Chapter 707 If you can save me, I will definitely save you.

However, she didn't want to die. Why could Zhou Liang marry the county governor's daughter, but she would die a violent death just because she gave birth to his child?

She had to survive.

"What you are carrying in your belly are twins." Lin Caisang said.

But last time she checked Liu Yushui's pulse, but nothing came out. What was going on?

"What?!"

Liu Yushui screamed, not sure whether it was because of fright or pain.

No wonder her belly looked much bigger than that of ordinary pregnant women. Even several women in the village would point at her when they saw her, thinking that her belly should be full term.

How could she have imagined that she would be pregnant with twins.

Stretching out a hand with some blood on it, she grabbed Lin Caisang's sleeve hard and looked at her while breathing heavily.

"Lin Caisang, save me, save my children. As long as you save me, I promise to never do bad things again in the future. I have nothing now except the two children in my belly. "

There is no hope for Zhou Liang, and in this family, her father ran away because of fear and will not be able to come back in a short time, and her mother...

From her premature birth to now, Liu Rumei has not appeared again, and her room has been so messed up. She guessed that her mother may have run away, and there is really nothing left in this family.

If she no longer has the children in her belly, what will she have left?

"Don't worry, I will save you if you can." Lin Caisang said to her.

Turning around, she shook off Liu Yushui's hand and walked out of the door.

"Brother Mo Lian, ask someone to slice this ginseng, make a cup of ginseng tea, and bring a few more ginseng slices, as well as all these medicines." He took out a ginseng stick from his small satchel. Come here, hand it to Ya Molian, and give instructions in a low voice.

"good."

Yamolian responded immediately.

Seeing him nodding, Lin Caisang immediately walked back.

At this time, Lu Qiubo realized what he was doing and followed his granddaughter into Liu Yushui's room.

"Sangsang, how is she?"

"Premature birth, abnormal fetal position." Lin Caisang said simply.

Fortunately, Aunt Bai didn't come. If she had come and given some random advice, it would be unknown whether Liu Yushui and the two children in her belly would survive.

And now, she also has no bottom in her heart.

"Then what should we do? Or...ask the midwife over again." Lu Qiubo asked.

She is not familiar with midwifery. Without Aunt Bai, this place would be a mess.

"Grandma, it's too late. I'll give her acupuncture first, then rub her belly to straighten the fetal position. That's all." Lin Caisang said to Lu Qiubo.

It's useless to call anyone now. Who can be more useful than her, a combination of Chinese and Western medicine? If it doesn't work, let the rest of the people go out, and she can give Liu Yushui a caesarean section.

However, this is the only solution, after all, the conditions do not allow it.

"Liu Yushui, take this pill and it will make you feel a little better." As she said that, she handed the pill to Liu Yushui's mouth.

Liu Yushui swallowed the pill without hesitation. Now she could only count on Lin Caisang. Without Lin Caisang, she would be dead.

Time seems to have passed a century.

More and more people were standing in the yard. Finally, even Patriarch Lin and Uncle Li Zhengjin, who had heard the news, came over. Screams continued to be heard in Liu Yushui's room, shaking everyone's hearts. Trembling.
