

Snatched 921

Chapter 921 No Possibility Between Us

During this time, Cora had been trying very hard to pretend not to care about everything.

But her behavior always deviated from reason. She quietly watched all the gossip of Byron, collecting information related to him.

So Cora also knew that Byron's latest girlfriend was Cathy, an influencer.

And he even directly suppressed all the trending topics about Cathy for her.

He also indirectly stated that behind Cathy was the support of the entire Hansen Group, and anyone who wanted to slander Cathy was an enemy of the Hansen Group.

Cora felt that Byron should really like this girl named Cathy.

Cora was indeed very sad when there were rumors about the two of them on the Internet.

She also thought about breaking up with Byron.

But she had to admit that when she saw Byron appearing at the door this morning, she was very happy.

There was even a faint expectation that Byron would tell her that everything was just a misunderstanding.

She even planned in her heart that as long as Byron insisted on begging for forgiveness sincerely for a few more days, she would listen to his explanation and consider whether to get back together.

But within half a day, Byron contacted Cathy again.

At that moment, all the expectations in Cora's heart disappeared.

But when Byron saw Cora stop, he knew that she was very uncomfortable.

But there was no other way. The screaming and smashing on Cathy's side continued.

Cathy was hiding somewhere, crying and shouting, "I don't know who broke into my house suddenly.

They smashed everything in my house..."

Byron was about to ask Carter to bring someone to save her.

But when Cathy said this, she seemed to be caught by someone.

"Let go of me! All this really has nothing to do with me. Don't treat me like this..."

Hearing Cathy's hysterical scream, Byron's words changed. "I'll be there right away."

Later, Cathy's side hung up.

Byron was very anxious, afraid that something might happen to her.

Before leaving, Byron hurriedly stepped forward and said to Cora, "Cora, it's an emergency, so I have to leave now. You and Martin go home, and I'll be back as soon as I'm done."

He also told Martin, "Martin, help me take care of your mom. I will come to you as soon as I solve the matter."

Then he turned to leave.

But at this time, Cora's voice suddenly came.

"Byron!"

Byron immediately stopped and turned to look at Cora.

But he found that now Cora's eyes were red, and tears were swirling in her eyes.

"Cora?" Byron looked at her, who was on the verge of tears, and his heart suddenly felt like being torn apart.

In the last video, Cora clearly noticed that there was another woman beside him, but she didn't cry.

This morning, the first time they met after more than a month since he left, she didn't cry.

But now, Cora saw that he was about to leave, and her eyes were red.

He was sad but also happy.

But he didn't expect Cora to say, "If you leave now, there will be no possibility between us."

Cora's voice was very soft.

But it was such a soft and weak voice that had given Byron an intuition that if he didn't do what she said today, she would really walk out of his world resolutely.

Byron also knew that he couldn't disregard Cathy's safety.

After all, he had to bear most of the responsibility for what happened to Cathy today.

So he could only say to Cora, "Cora, I'll be back in two hours at most. When I come back, I will explain everything to you clearly."

After speaking, he resolutely turned around and left...

Chapter 922 Remember Your Choice

Byron hurriedly went to save Cathy.

But he didn't know that the moment he turned to leave, Cora's tears fell down her cheeks.

"Byron, remember your choice today."

Her voice was softer than before.

It was so light that only Martin beside her could hear it.

Therefore, she failed to stop Byron from leaving.

Later, she could only take Martin back home alone.

Cora cried all the way as if she wanted to pour out all the negative emotions accumulated during this period.

Martin dug out a tissue from his small backpack and handed it to Cora.

"Mom, let's get out of here."

Cora was taken aback by Martin's proposal.

"But Martin, don't you really like everything here?"

After Martin could speak, Cora talked with him a lot.

At that time, Cora asked him if he liked New York.

Martin said, "I like it very much. My parents and grandparents are all here. It feels so lively. I like this place the most."

But now, he proposed to leave here.

"But this place made my mom cry, so I don't like it anymore. I would rather go back to the happy life where it was just me and you." Martin said.

Cora was still hesitating, "But no matter where we escape, as long as he wants to find us, he will be able to find us."

