

Star of Space 464

Chapter 464 Isn't it bad to do this?

When the deed to the field was handed over to Lin Caisang, his father would not chase him with a knife behind him.

"You are always so reckless."

After sending away Lin Caisang and Ya Molian, the eldest prince stayed in the eldest princess's mansion and refused to leave.

"I just can't stand the way my father recruits people. What's the use of forcing Miss Lin to stay like this?" The eldest prince muttered and replied in a low voice.

"I stayed, but my heart is not here. If I turn around and hate us, then the gain outweighs the loss. Why doesn't my father understand this?"

"How could your father not understand this?" The eldest princess raised her hand and tapped his temple angrily. ~"°°.~°.°~"

"It's just that as the emperor, everything he does is not a person's business. He has to look at the overall situation. Unlike you, he thinks about things one by one and doesn't take your father seriously at all."

"So what?"

The eldest prince still felt that his father really did something wrong this time.

"nothing."

The eldest princess sighed softly and looked at the eldest nephew.

"However, you may have made a mistake."

"Auntie, what do you mean?" The eldest prince did not understand what the eldest princess said.

What does it mean to be wrong? What did he do wrong? It was obvious that the father was wrong, he just corrected the mistake.

"I just looked at Miss Lin, and I quite admired you." The eldest princess explained.

From her point of view, her brother did indeed make a mistake. Lin Caisang was not a rich young lady who could be picked up everywhere in Jian'an City. Her thoughts and concepts should not be viewed by ordinary people.

If she followed her brother's lead, it would be counterproductive.

But after her eldest nephew made such a fuss, Feng'er's image in Lin Caisang's heart improved. She was not afraid of her father's pressure and could only act openly and aboveboard. This should be right for Lin Caisang's taste. Bar?

"You can stay here with me these days. If your father orders someone to summon you, I will block it for you."

"Feng'er knows that my aunt loves me the most. Thank you, aunt." When the prince heard her words, he immediately smiled.

The eldest princess shook her head and sighed inwardly. She was still a child after all. No matter how much she pretended to be an adult, she always had to be protected by others so that she could go further.

"Next time Miss Lin comes, talk to her more. If you can become friends with Miss Lin, your father will not blame you anymore." After thinking about it, she added.

"Is this ok?"

The eldest prince was a little hesitant. After many days of contact, he also understood that Miss Lin is a person of few words and is also afraid of trouble. She has always been straightforward in her behavior and never sloppy.

He naturally wants to make friends with such people, but the question is, will they be willing?

"Auntie, that girl already has someone she loves. Isn't it bad for me to do this...?"

"You kid, what are you thinking about?"

Hearing this, the eldest princess raised her hand, hit him hard on the forehead, and grimaced.

"I want you to make a true friendship with Miss Lin. Treat her as a man, not a man and a woman. Don't misunderstand your aunt's intentions. You child, you just need a princess who can control you. "

"Hehe, hehe."

When the princess was mentioned, the prince immediately smiled guiltily and instinctively refused to talk about the topic.

"Auntie, I think the medicine in the kitchen is ready. I'll bring it to you. It's time to replace it with new medicine tomorrow."
