

Chapter 25 Jump Off The Building

Arielle shouted at Melissa, but all she could do was sit there and watch her walk away. After all, she now needed Melissa's help to save her life.

Melissa felt happy and relaxed. She smiled and nodded at the department leader who had caused her problems earlier when she saw him.

When she returned to her office, a crowd immediately mobbed her. They applauded and complimented her on her eloquence and profundity. It was so much fun to watch Arielle get slapped in the face.

"Miss Arielle Sherman's ward has been under our supervision lately. We are both mentally and physically exhausted from dealing with her."

"Mr. Mayfield has just left in a hurry. His assistant told us not to go into the ward and ordered the Sherman family's caretakers to clean up the mess. I'm so happy and relieved to hear it."

"Dr. Sherman, you did such a great job. Watching those leaders' expressions turn to rage was hilarious!"

Melissa winked smugly when she heard the group's amused reactions.

This time, she helped them in letting off steam. Even if Arielle stirred trouble again, they didn't have to file a special report to the hospital.

Since Melissa was aware that Arielle wouldn't act appropriately, she instructed the head nurse to keep an eye on Arielle in case things went awry.

People remained pragmatic despite Melissa's success as a surgeon internationally. She wouldn't get a favorable response if she compromised the hospital's interests or credibility.

However, Melissa was not someone to be taken lightly. She wouldn't do anything to Arielle as long as she didn't cause her any problems.

Melissa had the day off on the Sunday before the scheduled surgery. However, she suddenly got a call from the hospital when she and her two kids were doing a jigsaw puzzle at home.

"Please come quickly, Dr. Sherman. Arielle wants to jump off the building!" the head nurse exclaimed in a panicked tone.

Melissa rolled her eyes at the news when she heard it. They should have called the police if Arielle had planned to leap off the building. Why were they calling her for it? To rescue the woman after she jumped to her death?

She couldn't revive a dead person even if she were a divine doctor!

Still, Melissa drove back to the hospital out of professional courtesy.

When she arrived, the ground floor was packed with firefighters, emergency personnel, reporters, and spectators.

"Thank God you're finally here, Dr. Sherman. Please proceed to the rooftop quickly!"

When the head nurse saw Melissa, she quickly dragged her inside the building.

"She said that she wanted to go for a stroll this morning. We allowed her since we didn't think it was a big deal. None of us thought she'd get to the roof, but her caregiver came down and informed us that Miss Sherman was about to jump. We were alarmed."

The head nurse's face went pallid and was covered with sweat. She seemed to have been exceedingly worried.

Melissa kept her composure. Since becoming a doctor, she had been no stranger to death. Also, she didn't believe Arielle would dare to jump from a building.

She saw several police officers when she reached the rooftop. Arielle's parents sobbed uncontrollably. They almost fell to their knees and bowed before their precious daughter.

As soon as Melissa arrived, Emily quickly recognized her and rushed over to assault her.

However, she could no longer treat Melissa as a punching bag. Melissa immediately moved aside when she saw Emily nearing her.

But Emily lost her footing and stumbled to the ground. She wailed and sobbed as she sat on the ground.

"It's all your fault. Take a look at what you've done to my daughter! You have no right to be a doctor! Why not just go to hell? How could you hurt her?"

Emily's heart jumped as she locked her gaze on the doctor. She was almost certain the person standing before her was Melissa, but she couldn't admit it. If not, Arielle's standing in the Mayfield family would be jeopardized.

She had to destroy Melissa's image before permanently banishing her from Andeport!
