

Chapter 249 Worse Than Trash

"Now, please welcome the seventh contestant, Leilany Green!"

The crowd went loud again.

But this time, it wasn't shouts of praise. They were laughing at her.

"Don't be nervous. Just apply what you learned," Melissa said in a low voice.

"I've heard you, Melly. You don't need to talk too much," Leilany said with a smile and stuck her tongue out at Melissa. Then, she took a deep breath and walked toward the examination room.

She looked very confident despite the different looks people gave her.

She just had to be as excellent and flawless as Melissa.

"Okay, now begin!" the host declared.

Just as soon, Leilany began to rescue the dummy.

All the nervousness she felt before coming into the room was gone. Images of her practicing kept coming back to her as she worked.

She was not as experienced or practiced as senior doctors, but she still completed the task in a systematic way. She was so rigorous that not a single mistake was found after she was done.

Compared to the other interns, she was the best. She was even better than some senior doctors.

As she came out after the task, the crowd didn't gossip about her anymore. They stared at her, but not in mockery.

Leilany ignored them and walked straight to Melissa.

"Now, please welcome the seventh contestant, Leilany Green!"

The crowd went loud again.

But this time, it wasn't shouts of praise. They were laughing at her.

"Don't be nervous. Just apply what you learned," Melissa said in a low voice.

"I've heard you, Melly. You don't need to talk too much," Leilany said with a smile and stuck her tongue out at Melissa. Then, she took a deep breath and walked toward the examination room.

She looked very confident despite the different looks people gave her.

She just had to be as excellent and flawless as Melissa.

"Okay, now begin!" the host declared.

Just as soon, Leilany began to rescue the dummy.

All the nervousness she felt before coming into the room was gone. Images of her practicing kept coming back to her as she worked.

She was not as experienced or practiced as senior doctors, but she still completed the task in a systematic way. She was so rigorous that not a single mistake was found after she was done.

Compared to the other interns, she was the best. She was even better than some senior doctors.

As she came out after the task, the crowd didn't gossip about her anymore. They stared at her, but not in mockery.

Leilany ignored them and walked straight to Melissa.

"Melly, how was I in there?"

"You did a good job. You're making it to the next round for sure," Melissa said and gave her a thumbs up.

Honestly, she hadn't expected Leilany to place well. After all, she was just an intern, and there was a certain gap between her and a senior doctor in the competition.

Melissa just initially wanted Leilany to challenge herself and enrich her experience. But after what she just saw, it was obvious that Leilany had great potential.

The competition didn't last long. Not long after, the first group finished.

Just as Melissa had predicted, both she and Leilany moved to the next round.

And of course, it brought another round of discussion.

The two jealous doctors were also moved to the next round. They crossed their arms proudly and started walking over arrogantly.

As they passed by Melissa and Leilany, they deliberately bumped into Leilany and kept going as if nothing had happened.

"Hey!" Leilany called them back with furrowed eyebrows. "Are you blind? Didn't you see that you bumped into me?"

"Sorry, I only see people, not trash," one of the doctors rolled her eyes arrogantly and said. "We are very busy and don't have the time for this. Now, excuse us."

With that, she turned around as though the case was closed.

When this started, the only person they saw as a threat was Melissa. They never thought they would have to be wary of a new intern.

"Wait," Leilany said to their backs. When they turned back, she asked, "What do you mean by trash?"

"I mean exactly what you heard—trash."

Melissa had had enough of their nasty attitude. She tilted her head slightly at them and mocked, "If I'm not wrong, I'm sure you didn't score much higher than Leilany did. Are you calling yourselves trash too? Or maybe you are insulting all the colleagues with scores lower than yours. Which one is it?"

The two doctors flushed in embarrassment and looked at each other. One swallowed and said, "We weren't talking about the other colleagues. You misunderstood us."

"Oh, I see. Then I assume you are just talking about Leilany. In that case ..." Melissa took a threatening step closer to them, eyes full of contempt. Then she continued, "Since your score is twenty points lower than mine, logic will have it that you should be lower than trash, right?"

"What? No! We're not saying that!"

The two doctors didn't even know what to say. Melissa had successfully silenced them in front of the crowd.

Our ads aim to provide better support for authors.

 I want no ads >