Chapter 490 Who is she afraid of?

Later, the wealthy businessman had a powerful backer, and the result was a dispute with the county government. The county magistrate had no choice but to take back the land at a higher price than when he bought it.

Then Mr. Dan Dan was dismissed from his post due to dereliction of duty. As for me, because the county magistrate always remembered to fold money into this land, he would ask about this land almost every month during the meeting. Has the land sale been sold out? "

Lin Caisang: "..."

After listening to the official's words, Lin Caisang's head was really full of black lines.

It's not like I'm sending monthly letters, but I'm still asking every month, which shows that this land is really showing signs of not being able to be sold.

"Sir, if I buy this land in the future, I won't have any grudges with that wealthy businessman, right? If so, it will be difficult to handle.

She thought for a moment and asked again.

If this land is improved by then, so that you can walk anywhere on rainy days, and wild animals will not run down the mountain, what if that wealthy businessman with some backing comes out again and says that this land belongs to him?

"Ahem."

When Ya Molian heard her words, she coughed silently.

Sonny, what you are holding in your hand is the gold medal for immunity from death given by the emperor. Now even the emperor doesn't dare to do anything to you, right? How dare others do to you? Unless those people are doing something secretly.

However, even if he wanted to do something evil, he had to be willing to give them that chance.

"That won't happen." The official shook his head quickly.

"Miss Lin, our county magistrate is a wise and wise man, and he always does things in a flawless manner. He knew that the matter might affect the future buyer, so he signed the document with the wealthy businessman, pressed his fingerprints and found the buyer. A high-ranking official in Yeli has testified and promised that nothing will go wrong.

Furthermore, he himself did not want this land in the first place. Almost no one in our county does not know that the land deed was also taken back. As long as the land deed is not in his hands, what else can he say about the flowers? "

Lin Caisang listened to the official's words, and it could be heard from his voice that he was very disdainful and even a little contemptuous of the wealthy businessman.

But in the past few years, the wealthy businessman had done many bad things in the county because of his backing.

But anyway, she is not afraid of trouble. If those people who are hiding secretly dare to offend her, she will definitely fight back without mercy. Now that she has a death-free medal, who is she afraid of!

"That's good."

She nodded.

"In this case, sir, I have decided to buy all this land. You can take me to walk along this land so that I can know which parts of the land are mine and which are not."

"No, Miss Lin, look over there."

The officer pointed to an edge where he could see it.

"Actually, it's good that you said you want to plant fruit trees. The county magistrate ordered me to plant a lot of fruit trees on the edge of this land before. Now the fruits are all grown on them. You just need to go around those fruit trees. In a circle, the land on this side of the mountain will be yours."

At that time, the county magistrate was deeply afraid that the land here would not be sold, so he thought that he would make it better and let buyers see it. Perhaps considering these good places, he would buy it.

"Okay, I get it."

Lin Caisang looked at the fruit trees and nodded.

Indeed, just from these fruit trees, you can pick a lot of fruits.

"Then after I paid the money, when can I get the title deed?" she asked.