But Martin said, "Then let's talk about it after he finds us."

Cora thought he was right. Byron could ignore them for the sake of another woman, so why should she wait foolishly at the same place?

"Then we'll go home and pack our luggage first, right?" Cora asked Martin.

"No. Let's go directly to the airport and just get some cash at the airport. We can buy those things when we get to the new place."

If the transaction was made in cash, it would not leave any traces on the Internet, which could be easily found out.

What Martin said made Cora realize for the first time that at such a young age, his thinking was more rigorous than that of an adult.

But thinking about it, Martin was her and that person's child, so how could he be mediocre?

Later, Cora did what Martin said, and the two went directly to the airport.

Even the destination of the air ticket was chosen by Martin...

When the two had taken care of everything and taken the nearest flight to another city, Byron had already rushed to Cathy's house with his people.

The door of Cathy's house was wide open, and the person who had smashed it had already left.

What they saw was a mess all over the place.

Everything was smashed and turned over. The glass was shards all over the place, and there was still a lot of blood, which was shocking.

But looking around, there was no sign of Cathy.

Seeing such a scene, Byron and Carter glanced at each other with a bad feeling.

At this time, his people found her.

"Mr. Hansen, in the bathroom..."

The people who reported to him stuttered, and Byron already guessed in his heart that the scene in the bathroom would not be too good.

But even though he had made up his mind, Byron's heart still skipped a beat when he entered the bathroom and saw Cathy.

In the bathroom, Cathy's entire body was soaked in a tub of cold water.

And the water in the bathtub had turned into bloody water.

The most frightening thing was that Cathy's face was bloody, and he couldn't see her original appearance.

At this moment, Cathy was closing her eyes tightly. He didn't know whether she was dead or alive...

Chapter 923 Who Sent You?

"Cathy?"

Byron hurried forward to check if Cathy was still alive.

After discovering that Cathy was still breathing, Byron hurriedly said to Carter, "She's still breathing.

Hurry up and take her to the hospital. No matter what, you must save her life for me."

As soon as Byron said this, everyone immediately took action and sent Cathy to the hospital.

Cathy entered the emergency room and was spotted by many people.

Although Cathy's face was unrecognizable, Carter was also photographed picking up Cathy for Byron several times before.

At this time, Carter was standing at the door of the emergency room.

In addition, when Cathy was sent, she was still wearing the plush pajamas from the previous live-streaming, which immediately was noticed by people on the internet.

As a result, the news that Byron's latest favorite, Cathy, was being rescued quickly occupied the major news pages.

Many people even speculated whether it was because Byron played wildly that Cathy's life was in danger...

But Byron and the others didn't care about the gossip on the Internet at all. They were busy trying to find out who had sneaked into Cathy's house.

Soon, they traced the whereabouts of those people.

When Byron brought people to find them, they were drinking in a tavern.

As soon as the guy smoking at the door saw Byron and the others approaching aggressively, he immediately ran to report to his boss.

"Mr. Hansen is here."

The others stood up quickly when they heard it.

After several people made eye contact, when Byron entered the room, they collectively made a gesture of surrender with both hands.

The leader said, "Mr. Hansen, we just take money and do things for others."

Byron squinted his eyes slightly and glanced past these people one by one with killing intent. Those people dared not look at him when he saw them.

He asked, "Who sent you? Who paid you to do this?"

"A woman called Ms. Lane. She is very beautiful," said the leader.

As soon as these words came out, the people brought by Byron all looked at each other.

They had worked for Byron for a long time, so they naturally knew that his wife's surname was Lane.

And she was also very beautiful!

So, did she actually do such a thing to Byron's mistress?

But even if she had a good reason, it was still too cruel.

Even if Cathy was saved this time, her face and that body were ruined.

"Is there any evidence?" Byron didn't change his expression and just looked at those people coldly.

"No. Ms. Byron is very vigilant. She didn't even show her face when she came to us, and the transaction was done in cash."

But at this point, Byron shot him with lightning speed.

Now, this group of people were dumbfounded.

Especially the leader just now. He stared wide-eyed, seeing that blood kept coming out from his chest suddenly.

