Chapter 102 Go and dig graves

"hehe.

Lin Caisang smiled silly.

"Why don't you come here? It's like a god coming to the world to save me from danger."

I've been wearing it for a long time, but I can't even wear it. Now I need to fawn over some Yamolian, so that I can travel unhindered in Hongling Town.

Hearing this, Ya Molian glared at her directly, acting like a good girl when she got an advantage. Was this the little girl she was talking about? Do you really think he is that easy to coax? Can you deal with it with just a few words?

"Have you ever thought that the young master of the Gong family was already sick before he was poisoned?" he asked.

"this....."

Lin Caisang looked hesitant for a moment, then shook his head.

"This is impossible. Even if he is sick, he cannot be so contagious. Otherwise, it is impossible for everyone in Gong's family to know about it. And I have seen those women. Although they are all sick, I was sick, but I got it later.

That Mr. Gong was so lecherous. If the women in the courtyard really contracted any disease, they would be infected first.

But now, although some of those women were infected with the disease, they were not too serious and no one died.

"I really don't understand. Where did this strange disease come from?" She was puzzled and completely confused.

"You'll know where it comes from. Just go and see it." Ya Molian said.

"Go and see? Where are you going to see? Could you be..."

Lin Caisang was confused at first, but after he figured it out, he immediately looked at him with wide eyes and disbelief.

"Where?" Ya Molian asked.

"Don't go!"

Lin Caisang did not answer his question and directly denied what he said.

She would be haunted by the thought of digging graves on a dark and windy night, and she would not dare to do such a thing.

"You're not going? Really not going?" Ya Molian raised an eyebrow and asked her.

Lin Caisang: "..."

She wanted to say that she just wouldn't go, no matter how much he boasted and worshiped her like a god, she still wouldn't go.

But... I seem to have had this idea from the beginning. If I really don't go, the doubts in my heart will never go away. Should I go or not?

"Otherwise, wait until it's daytime tomorrow to go there? It's so dark today that you can't see clearly even after digging up the body, right?" she suggested in a low voice.

"Um?"

Ya Molian raised her eyebrows and looked her up and down.

"Are you afraid of the dark?"

"You... who is afraid of the dark? You are afraid of the dark. Your whole family is afraid of the dark!"

After hearing what he said, Lin Caisang suddenly became angry and pointed at Yamolian and yelled!

How could she be afraid of the dark? She had walked countless nights, so what was the dark night? She's just... afraid of ghosts!

But will she say this? of course not!

She wouldn't say it to make people laugh. In short, Lin Caisang is not afraid of anything.

"Just go, what's the big deal, go, go quickly."

With that said, she stood up, pulled Ya Molian out, and went together to find Wei Captou to lead them the way.

...

On a mountainside, several tombs looked particularly eerie under the dim light. Lin Caisang huddled next to Ya Molian, holding his arm tightly with two fat hooves. , her head kept spinning, fearing that a ghost hand would stretch out from somewhere and snatch her away!

No way, this kind of psychological shadow will never go away for her.

Some people are like this. They are so scared even if they walk at night, but in broad daylight, they are not afraid of anything and do not believe the words of those strange powers and gods at all.

Lin Caisang belongs to such a person.
