

Spoiled By Her CEO Husband

Lala

Chapter 1 The Woman on the Bed

Chapter 1 The Woman on the Bed

"Hot."

"Ah."

Ember William was restless and feverish all over.

This heat not only made her let out painful groans but also forced her to continuously tear at her clothes.

Her moans caught the attention of Alexander, who was standing aside the bar. When he walked over and finally saw the woman's face on the bed, his hand holding the red wine glass stiffened.

It was Ember?! How could she be here?

Seeing her twisting in pain, he couldn't wait to put down his wine glass and move closer to help her. But he didn't expect that as soon as he walked in, her writhing body clung tightly to his.

"Honey."

"Honey," this word entered Alexander's ear, and his tall figure stiffened again.

"Honey, I feel so uncomfortable. Can you make me feel better?"

Ember's desire to have sex with him made Alexander's dark and deep pupils flash with a dangerous shade.

Own her. Make love with her. He almost wants to do it every day, even in his dreams. But today she was obviously not right.

He tried to pull off the woman, who was clinging to him like an octopus, but as soon as he touched her, she clung to him even tighter. To make things worse, in order to make herself feel better, she started to twist her body and rub against him constantly.

The fire on his body had been ignited.

He tried his best to restrain the urge to strip her naked and devour her, and tried to patiently call out to her, "Ember, wake up, someone has drugged you, shall I take you to the hospital?"

"Honey, I want you."

Ember's slender jade arm wrapped around his neck, murmuring in his ear.

Before he could reply, her rosy and crystalline lips brushed against his ear, and a surge of electricity made him shudder all over.

"I feel so uncomfortable, help me, please."

After failing to find any solace from him for a while, she began to tear at her own clothes again.

Trembling, she struggled to undo her clothes for a long time and finally unbuttoned a windbreaker.

Today, Ember had almost wear nothing on under her loose windbreaker except for her bra and panties, in order to give her boyfriend David a surprise.

As soon as one button was undone, her pink lace bra immediately bounced out.

Alexander followed her unbuttoning movements with his eyes, and when he saw one half of her breast exposed by her pink bra, his pupils shrank, his throat tightened, and all the blood in his body gathered in his lower abdomen.

He was afraid that he would take her by impulse, so Alexander immediately grabbed her hand that was undoing the button and turned his head away.

"Ember, do you know what you're doing?"

Alexander's forehead was covered in fine sweat from suppressing his urge, and his husky voice was so sexy that it was rich in male hormones.

Ember, whose mind was foggy, had finally managed to undo one button. Just as she was about to continue with the next one, a hand stopped her.

'What kind of hand was this? So annoying.'

She struggled hard to tear it away, but even with all her strength, it seemed that she was no match for that hand.

"Let me go, I'm so uncomfortable."

Hearing her voice, Alexander bent down, picked her up horizontally, and carried her into the bathroom, putting her in the bathtub.

The cool water in the bathtub seemed to make Ember's body feel much more comfortable. Seeing that she had finally calmed down, Alexander walked out of the bathroom.

"Robert, help me find out how Miss William got to my room tonight, and who she has been with, and what those people did to her."

"Miss William... Boss, which Miss William are you talking about?"

Other people's CEOs were surrounded by a bunch of young ladies of various kinds, but his CEO seemed to be only surrounded by men. He was suddenly puzzled when Alexander mentioned Miss William.

"Is there a second Miss William?"

Amidst the questioning, Robert was confused for a moment before suddenly remembering that he was once asked to find Miss William many years ago. However, it has been so many years since anything was known about this Miss William. Could it be that their CEO still hasn't forgotten about her? But if it's not this Miss William, then who else could it be?

"You mean Miss William, right? I'll check it right away,"

"Hurry up." After Robert finished the call with his boss, he still remained stunned for a moment. Has his CEO always been avoiding any other women just for waiting for Miss William?

After hanging up the phone, Alexander returned to the bathroom. As his gaze fell on the bathtub, his suppressed body couldn't control the heat that surged within him anymore.

The cool water in the tub seems only has provided Ember with momentary comfort. Her body was already hot again. And the windbreaker that could cover her body has been taken off by her.

Without any covering of her clothes, everything about her perfect body was fully exposed before his eyes.

♡ (93)

💬 (7)