

Star of Space 943

Chapter 943 Let you go to Qianhuan Continent?

"I think the reason why we haven't been able to reach the whirlpool may be because of that person." Lin Caisang guessed.

In fact, there was no need to guess, she was already sure of this.

"yes."

Yamollian responded.

"This man is not good at martial arts. If he was just an ordinary person, I could catch him directly. It's a pity..."

He shook his head and sighed.

He didn't understand the people in Qianhuan Continent, and even more so, he didn't even know what the so-called ability to cultivate spirits meant.

If they act rashly, not only will they be alerted, but they may end up being put in danger, so they might as well endure it for a while.

"Catch him? Let's forget it. Don't let it be counterproductive." Lin Caisang said quickly.

"Don't rush this matter. The sooner you rush it, the more likely it will be bad."

"I see."

Ya Molian nodded again.

"At first glance, it turns out that this person is not the black hand hiding at the back, but someone who comes out to take the lead for his master. However, such a person is more than enough to threaten the emperor."

He sneered and said.

"Brother Mo Lian, do you think they just want you to go to Qianhuan Continent?" Lin Caisang guessed.

"I?"

Ya Molian lowered his head, glanced at her whole body lightly, and then raised her head to look at Lin Caisang.

"Sang'er, look at me. Is there anything about me that makes people from Qianhuan Continent want to target me? If they want to use princes to threaten other countries, they should arrest the most favored sons of emperors of various countries. , isn't it?"

As for him, his father wished that he would die early and be reborn. Even if he died in Qianhuan Continent, he would not think of him even one cent, right?

"Brother Mo Lian, can we put aside your identity as the King of Wei? What I am saying is that I now doubt your life experience. Are you really the son of the Emperor and Lian Huan?"

Before, she had just doubted that even if a father could have no feelings for his son, there were plenty of him anyway.

But what about Concubine Lian? At that time, Concubine Lian only had one son, Ya Mo Lian. How could she be so cruel as to abandon her own flesh and blood that she was pregnant with for ten months?

Maybe her brother Mo Lian was really not Concubine Lian's son. Combined with what she learned from Commander Mo about the incident twenty years ago, she really doubted Ya Mo Lian's life experience.

"These are just guesses, there is no way to know." Ya Molian said.

Naturally, he was also suspicious, but without any evidence, it was useless for him to think or doubt anything now.

"Go back, you've gone too far."

He held her hand and led her back.

...

At the other end of Baibind Mountain, the purple vortex was right above the head, and inside a cave, it was already crowded with people, and there was almost no place to sit.

"What the hell is this place? If I had known it, I wouldn't have come here."

They watched helplessly as the people around them were sucked away by the vortex one by one. They didn't even dare to save them, and now, this cave has become their last resting place.

Is there anything worse than this?

"What's the use of talking about it now? We've already arrived, so let's think about how to escape!"

There is nothing to eat or drink. We can only dig some tree roots and peel some bark nearby to eat. When will these days end? They don't want to stay here any more.
