

Chapter 250 That Figure

To ensure the smooth running of the hospital, the competition would be done in a week, and each round would be done a day or two days apart.

Melissa didn't think it was such a big deal, but Leilany was ecstatic.

At least this way, she would have more time to practice during the breaks.

Leilany was reading a book when she recalled something and snapped her head to look at Melissa. "Melly, I forgot to tell you earlier. Mr. Cooper asked you to come and see him. He said he has something for you."

Melissa nodded, sipped on her coffee and stood up.

"I'll go now since I'm free. You can stay here. I'll go back early to see the children after work."

"Got it!"

Melissa smiled at the intern and started walking for the hospital director's office.

Why was Peter asking for her? Was it just an excuse to ask her to deliberately lose to those doctors?

Melissa asked herself a lot of questions on the way. As she passed by the garden of the hospital, she didn't know what force pushed her, but she looked in a particular direction, and behold, she saw a familiar man.

It was the same man that had kidnapped Lindsey and Merrick.

She could never forget the man's back. She had a good look at his back the last time when he was running away. That was definitely him.

The man was walking stealthily and quickly, as though on another mission.

Melissa didn't even stop to think about it. She started following him immediately.

Her kids were her world. She couldn't just let the man go. Besides, he had not only kidnapped her children, but he also tried to hurt her.

Why would he suddenly show up here out of nowhere? It didn't feel right.

She couldn't figure it out, so she deemed that following him was the best way to find out.

However, the man was cunning and had sharp senses. He soon realized that someone was following him. So, he suddenly turned and walked toward the fence nearby that was hidden by trees.

Melissa ran to catch up with him, but he was gone.

She sighed heavily. Then she took out her phone and dialed a number.

"Everett."

"Melissa? You took the initiative to call me? What's wrong? Did you..."

"No!" She interrupted him and went straight to the point. "I just saw the man that kidnapped Lindsey and Merrick before. I followed him, but he slipped away. I think he will run back to the Western Outskirts. Ask your people to keep an eye out and be careful."

"Okay." Everett nodded and scolded, "But why did you go after him? Don't you know how dangerous that is? He could be armed and could kidnap you instead. Next time, no matter what happens, don't just dive into it alone."

It was an emergency. Melissa rolled her eyes and kept that particular thought to herself.

However, she didn't stay quiet. She outwardly contradicted him like always. "I know it was dangerous. I will consider the stakes and situation next time. I don't need you to teach me."

"Melissa! Can you..."

Melissa hung up immediately. She wasn't interested in whatever he had to say.

Somehow, each time she spoke to Everett, she always wanted to retort and go against him, even when she knew he was right.

Maybe she was being stubborn, but she wasn't changing for no reason.

When she arrived at the office of the hospital director, the door was ajar and he seemed to be on the phone with someone.

"Rita, stop it. You can't come back until you're done with your studies abroad. Otherwise, when you come, I won't be able to fit you in a good position. You will have to start from the very bottom."

"I don't care! I will lose Everett if I don't come back now."

"Who told you that? Don't listen to those rumors. He canceled his engagement with that woman and is single now."