"No..."

He screamed heart-piercingly, and blood came out of his mouth.

"Boss!"

All his people rushed up, trying to help him.

But no matter how they helped cover the wound, the blood couldn't be stopped.

And this boss also closed his eyes forever unwillingly.

Others saw that their boss died, and now they all looked at Byron with fear.

But Byron didn't feel any guilt and even glanced at these people. His eyes were so gloomy.

"See? That's how I do things. If you dare to frame my wife, I can't forgive you. Taking a step back, if my wife really did this, then I will get rid of everyone who knows the secret for her..."

Chapter 924 Help Her?

Byron's words shocked these people, including his subordinates.

Therefore, even if Cora did this, he wouldn't deal with Cora but would only help her do away with a witness or accomplice.

But if Cora didn't do it, Byron would never forgive them and the mastermind.

Why was this man so prejudiced?

However, Byron didn't give these people a chance to complain about him in their minds and quickly reprimanded them coldly, "Aren't you going to tell the truth? I'm not that patient!"

Looking at Byron's indifferent face and then thinking about how fast and ruthless the man shot just now, they looked at each other and saw fear in each other's eyes.

Soon, someone said tremblingly, "It was a woman with sunglasses and a silk scarf on her face. She found us through Laws and brought us a three hundred-thousand-dollar deposit. She asked us to make Cathy completely unrecognizable. And she will give us seven hundred thousand dollars."

This one began to explain the cause and effect of the matter, and others quickly followed suit, striving for the opportunity to be frank and receive a lighter sentence.

"Is it your or that person's idea to plant my wife?" Byron looked at these people with a careless expression.

But with the lessons learned from the past, these people did not dare to take it lightly. They answered seriously as if they were afraid that if they said a wrong word, they would pay their lives for it.

"That person! She said that as long as we put everything on Miss Lane and convince you, we can each get another 200 thousand dollars bonus in the future.

"We took a fancy to such a large sum of money, so we took the risk."

Byron asked again, "What are the characteristics of that woman?"

"She was wrapped tightly up and down, even her face. She wore sunglasses and a mask."

Another person recalled it carefully and said, "About the difference between her and ordinary people, it should be that she is covered with brand-name products all over her body."

Others quickly asked, "Are you sure they are brand-name products? Don't make it up. It will make everyone into trouble!"

The man said again, "I didn't make it up. My wife likes those things very much, so I was forced to understand some of them. They should be genuine."

Byron thought about it for a while and asked them the place where they traded with that woman before.

And Byron asked his subordinates to start investigating the surveillance video of that section of the road.

At the same time, Carter called from the hospital and told Byron, "Cathy is out of danger for the time being. But the doctor said that she might not be able to bear this when she wakes up..."

Carter didn't explain in too much detail, and Byron knew that they were referring to Cathy might not be able to accept her face being destroyed.

After all, Byron still felt a little guilty.

If he hadn't taken Cathy into this vortex, Cathy wouldn't have become like this.

After pondering for a moment, Byron said, "I'll go over later. You try to comfort her as much as possible and tell her that no matter what, I will restore her to her original face."

After finishing the call with Carter, Byron said to his subordinate, "Put them in the police station for fighting to the death."

After the subordinate took the order, Byron looked again at the trembling people on the ground. "Do you know what to say at the police station?"

"I know. I know. We don't share the spoils evenly."

"In the middle of our argument, the gun went off, killing our leader."

"We will never mention you."

These people expressed their opinions quickly because they might still have a way out to go to the police station.

But if they were at Byron's disposal, they would be dead like their leader.

After Byron got a satisfactory answer, he handed over the scene to his subordinates and drove to the hospital alone.

But on his way, Byron was still a little worried about Cora and Martin, so he quickly called them...

Chapter 925 Cora's Cell Phone Was off?

But Byron called twice, and Cora's cell phone was off.

"Does her phone run out of battery?" Byron stared at his phone, frowning slightly.

Today they went to the playground to play for a long time. Cora took a lot of videos of Martin with her mobile phone, but she didn't have the habit of bringing a power bank when she went out.

Would Cora's phone run out of battery because of this?

