Chapter 304 There will be starvation everywhere

Moreover, Ya Molian repeatedly promised her elders that she would protect Lin Caisang and not let her suffer any harm.

Early the next morning, Lin Caisang went out with Ya Molian who came to pick her up.

"Where are you going? I'll take you there."

Just after leaving the village entrance, Ya Molian saw that Lin Caisang did not want to go up the mountain, but was walking towards the road to the town. He immediately asked.

"I'm short of some medicine. Go to the pharmacy in town to buy some medicinal materials and prepare them." Lin Caisang said.

She was going to Jian'an City. Of course she wanted to get some good goods and make a lot of money. Otherwise, she would be sorry for going out with a big-tailed wolf like this. Didn't he see that her grandma was watching her and Ya Molian? The look in his eyes?

That's such a joy, as if Ya Molian is already Grandma's grandson-in-law.

"Whatever is missing, I will order someone to buy it." Ya Molian said directly.

The banishment hidden in the dark: "..."

Palace Master, besides commanding your subordinates, can you do anything important?

There are many important things waiting for you to deal with in the palace, but here you have a close relationship with Miss Lin, treating him as free labor as a subordinate who handles important things every day.

But yes, for the palace master, he is not free labor.

Yeah, he'd better shut up.

After hearing his words, Lin Caisang thought for a while and nodded.

On such a rainy day, it was really tiring for her to walk all the way to the Crescent Town Market in a raincoat, so she might as well leave this matter to Ya Molian.

Anyway, the two of them had little secrets, so she could safely let Ya Molian prepare these medicinal materials.

"Okay, let's go to the bamboo house first."

...

Half an hour later, in the bamboo house.

Ya Molian held a brand new white towel in her hand and wiped Lin Caisang's slightly wet hair. The two of them sat in the main room, listening to the rustling rain outside, while talking in small words.

And the bitter banjue was rushing to Yueya Town Market with a medicine list in his hand, with tears streaming down his face.

"This rain is really troublesome. It's inconvenient to even go out."

At this moment, the straw sandals on Lin Caisang's feet have been replaced. They are the new shoes prepared by Yamolian for her. However, this is a bamboo house. It is raining outside and there is also some tide inside, which makes people feel both physically and mentally. Somewhat uncomfortable.

"I hate rainy days like this the most."

"If it doesn't rain now, Ye County will be starved to death." Ya Molian said the truth, but her tone was still light.

Lin Caisang: "..."

Yes, no one can find fault with this statement.

If it weren't for the rains during the rainy season, Ye County's food harvest would have been absolutely impossible, and even the bark of the trees would have been eaten away.

"Tsk, isn't that because the court is incompetent?" She sneered and rolled her eyes.

It's not just Ye County. The Liang Kingdom has Ye County as the center point. Several counties have such a climate. The people who suffer from disasters are all ordinary people. But when did the imperial court take care of it?

"When there is a flood, we die from waterlogging, and when there is a drought, we die from drought. Why can't we dig more ponds to store water during floods and use it during droughts? Look at the twenty-acre pond on Menghuang Mountain. How much money did it cost?" , let alone three hundred acres of land, is it enough for the whole village during the dry season? "

She looked at Ya Molian and spoke dissatisfiedly.

Anyone who is smart knows this method, but after so many years, no one is willing to dig more ponds to store water. They would rather wait until there is a severe drought to gnaw tree bark and dig grass roots to eat.
