush there as soon as possible."

Then, she rushed to the company without stopping.

When she arrived at the door of the company, she understood why the person on the phone said that Lenard should not be able to cause trouble now.

Because he was currently sitting in a wheelchair, and his left leg was still in a plaster cast.

In addition, the shirt on his body was wrinkled, and his mental state was quite sluggish.

She didn't know if it was because of Efren for comparison or Lenard's poor state.

When they met again, Georgia actually asked herself in her heart, why did she think Lenard was handsome back then?

Only later did she realize that it was not Lenard who was handsome, but that she really loved him.

Lenard also saw Georgia.

She was wearing a custom-made light blue dress with an unconcealable noble aura all over her body.

She was as beautiful as a fairy descending from heaven.

Lenard stared at her, wondering for a moment why he couldn't see that Georgia's background was extraordinary.

Even though she deliberately wore cheap clothes at the time, her manner and the way she talked were obviously noble.

It was something Layla couldn't catch up with in her whole life!

Looking at her again, Lenard still felt throbbing.

Just thinking of those photos where Georgia and another man kissed so intimately, the ripples in his heart instantly calmed down...

After adjusting in a good mood, he greeted Georgia with a smile.

"Georgia, I called you several times, but you blocked me. I have no choice but to come here to find you..."

Chapter 817 Happy Smile

"I don't think it's necessary for us to meet."

Georgia looked at the passersby in the company and said again, "Let's go in and talk. Don't delay their work."

Lenard was slightly surprised when she spoke.

Because Georgia now was really different from when they were in love before.

Even her tone and demeanor didn't seem to take him seriously.

It probably was because she was in a relationship with that man, so she didn't pay attention to him.

Lenard laughed at himself in his heart.

But for 3.3 million dollars, he still nodded with a smile and followed Georgia to her office.

"Make a cup of coffee for Mr. Sullivan."

In the office, Georgia gave orders to the secretary.

And Lenard looked up and down at the decoration in Georgia's office, as well as some samples placed on the shelves.

This was a skincare brand, which was just established in the past two years, and was still following the route of a high-end luxury brand.

Because Layla also used this brand before, Lenard specially bought her a set in order to please her.

At that time, this skin care product set cost him a lot of money. He thought it was expensive, so he checked the brand and found out the information on it.

But Lenard learned more about this brand from the advertisements that popped up on TVs and computers today.

He also saw that many actresses were currently active in speaking for this brand.

At that time, he was still wondering how this brand had so much money and could invite so many beauties as endorsements.

It was just that he never thought this was the brand created by Georgia...

Lenard quickly stopped, not daring to continue thinking.

Because every time he thought about this, the more he thought about it, the more he would regret it.

And then, he would be immersed in sadness and could not extricate himself.

At this time, Georgia asked him, "What do you want from me? Tell me quickly. I still have things to do."

"Georgia, you have really changed a lot." Lenard was still staring at the display cabinets without looking back at her.

His voice was hoarse and self-deprecating.

Georgia was stunned for a moment because she had never seen Lenard so depressed.

But her tone quickly became usual. "People change. Don't you change, too?"

"But you wouldn't be so indifferent to me before." Lenard said again.

In the past, as long as he showed a little tiredness, Georgia would care for him and even send him various nourishing soups.

But now that he sat in a wheelchair, Georgia didn't even ask a simple question.

Lenard still couldn't accept such a big gap.

"You also know that was in the past. At that time, we were boyfriend and girlfriend, and it was my duty to care about you, but now we have nothing to do with each other. I shouldn't act the same as before."

When Georgia was talking, she saw a new message coming in on her phone, so she hurriedly checked it.

It was from Efren.

There was only one photo on it, which was the breakfast made by the hotel today, and everything was her favorite.

Georgia couldn't help but smile.

With Efren, no matter what happened, he would accommodate her unconditionally.

This feeling was wonderful.

No matter what she did, she didn't have to be cautious.

She smiled and replied to the message: [I'm so hungry! I'll go eat right away!]

When Lenard turned his head, he happened to see the happy smile on Georgia's face.

That smile made him feel a little dizzy for a while, thinking that this was when they were in love.

But when he saw that Georgia's eyes were on the phone, the sternness in his eyes suddenly surfaced.

Chapter 818 I Beg You?

Lenard thought of something later and quickly hid the strange look.

Then, he slowly talked about what happened recently.

