

Chapter 234 Dine Together.

As arranged, Melissa, Leilany and Lukas met at the mall entrance.

"It only opened recently; I know the owner," Leilany said, urging them on. "I met her while I was studying in Japan."

"Have you studied in Japan?" Lukas brightened and cut in. He added, "I studied in Japan, too. Then I went to other places."

"Really? Which school?" Leilany's awkward shyness drained away as she and Lukas chatted about medical school and Japan.

Melissa walked far enough behind them to ensure they had privacy.

Melissa didn't want to disturb Leilany and Lukas, and she felt weirdly and inexplicably embarrassed.

She wondered whether she could leave without causing offense.

Leilany called over her shoulder before Melissa could invent an excuse to leave. "Dr. Sherman, come on. We're here."

The interior design of the restaurant was authentically Japanese. It was busy with customers.

"Leilany, you're here," the owner greeted Leilany with a wide smile.

"Yes, I brought my friends," Leilany said. "Have you reserved a table for us?"

"Yes, of course. It's my best table, lovely and quiet." The owner escorted them to their table.

Melissa sat beside Leilany. Lukas sat opposite Melissa.

The way Lukas acted toward Leilany and even the way he sat at the table made Melissa doubt whether he was insensitive in love.

Melissa looked at the woman beside her.

Leilany studied the menu, as if she cared about nothing else. "Dr. Sherman... Wait, I'll just call you Melly too from now on. Melly, you should try the eel sushi. It's delicious. I would eat seven or eight in one sitting when I was in Japan. And this sashimi..."

Melissa felt helpless. It seemed that Leilany was too careless in love too.

It was not easy playing Cupid.

Melissa passed a menu to Lukas and said, "My treat. Order whatever you want."

"Yes, yes," Leilany said, blushing. "Of course, Dr. Wilde, you should order whatever you want, and then..."

Lukas' smile was open and friendly. "It's fine. I'm not a picky eater. Dr. Green, you are welcome to order for me as you're familiar with the menu."

"Okay," Leilany agreed and ordered a lot of food. "These dishes are delicious. It's a shame not many people try them."

The food arrived within ten minutes.

The dishes were beautifully prepared. The way the food was arranged was like a delicate work of art.

Melissa nodded at Lukas. "Lukas, I hope you enjoy your meal."

"Melly, you should try the food first," Lukas said politely. His face glowed and he looked very handsome in this light.

He picked up a carafe of rice wine and poured three glasses. He handed one each to Melissa and Leilany, bowing his head politely. "Ladies first."

Leilany blushed. Then she began to eat. "Okay then, I'll eat first. I've been looking forward to this all day."

Melissa chuckled.

Leilany and Lukas seemed easy together. Melissa believed that they would be a good match.

They chatted and drank their rice wine.

Melissa thought she was good at drinking, and she was surprised to feel dizzy after only two glasses.

She stood up and grabbed her bag.

"I need the restroom. I won't be long. Have fun without me."
