

Star of Space 834

Chapter 834 Why?

It was inevitable that he wanted to return to the city.

"Yeah?"

The eldest princess looked at Lin Caisang and asked softly.

She also wanted to stay at the hunting ground longer so she could talk to her daughter more. Was she going back to the city now?

The more she came into contact with this child, the more reluctant she became...

"Then Miss Lin, will you come again?" she asked.

She knew very well that the medicine that should be prepared, Lincaisang, had been prepared for Feng'er before, and his bone injuries had been handed over to the palace physician, so there was no need for her to go back and forth.

"I will come a few more times, but there are things going on at home these days, so I have to go back and take a look." Lin Caisang said.

Autumn is approaching, and there are some things that need to be arranged for Lin Changfeng. As for Brother Mo Lian, although the time has not come yet, he may leave at any time. In a place like Baibind Mountain, if she doesn't make some preparations, she really won't even worry about herself.

"Yes, Miss Lin should go home and take a look."

The eldest princess nodded. This child is still so young and always leaves home. I don't know how the family can feel relieved.

...

On the other side, in Prince Mo's mansion.

Concubine Lian came out of the palace early in the morning and entered Prince Mo's Mansion under the gaze of all the people.

Ya Molian received news about the eunuch sent by the emperor early in the morning, but even so, he had no intention of coming out to greet Concubine Lian.

Looking at the empty entrance of Prince Mo's Mansion, with only two people, Ban Jue and Ban Wu, greeting her, Concubine Lian's face was like a revolving lantern. It was very exciting, but for the sake of what the emperor had told her, and even more for herself, she had to hold back this tone and carry on with her. A group of palace people entered Prince Mo's Mansion.

All the way in, the two banished Concubine Lian to the front hall of the palace. After welcoming her in, they served her tea, and nothing more happened after that.

Except for the palace attendants brought by Concubine Lian, there was no one else in the front hall.

"Empress, this Prince Mo..."

Grandma, who came with Concubine Lian, couldn't help but feel secretly angry when she saw this scene.

Even if King Mo is angry with his empress, he shouldn't be so disrespectful of his biological mother's dignity. Could it be that if Concubine Lian loses her face, how can he, King Mo, be better off?

"Shut up!"

Concubine Lian shouted coldly at her grandmother.

Sui Zimo had an aloof temperament, and he had been away from home for many years, so he didn't have much affection for his biological mother.

And the most important thing is that more than two years ago, in order to gain the emperor's attention again, she poisoned the snacks given to Sui Zimo. This act should have eliminated the only thing Sui Zimo cared about for her. Family ties should also be cut off.

But she didn't know that her poison was extremely secretive, and the emperor had promised her that Sui Zimo would not notice the poison.

Why on earth did Sui Zimo know that she had poisoned him?

"Wait."

Just come with a purpose and just wait.

Her son would never let her mother-in-law wait too long. After all, the relationship between the two was there.

After about half an hour, Yamo Lian finally walked in from the outside with leisurely steps. When he saw Concubine Lian sitting dangerously, a faint smile appeared on her face.

"My son did not know that my mother and concubine were coming and did not greet her. I hope that my mother and concubine will forgive me."

He sat down on the chair next to her and looked at Concubine Lian without any hesitation.

Hearing this, Concubine Lian took a deep breath, her silver teeth almost shattered by biting them, looked up at the people in the room, and waved.

"I have something to say with King Mo. Please step aside."