"Georgia, I've been working in a logistics company recently. I work hard every day to carry goods. I'm so tired that my waist was protruding, and I only have about 700 dollars a month at most..."

When Georgia heard him speak again, she turned her eyes back to him.

"As long as you live frugally, you can still live a good life with 700 dollars a month."

Although Lenard was pitiful, he was hateful as well.

Lenard's previous job wasn't good, but he could still make about 1, 200 dollars a month.

If he worked hard, he would definitely be promoted in the next two years.

In addition, if he married Georgia, with the wedding gift from her parents and grandparents, Lenard would for sure live a rather wealthy life.

But he insisted on taking a shortcut to become what he was today.

So Georgia really didn't sympathize with him at all now.

Lenard smiled when he heard Georgia's words.

With 700 dollars a month, how could he live a good life?

She really was the daughter of a rich family, and she didn't know the sufferings of the world!

But besides cynicism, he had not forgotten the purpose of coming to her today.

He immediately showed a sad look to Georgia. "But now I can't even earn the 700 dollars..."

Georgia was slightly surprised.

After Lenard received her gaze, he continued, "My leg was injured when I was carrying the goods.

Although it will not endanger my life, I cannot do heavy work in the future.

"I know you must feel that I deserve this. I also know that I am suffering everything now because I betrayed you, so I was punished. But I still hope that you can help me..."

Georgia listened to Lenard's hoarse voice, telling about the recent tragic situation, her heart was still a little fluctuating, and she felt that her tears were about to fall.

But she insisted. "I can't help you."

It was her uncle Byron who took the initiative to deal with Lenard and even Layla's family.

All of this was for her to vent her anger.

Otherwise, there was no need for someone like Byron to care about these people.

She wasn't ignorant, and she persuaded Byron not to go against them again.

Lenard was once again rejected by Georgia, and his hand on the armrest of the wheelchair visibly tightened.

His hands were slightly white due to excessive force.

But at the same time, his tone and demeanor were still so humble.

"But Georgia, I really can't think of any other way to survive except to beg you now. I know that I am terrible. But I really need a job, a job that can support me and my family, and also my elderly parents..."

"You can find other jobs, not necessarily in a logistics company. Although the Hansen family has a big business, it does not cover all industries. As long as you are patient, you will find a job that suits you and can support you."

"But I'm exhausted. I've run into walls everywhere and been looked down upon by others. I'm discouraged now. If possible, can you arrange for me to be a warehouse manager in your company, for the sake that we loved each other before? Do you want me to kneel and beg you..."

Lenard's tone was extremely humble.

Georgia felt distressed.

It was indeed like what Lenard said because they had been in love, she really couldn't bear to see him being so pitiful.

But did she really want to arrange for him to work in her own company?

While hesitating, Efren called...

Chapter 819 Human Effort

Georgia hesitated for a moment but still picked up Efren's call.

She was afraid that Efren would think she and her ex-boyfriend were still in touch, but she was more eager to see Efren.

Perhaps it was because she experienced Lenard's darkness during this time. Now to her, Efren was like a ray of sunshine shining into her life, which could instantly dispel the haze in her heart.

"Honey, aren't you done yet? Foods are going to be cold."

The moment the phone was connected, Efren's deep and pleasant voice came.

As Georgia thought, her world instantly became bright and transparent, and the haze disappeared.

"I'm almost ready. If you're hungry, just eat first. I'll be right over."

"Is it something difficult? Do you need your boyfriend to help?"

There was a faint smile in Efren's voice, which made Georgia forget the unhappiness with Lenard just now, and she also smiled slightly.

"No, I'll be fine right away. I'll be there in ten minutes..."

Georgia was talking on the phone with her back turned to Lenard, so she didn't notice the sinister look on Lenard's face when she was talking with Efren with a smile.

With that smile on her face, it looked like she was chatting with that man.

They had only been separated for a short while. How could she be with someone else so soon?

And she must have gotten together with this man behind Lenard's back long ago!

Damn bitch!

How could she accuse himself of betraying her?

But thinking about what Susan ordered him to do next and the 3.3 million dollars she promised, Lenard suddenly felt a lot more at ease.

Soon, Georgia finished appeasing Efren, and the phone call ended.

"Georgia..."

Seeing her put away her mobile phone, Lenard pushed the wheelchair forward and was about to continue talking about the topic just now.