While Byron was thinking, the car arrived at the hospital where Cathy was currently.

But when he exited the car, he was surrounded by media reporters who heard the news.

"Mr. Hansen, may I ask that the rumor that Cathy was in the emergency room just now is true?"

"Just now, some netizens said that Cathy is currently covered in gauze. Is she disfigured?"

"Cathy is covered in cuts and bruises, and her life was once in danger. Did you, Mr. Hansen, go too far?"

The reporters tried to raise the microphone before Byron, hoping to get the freshest information from Byron.

Since the news that Cathy was pushed into the emergency room was disclosed today, it had occupied the headlines of all major browsers, and the popularity had remained high.

If the reporters could get the freshest information from Byron, the companies behind them would make a fortune, and the reporters themselves will get a large reward and stand out among the many reporters.

It was driven by interests that these people forgot something important. That was, Byron was never a person who let others control him.

Almost companies or individuals who opposed him would disappear from this world.

Only during this time, to achieve a particular effect, he let these media report his news.

It was probably because of his indulgence that these reporters forgot that there was also a deadly danger behind the interests.

Byron looked at the several microphones that once touched the tip of his nose and sneered directly, "It seems that you don't want to be in New York anymore!"

Byron's sneer scared these reporters.

They began to realize the danger and took back the microphones one after another.

But even if they chose to retreat, Byron did not let them go.

"Carter, control these people. Register their names and companies and sue them for bankruptcy," Byron said.

When Carter heard that Byron was coming, Carter guessed that such a situation was likely to happen, so Carter arranged for some people to guard the entrance of the hospital.

Now that Byron gave an order, they all came in handy.

No matter how agile those reporters were, they couldn't fight against these professional bodyguards.

After a while, they were taken away. And the hospital gate finally resumed normal.

When Byron followed Carter to the intensive care ward where Cathy was, he called Cora again.

Judging from the time, Cora should have arrived home by this time and charged up her phone.

But what puzzled Byron was that Cora's phone was still turned off.

With this discovery, Byron couldn't help but frown again.

Carter quickly sensed something was wrong with Byron and asked, "Mr. Hansen, what's wrong?"

"Cora's phone has been turned off," Byron said.

"Is she angry?" Carter asked.

"Well, something happened to Cathy today, and I hurried over here. She must be angry," Byron said.

"When it's over here, go home and explain to her," Carter said.

But Byron always felt that her phone's off wasn't only because Cora was angry...

Chapter 926 Get Rid of Leeches?

At this time, Cathy's attending doctor just appeared.

Even if Byron was worried about Cora, he could only temporarily put his phone in his pocket.

"The patient's face is severely damaged now, and there are countless knife wounds on her body. While rescuing her, we tried our best to suture his wounds with cosmetic thread, but the area of those wounds was too large..."

The doctor briefly explained Cathy's injury and said, "The most important thing now is the patient's current state of mind. She has gradually woken up since half an hour ago and has never been able to accept her current state.

"I will deploy a professional psychological team over the next two days to help her rebuild her confidence first and then find a top medical and aesthetic team to help her restore her appearance as much as possible."

After Byron briefly chatted with the doctor about Cathy's next treatment plan, he went into the intensive care ward to see Cathy.

At this moment, Cathy's whole body was wrapped in gauze, like a mummy. And she was different from the bright beauty who had been famous on the Internet in the past.

She was awake, looking at the ceiling blankly with tears in her eyes.

It wasn't until she realized Byron was here that her eyes became focused.

"Mr. Hansen, you should have let me die just now," Cathy said.

Probably after the hysteria, Cathy's voice was so hoarse that it didn't hear like her original voice.

"Why do you want to die? Are you going to let the people who did this to you get away unpunished?"

Byron looked at the girl, who was hopeless. He was upset.

"I know you will avenge me if I die," She said.

After a short rest, Cathy said again, "If I died for you, my parents and brother would receive much compensation. By then, they will be able to live a life without worrying about money."

Being a celebrity, living without privacy, and facing cyber violence every day if she said a wrong word was not the life Cathy wanted.

