Chapter 140 Don't hesitate to gamble with other people's lives

"This is not nonsense."

Lin Caisang cursed angrily.

"How many days has he been in coma? Where is he? Take me there quickly to have a look."

This Zhong You looks young, but he is a troublemaker. He either runs to provoke others or stabs himself with needles. He really doesn't take his life seriously.

I managed to save one, but when I came over to take a look, another one fell down.

Do you simply want to make her angry to death, or do you want to make her happy?

"It's been two days, come with me."

When Master Zhong heard that Lin Caisang was willing to save her, he was delighted and quickly took her to Zhong You's room.

After a long time, in Zhong You's room, Lin Caisang took off the silver needle and breathed a sigh of relief.

"Fortunately, I just got a needle, and I didn't use enough force. Otherwise, there would be really no way to save the day." Looking at Zhong You who was a big boy to her at most, she sighed quietly. Take a breath and shake your head.

At his age, when he should have been living a carefree and happy life, he has become careless because of his family's little wealth, and he is even willing to gamble with other people's lives.

She really couldn't stand it.

"Mr. Zhong, it is undeniable that Young Master You is much better than your Young Master Yun in every aspect."

Everyone else had gone out, leaving only Zhong You, who might wake up at any time, and her and Mr. Zhong in the room. She didn't be polite to Mr. Zhong and spoke frankly.

"Yes, yes, that's what the girl said."

Mr. Zhong kept saying yes and did not deny what she said.

"It's just... You'er is a commoner after all, no matter how smart he is..." He shook his head and sighed helplessly.

After all, this family is not decided by him alone. His wife started from scratch with him. It is impossible for him to fall out with his wife because of a bastard. So what has become of him in the eyes of outsiders?

Hearing this, Lin Caisang said nothing more. After all, it was a family matter of the Zhong family. What could she say? What Zhong You had done before was too much. After all, Mr. Zhong was his biological grandfather.

"What I mean is that Mr. You is quite talented in medical skills. If he can get a good teacher..." She looked in the direction of the big bed.

"this....."

After hearing her words, Mr. Zhong looked even more solemn.

He also mentioned this to his father, but as soon as he mentioned it, his father became very angry, saying that he had almost killed him if he just learned a little bit. If he learned more, wouldn't everyone in the family have to be killed by You'er?

Furthermore, no one in the Zhong family studied medicine. If Zhong You studied medicine under the guidance of a good teacher, wouldn't he have to go out and start his own business? Wherever a son of man establishes his own family regardless of his elders, it is a great unfilial sin.

These were his father's exact words.

Although he intended to arrange something with You'er, his father's illness had just improved and he didn't want to make him angry at this time.

"This matter... it depends on what the old man wants, hehe, hehe."

"Um."

Lin Caisang just responded lightly and said nothing more.

"Mr. Zhong, I want to give Mr. You another injection to help him wake up quickly. Please go and make arrangements for the old man. I will go over and check the old man's pulse later."

"Okay, okay, I'll make arrangements right away."

When Mr. Zhong heard her words, he immediately responded, turned around and ran out the door.

"Why."

Watching Mr. Zhong hurriedly walk out the door, Lin Caisang sighed softly and looked at the boy who had faintly woken up on the bed.

"You're awake, but do you feel uncomfortable somewhere? Do you know that you can't prick the vital points of the human body casually?"
