

Chapter 331 Your Husband

Everett smiled. "I'm here as the father of Lindsey and Merrick."

"You..." Melissa felt awkward, not sure what to say.

The card pinned to his chest stated that he was Merrick's parent. She noticed the excited expressions of the two kids.

Mixed feelings rose in her heart, and she didn't say anything.

"Mr. M... No, I mean Daddy!" Lindsey grabbed Everett's arm and squeezed it tightly.

Merrick didn't say anything, but his face relaxed. He even smiled a little.

"Merrick, come and sit with me," Melissa said, letting Merrick sit in front of her.

They were a good-looking family. Sitting together like that, they attracted the attention of the whole class.

Parents whispered among themselves. A few young girls came forward and asked, "Lindsey, is this your father? He is very handsome."

"And your mom is beautiful."

Lindsey puffed up her chest and said proudly, "Yes, this is my father. He is very busy and makes a lot of money. That's why he doesn't come to the kindergarten very often. My mommy is the best doctor in Andeport."

She snuggled up to Everett.

Her vanity satisfied, she felt very happy.

Some children cooperated with envious looks.

"They are awesome!"

"Merrick, can we visit your home?"

Merrick's eyes lit up. "Sure." It was only one word, but his back straightened as he said it.

He wouldn't have cared when others said he didn't have a father, except that it hurt his sister.

But it felt good to receive the admiring glances.

Everett felt the same.

He wished he'd been part of their lives much earlier. His absence had caused his children to suffer at school.

Although they had only been in Andeport for a few months, they must have heard similar words many times.

He felt guilty thinking about it.

When Lindsey called him Daddy a moment ago, he felt warm inside. He badly wanted to let the twins know he was their real father.

At the thought of this, he smiled mischievously and whispered, "Honey, don't worry. Dad and Mom will be here later."

"Okay," Melissa answered absentmindedly.

Honey? Wait!

How dare he call her honey in public?

She was alarmed. Glancing at the children, she growled in Everett's ear warning him, "Hey, don't talk nonsense in front of so many people."

"I'm not talking nonsense," Everett said. "I'm the father of Lindsey and Merrick, and of course, I'm your husband. It's appropriate to show my affection."

Melissa blushed.

She used to call him honey five years ago. But there was no way she could do it again now. It did not feel real to her. It was humiliating after all she had been through.

She squinted, and carefully but quietly articulated her discomfort.
"Everett, remember we're only playing happy families."

"Then I will act my part well, so the parents and teachers believe us," Everett said. "Just be natural when you call me darling later."

 Limited-time offer: 30 minutes of free reading>>

Claim Now