But there was no way. Her parents asked her for money in disguise all day long to marry her brother a wife, but they wouldn't even give her a place to live.

They even asked Cathy to marry a man in the village who was mid-fifties as his second wife, hoping to use her youthful beauty in exchange for the capital to marry his son.

In order not to marry, Cathy began to try to be a celebrity.

Fortunately, she had a good appearance and attracted many fans. Her reputation was improving, and she received more and more advertisements.

But she found that even if she earned so much money, she didn't even enjoy a penny, which was still not enough to spend.

Her parents and elder brother stopped working and asked her for money every day.

Especially recently, his brother had a new girlfriend and was going to prepare a wedding room. They forced Cathy to shoot all kinds of bottomless videos to make money.

Cathy had no choice but to accept Byron's offer.

She thought that as long as she got the money from Byron, she would give all the money to her parents and brother and then leave, never to be their puppet again.

But she didn't expect such a thing to happen to her before she got the money.

At this moment, she wanted to die so that she could not only get rid of her current ugly appearance but get rid of her leech-like relatives.

"Cathy, I have a chance for you to get rid of your close relatives without dying and have a new life.

Would you like to try it?"

Byron suddenly proposed.

No relatives, which was Cathy's dream.

She looked at Byron. And hope gradually emerged in her eyes, which were initially lustless...

Chapter 927 Premonition

When Byron came out of Cathy's ward, Nora called Byron.

"Byron, what the hell are you doing? What's going on with Cathy? Have you thought about Cora? Don't you want Cora, Martin, and your family?"

From Byron started having an affair until now, Nora had been anxious every day.

She called Byron several times, but Byron always said that he had his plans.

Nora knew that Byron would not mess around since he was a child, so she thought that he must have other plans, so she didn't forcibly intervene between him and Cora.

But when today's news was reported, Nora realized the seriousness of the matter.

Nora called Cora immediately.

But Cora's phone was off, making Nora feel things were out of control.

"I'm doing all this to save my family! I still have something to do here. Wait..."

Byron was about to tell Nora to hang up the phone.

But Nora said, "I called Cora just now. Her cell phone keeps turning off. The news from the Yoris family is that Jerry has arrived in New York today. He has been wandering in some tropical islands for so long.

I'm sure you know what he's doing here."

When Byron heard Jerry's name, his eyes immediately became wary.

Cora had always been surrounded by suitors, and Byron knew that.

But only Jerry made Byron afraid.

During those four years in Leucrest Town, Jerry was by Cora's side and made up for Martin's lack of his father.

So Jerry was unique, no matter for Martin or Cora.

Once Cora was utterly disappointed in Byron, Jerry might completely take Byron's place!

"Cora met him now?" Byron asked.

Byron's tone was obviously much more irritable than before.

"How do I know? I can't get Cora on the phone!" Nora said.

Nora wondered if it could be that Cora blocked Nora's number.

"I'm going to find Cora now."

But when Byron said this, Nora contradicted him.

"Don't worry. If you think your matters are more important, you can go ahead and deal with them first.
If

you are not here, someone will care for your wife and children for you, anyway."

Byron felt himself dying of anger at what Nora had said, but he could only speak coldly, "I'm going to find Cora right away."

After hanging up the phone, Byron said to Carter, "Go to Cathy's parents, tell them that Cathy is dead, and pay them 1.6 million dollars in compensation. And then clean up all the related news on the Internet."

After giving the order, Byron immediately rushed back to the apartment.

"Cora? Martin?"

Byron rang the doorbell for a long time, but neither of them opened the door, and no one answered the phone at home.

Worried that something might happen to them, Byron went to the apartment manager to open the lock.

After entering the house, Byron found that everything was still the same.

At the door, their indoor shoes are still in the same mess as when they rushed out in the morning.

In the sink, the dishes that Cora and Martin had used in the morning were still soaked in water, not cleaned.

Everything proved that Cora and Martin did not go home.

But Byron still didn't give up and searched around the house. But there was still no trace of them.

A premonition spontaneously arose in his mind...

Chapter 928 He Can't find her

Ten minutes later, Byron appeared at the Yoris Mansion.

