

Chapter 323 Visit

As Melissa and Leilany walked back side by side, they met a nurse who seemed to have been looking for them.

"You're here, Dr. Sherman."

"Yeah, what's the matter?" Melissa asked.

"Mr. Cooper has something important to discuss with you. He's waiting in his office."

Melissa let out a sigh and nodded. She really didn't like meetings with Peter. She always despised his sanctimonious speeches and how she had to pretend to listen so as not to be rude.

"Well, let me return to my office. It can't be left unattended," Leilany said.

Leilany was about to leave, but the nurse stopped her too. "Hold on, Leilany. You also have to go."

"Me too?" Leilany turned back with confusion in her eyes. The nurse nodded and walked away now that she had delivered her message.

Once the nurse was out of sight, Leilany moved closer to Melissa and whispered, "If this was something about you, Peter wouldn't have called for me too. It's something involving us both. Could it be because of the bet we had with those doctors?"

Melissa raised her eyebrows as she considered this. "Hmm, it could be."

The bet was not concluded because of the accident during the last round of the competition. Maybe, Peter just remembered and wanted to resolve the matter privately.

They both took a turn and arrived in front of Peter's office. They knocked on the door and entered, finding the room crowded.

There were about seven people in the office, including the two doctors they had a conflict with previously.

The hospital was small, so they got to see each other frequently.

Melissa wasn't bothered by the sight of them and just scanned the room until she noticed Lukas sitting in the corner.

Lukas waved and pointed to the two vacant seats beside him. Leilany walked over first, and Melissa followed her. They sat and noticed that Peter wasn't ready to address the crowd yet.

Melissa frowned and turned. "Lukas, you were here earlier than us. Has Mr. Cooper spoken since?" she asked.

"Not at all," Lukas said, shaking his head. "I think this might have something to do with the last conference."

"Hmm, I see." She nodded and straightened her back.

This meant that the meeting was connected to the Green Group, and that was why Leilany was invited.

Melissa had been mentally prepared to fight those doctors. Now she was bored.

In the next ten minutes, more doctors trooped into the office one after the other. There were a total of twelve doctors. Some were experts, and others were young and had potential. It was a gathering of the elites.

Except for Leilany. She was nervous and wondered why she was invited.

Clearing his throat, Peter looked around and said, "Finally everyone has arrived, and we can start the meeting. I called you all here to make a simple announcement. In a few days, our hospital is going to arrange for you to visit the Green Group's first biological laboratory."

This announcement sparked the interest of the doctors, and they began to whisper to each other.

The Green Group was a giant in the medical industry, and they were going to visit its first completed biological lab. This could lead to an alliance between the Green Group and the hospital. Working for the Green Group would mean making a lot of money.

After a few minutes of intense whispers, Peter cleared his throat again. 'Everyone, may I have your attention, please? You are all excellent doctors with great talent and experience in our hospital. I am sending you to visit and study. The Green Group might select some of you to work in their biological laboratory...'
