

Chapter 340 Biological Laboratory

Melissa wanted to agree. Lukas was like a little brother. But she imagined how jealous Leilany might feel.

"No," Melissa started to refuse.

"Melly, it's just that I have a question about an operation," Lukas said quickly, as if afraid that Melissa wouldn't agree. "I was hoping to ask you on the journey."

"Okay, have a seat."

It was a reasonable request, Melissa thought.

Lukas sat beside her. He smelled of washing powder. Clean.

He smiled at Melissa. "Melly, I recently performed an operation, and the professor asked me to make a report."

Lukas and Melissa talked throughout the journey, but Leilany didn't seem upset. Several of the other young doctors watched them and pouted.

"Melly is too old. She's shameless to try to seduce Dr. Wilde."

"There are so many rumors about her. I heard she was a mistress and once had two lovers at the same time."

"Really? Dr. Wilde will get hurt."

Leilany was infuriated by the gossip. She glared at the doctors until they shut up.

She knew what kind of person Melissa was.

The journey took almost two hours.

The biological laboratory was newly built by the Green Group. It was near the suburbs, quiet and beautiful.

Leilany stood up and raised her voice. "Everyone, take your belongings and disembark."

Before Melissa could pick up her bag, a hand stretched out and grabbed it.

"Let me get that for you, Melly."

"No, thanks. I'm perfectly capable of carrying it myself."

Suddenly, Melissa felt someone watching her from behind her back.

She turned around and met the person's gaze.

Everett? What was he doing here?

She felt dazed. Everett looked away and whispered to the person next to him.

It was as if Everett hadn't seen her.

Melissa picked up her bag.

As they emerged from the bus, a group of people streamed out of the entrance to greet them. Zaid was leading the group.

He glanced at Leilany and smiled. She glared at him disdainfully. His smile stayed fixed on his face.

"Welcome to the Green Group's biological laboratory. I'm the chairman of the Green Group, and this is Mr. Mayfield, an important partner. Our guide will show you around."

Leilany rolled her eyes. It turned out they had already arranged a guide. She wanted to show the group around herself. Her entire role couldn't be to sit at the front of the bus like a teacher taking her children for a spring tour.

The old man was cunning. Leilany sulked silently.

Standing at the back of the queue, Melissa felt someone watch her. But when she looked up, she couldn't see who it was.

"I'll join you for lunch in our canteen at noon." Zaid seemed in good humor. He turned to the silent man beside him. "Mr. Mayfield, shall we go in?"

"Okay." Everett nodded. He glanced at Melissa before following Zaid inside.