Sara was busy with the flowers she had just brought, planning to put some in the bedroom.

William was flipping through medical books, while Arnold was studying a small piece of wood carving.

The three were so busy that they didn't see Byron coming to the door.

It wasn't until Byron greeted them first that the three seemed to have just seen Byron.

"Hi, Mr. Hansen? What brought you here?" Sara said in a tone of satire.

William and Arnold did say harsh words like Sara, but their faces were gloomy.

But Byron didn't care about these things and asked hurriedly, "Sara, I'm here to find Cora. Have she and Martin come here?"

"Why are you looking for Cora? Go and find your women. Cora will date other good men in the future,"

Sara's words was harsh.

During this period, Sara watched the news about Byron on the Internet daily and wanted to go directly to the Hansen family to fight.

If Arnold and William hadn't kept stopping her, saying Cora should deal with the problem alone, Sara would lose her temper with Byron.

Today Byron shew up after such a big scandal. Of course, Sara would be angry.

"I know what I've done lately must make you very angry. I will explain it to you. But now, can you tell me where Cora is first? Her phone has been turned off. I am worried something happened to her," Byron said.

Byron would not have been so afraid of something happening to Cora if he had not known that the person who hurt Cathy was trying to frame Cora.

"If Cora's phone's on, there will be a lot of reporters calling her asking about your affairs. I think she may turn off the phone because she doesn't want to receive these calls," William said.

But Byron said, "No. That's not why she turned her phone off."

His previous scandal was more vigorous than this, and Cora hadn't turned her phone off to escape.

But today, he had told the media, so reporters would not provoke her.

"Besides, Cathy was deliberately targeted. And that man planned to blame it on Cora," Byron said.

When Sara heard Byron mention Cathy, her face became even more gloomy.

She wanted to interrupt Byron's words and let him go back home to talk about his new love. If he mentioned these bitches here, Sara would hit him.

But Sara's face changed again when she heard what Byron said later. And finally, she didn't speak.

"So where is Cora now? You should know that. Please tell me. I must confirm her safety," Byron said.

Byron's anxious tone and concerned expression didn't look fake.

The Yoris family looked at each other.

Ultimately, Arnold said, "We will contact Cora ourselves later. You should deal with your affairs first."

When Byron heard this, he knew they should know where Cora was, but they didn't want to tell him.

He tried to explain, "What I have done recently is try to help Cora get out of the haze of losing her child.

Cathy and I have nothing. I..."

But William said, "You have no proof of the explanation. We will not believe it. You'd better go."

Ultimately, Byron had no choice but to leave the Yoris family first.

Chapter 929 Abducting His Wife!

After Byron left the Yoris Mansion, he called Carter immediately.

"Go and find out where Cora has gone. She was playing with Martin in the playground in the east of the city before. Go to that section of the road and check the surveillance video, and give me an answer as soon as possible!"

But after giving these instructions, Byron said, "Get someone to come over and watch the Yoris family."

He just said everything just to make the Yoris family realize the seriousness of the matter.

Now the Yoris family must also be worried about Cora's safety, and they would probably contact Cora or even go directly to Cora.

So he sent people to guard here. If they went to find Cora, he would be able to find Cora.

About half an hour later, Carter replied.

"Mr. Hansen, after they came out of the playground, they went to the airport."

"What?" Byron never expected that Cora would choose to leave New York.

He thought she was angry at most and went back to her mother's house or hid in other places for a few days.

But now Cora left New York directly, proving she was really angry.

"Did you find out which flight they were on?"

Byron felt as if a boulder had been crushed on his heart.

He didn't expect Cora to be so decisive.

"I can't find it. There will be garbled characters once the system inquires about their related information."

Carter also wanted to help Byron find out where they went.

But it turned out that whether the people from the Civil Aviation Administration or the people he arranged, the screen would be filled with garbled characters once they entered their information into the system.

Once the information about the two was deleted, everything returned to normal.

In desperation, he could only convey this situation to Byron first.

"I'm going to the airport right away!"

When Byron heard Carter's description, the figure of Martin immediately appeared in his mind.

It must be that kid's fault!