However, Georgia, who had been unwilling to agree before, suddenly said, "If you want to work in my company, I can make that happen. However, I have one condition."

Lenard was taken aback.

He didn't understand why Georgia suddenly changed her mind.

Was it because he was in a hurry to date that man, or...

However, Lenard knew these were not issues he should worry about now.

"What condition?"

"I'll arrange for you to work in our company's warehouse, and I can also arrange for you to have two helpers so that you don't have to do heavy work. But you must promise me that you will never appear in front of me again."

Being eager to go to Efren's appointment was one thing. On the other hand, Efren's love healed her and made her willing to forgive all the bad things in the world.

"Georgia... do we really have to be like this?"

Lenard actually wanted to carry out Susan's task by working in Georgia's company.

But Georgia even suggested he should never appear in front of her again, so what about his next mission?

She asked him back, "Do you not feel disgusted? If you don't, I do."

Every time she saw Lenard's face, she would still unconsciously see the picture of him and Layla together, making her sick.

"If you don't agree, then just forget what I said."

Georgia really didn't want to waste any more words with him, so she turned around and left the office after saying this.

Lenard hurriedly said, "I promise you. From now on, I will not appear in front of you..."

"Then you can go find the secretary later, and she will arrange everything for you."

After Georgia said this, she left without looking back.

Lenard looked at her, couldn't wait to leave, and smiled coldly.

Where there's a will, there is a way.

As long as they worked in the same company, he didn't believe he could not meet Georgia!

Chapter 820 Your Gift?

When Georgia arrived at the hotel, the man was waiting at the hotel room door.

Seeing her appear, Efren smiled.

His smile was not obvious but true.

When Georgia saw it, she couldn't help speeding up her pace. When the distance between the two was less than three meters, she even galloped up and threw herself into the arms of the man.

Efren seemed to enjoy Georgia's affectionate hug and stretched out his long arms to catch her firmly.

"It's early in the morning. You don't have to deal with that in such an early morning, do you?"

These days, Georgia came to him almost at dawn.

He was also used to seeing his girl early in the morning.

As a result, when Georgia was overwhelmed by something today, he couldn't get used to it.

"It's urgent. I've already finished. Do you miss me?"

Georgia raised her head to see the man's charming, handsome face.

When she was in a relationship with Lenard before, she would not ask such questions.

Because usually, these questions would not be answered.

But when she was with Efren, she was probably spoiled by him, so she would always bother him with these problems, never tired of it.

"I've been coming to you twice. What do you think?" The man lowered his head and tapped Georgia with the tip of his nose.

This move looked not so intimate but showed his pampering.

Georgia threw herself into the man's arms with joy. "Well, but I didn't miss you."

It was said that the one who fell in love first was destined to be humbler than the other.

She fell in love with Lenard first, so she was always the one to sacrifice in their relationship, which was unfair.

But even so, Lenard still did not cherish her.

She had enough of such humble love.

This time when she was in a relationship with Efren, she wanted to enjoy the feeling of dominating, so she could not let Efren know she was actually very into him.

Maybe it was because she hid her thoughts well, or maybe Efren really didn't sense it. Efren just lowered his head and kissed her.

With a deep kiss, he punished her for not missing him.

The food in the room was getting cold, but the two people who were kissing seemed to have forgotten everything around them, immersed in making out...

Soon, it was Byron's birthday.

This was the first official birthday celebration since he fell off the cliff four years ago.

Osborn and Nora attached great importance to it and wanted to hold a big celebration.

The birthday party venue was set at a luxurious hotel owned by the Hansen Group, fully occupying all the hotel halls.

For this dinner party, they invited all local wealthy people and all the employees under the Hansen Group.

And the Hansen Group covered almost all local industries, so this day was equivalent to a holiday for the entire New York.

While everyone was planning the birthday banquet, Byron was putting his arms around Cora's waist and asking her, "What gift are you going to give me today?"

"You must have received a lot of presents today. Why are you always asking about my present?"

Cora pushed Byron away and put Martin on a little shirt.

In the evening, Martin would show up with Byron, so Nora asked someone to tailor this shirt for Martin.

"I don't want other people's gifts. I only want yours."

Byron also helped Martin wear his trousers, but he still looked at Cora.

"If you didn't prepare a gift for me, you can also agree to marry me at the end of the year as a gift. I think I will be very happy to accept this gift..."