Chapter 69 It's the Mountain Deed that Dad left for us

"Okay, that's it, I'll go tomorrow." Lin Changhong nodded immediately.

He had also been thinking about what to do next. Liu Rumei was a person who drilled wherever there was a hole. There was no chance that she would be able to find a way out.

In this case, let the Chen family deal with the Liu family.

"Brother, when you go there tomorrow, take all the medicinal materials that have been dried at home and sell them at the drug store last time. If you can buy a buffalo, then buy it. If it doesn't work, let's get together."

Lin Caisang thought for a while and said.

"Shall I go? Aren't you going?"

Lin Changhong glanced at his sister and asked.

Last time in the drug store, all the people talking were Sang Sang, and he couldn't even get a word in. So let him go alone this time?

"I still have to go up the mountain to dig more medicinal materials. After another ten days of digging, I will have to do other things." Lin Caisang said.

"oh."

Lin Changhong didn't ask any questions and answered.

But I still have doubts in my heart, other things, does Sangsang have other things? If you don't have to dig up medicine all the time, isn't that the most profitable thing?

This is what Sangsang said himself.

Lin Caisang did have other things. Although she came to this world not long ago, she still had the memory of the original owner. There were some things that her family didn't know and only she knew. She had to take them out and sort them out.

Otherwise, I would be sorry for her father's good intentions in leaving that thing to her.

Before it got dark the next day, Lin Changhong actually came back with a big buffalo, which made his family very happy. Lin Changyi yelled and asked his father to carry him and sit on the back of the buffalo for a while.

As for Lin Caisang, he just smiled, lowered his head and walked into Lin Changhong's room.

"Sang Sang, what are you doing in my brother's room?"

Lin Changhong didn't have too many surprises because he bought the buffalo, because he bought the buffalo and was already pleasantly surprised. However, when he saw Lin Caisang walking into his room, he was a little surprised and followed him to take a look.

This room was originally occupied by his father. Since there were not many rooms in the house, he lived here temporarily, and over time he got used to it.

I saw Lin Caisang taking off his shoes, crawling into the bed, lifting the thick quilt, and groping carefully on the bed wall with a fat hand. Lin Changhong was like a two-foot-long monk, confused and completely confused. What is my girl doing?

"Sang Sang, Sang..."

Before the word "mulberry" could be uttered, he heard a "click" and a wooden board on the bed was pulled open by Lin Caisang's chubby hands. He was shocked.

This bed is made of real wood. I heard from grandma that it was specially made for the bed when my father married their mother. The bed was made of the best wood. How could Sangsang even take a piece of it off?

Are you kidding him?

"This is....."

Just as he was in a trance, he saw Lin Caisang take out a square piece of paper from the dug out groove, and then she put the board back again.

"This is the mountain deed that dad left us."

"What? Shanqi?"

Lin Changhong was horrified. Looking at the piece of paper spread out by Lin Caisang, he felt as if he was floating in mid-air.

Mountain deeds are different from field deeds.

Although buying mountain land is cheaper than buying fields, fields can be bought one acre at a time, but mountain deeds are bought hilltop by hilltop. The number of acres of land depends entirely on how big the hilltop is.

How could their father get so much money to buy mountain land?

"Yes, Shanqi, my father showed me this when he left home and said he would put it here so that we could use it when we grow up," Lin Caisang said.