Not to mention abducting his wife away, he planned to make him never see his wife in his life.

Byron thought at the time that if he caught this kid, he would have to give him a good spanking.

He rushed to the airport as fast as he could.

The person in charge of the airport was obviously also troubled by the internal problems of the system and had found several programmers to fix it.

But obviously, these programmers had been unable to solve the problem, and everyone was frowning.

The arrival of Byron made them all look hopeful.

"Mr. Hansen is here!"

"Great, this problem will be resolved soon."

The Hansen family had the largest game software development company, founded by a few students in the class led by Byron during high school.

So from that time on, Byron was also the idol of domestic programmers.

Now that these programmers saw Byron, they naturally felt that the problems they were facing today could be solved head-on.

Byron lived up to expectations. After sitting down in one of the programmers' seats, he quickly typed code strings on the keyboard.

As expected by Byron, it was really Martin's work.

The method used this time was exactly the same as the previous invasion of the Hansen Group.

Byron quickly deciphered the interference program that Martin had set up inside the system and sent him a conversation.

"Martin, where are you and your mom?"

But Martin, on the other side, quickly replied and left three a few on the computer screen: [Love rat!]

The appearance of these words made everyone present look at Byron in surprise.

Chapter 930 Can't Go Back

But Byron remained calm and continued to deal with Martin on the other side of the computer and leave messages for Martin.

[Martin, I didn't betray our family. I did it for a reason. Hurry up and go home with your mother. It's dangerous outside.]

But Martin quickly responded: [Love rat, stop lying to us. My mother and I will not listen to your lies.]

The pressure returned to Byron instantly, and the programmers watching were all looking at Byron with weird faces.

But Byron's expression remained unchanged as if he didn't see the questioning eyes of others on him.

He continued to talk to Martin.

[Martin, I didn't make up a story to lie to you. Some people wanted to blame Mom for what happened to

Cathy today.]

Before Martin could reply, Byron sent another message: [It doesn't matter if your mom doesn't want to see me yet, then wait for me to come and find you, on the premise that you must protect yourself.]

After sending this message, Byron pressed the enter button at the same time.

Soon, his computer screen turned into a map with a blinking cursor.

When Byron zoomed in, he could see the address where the cursor was positioned, right beside the Mountain Lake in Cloudville.

Byron booked a flight ticket to Cloudville immediately on the system and then returned the computer to the programmer just now.

It wasn't until Byron walked quickly to the security checkpoint that several staff members realized that Byron had used the conversation with his son just now to locate them secretly.

So, after looking at each other, several people couldn't help admiring in their hearts. Finally, experience beat youth.

On the other side, Cora and Martin were in Efren's villa by the Mountain Lake in Cloudville.

Georgia was in a bad mood recently, and her appetite was not good, so Efen took her to live here in Cloudville for a while.

When Cora and Martin were at the airport, they couldn't think of where to go, so they booked a plane ticket to Cloudville to find Georgia.

Of course, before boarding the plane, Cora called Georgia.

Georgia was naturally very happy.

So she went to the airport to meet their plane in advance and then took them home.

At this time, Cora and Georgia were chatting in the living room, and Martin took out the small computer Byron had given him to play with.

Martin kept typing various codes on it. When Georgia stretched her neck to see what he was playing, he quickly switched the computer screen so that Georgia could see that he was playing Whack a Mole.

Georgia saw that it was a small game of Whack a Mole, and found it quite dull, so she continued to chat with Cora.

"Auntie, I think you might as well live in Cloudville for a while. Anyway, there are a lot of problems left in New York. If you don't go back, you won't see it."

"I may not go back this time," Cora said.

"Why?" Georgia asked puzzled.

There was a lot of gossip about Byron traveling with women before. Although Cora looked very unhappy, she didn't react strongly and continued letting Byron flirt outside.

It was precisely because of this that Georgia couldn't stand it anymore and was depressed about the two of them.

"Georgia, you didn't read the news this afternoon, did you? One of his girlfriends had an accident, and he rushed to deal with it." Cora said.

Georgia quickly picked up the phone. "Let me see which woman was making trouble. I will help you teach her a lesson."