

Chapter 354 Physical Examination

For the next few days, Melissa refrained from taking any action.

Mindful of Howell's cunning nature, she couldn't afford to act too eager and give away her plan. It was best to wait for the perfect opportunity, the upcoming banquet on the cruise ship.

Melissa planned to entice Howell into her trap by allowing him to get close to the guests. She hoped that he would be swayed and fall right into her hands.

But amidst all this, Arielle had vanished without a trace since being discharged from the hospital.

"Melly? Melly!" Leilany called out, snapping Melissa out of her thoughts. "Melly, you've been lost in your thoughts. Is everything okay?"

"What's the matter? I was just thinking about something," Melissa replied absentmindedly.

"Nothing. I do, however, have something to give you."

Leilany retrieved a golden card from her pocket and enigmatically placed it on the table.

"In a few days, my father will host a cruise party. I've brought you an invitation card. Let's attend the event together, and Dr. Wilde will also join us."

That was exactly what Melissa wanted. She readily accepted it.

She had been contemplating how to request the invitation card from Zaid since she had not yet confirmed her acceptance to work with the Green Group.

Furthermore, only a few were invited to the luxurious cruise party, and the attendees were wealthy or powerful. It would be challenging for her to attend such an event without relying on the Mayfield family's connections.

Observing this, Leilany arched her eyebrows and expressed her pride.

"I have been quite generous to you, haven't I, Melly?"

"Indeed, you are the best." Melissa gave a slight smile and gestured toward the window. "Leilany, could you water these flowers first?"

"Alright."

Subsequently, Leilany took the watering can and watered each flower individually.

When she came across the jasmine, she asked with curiosity, "I've watered and fertilized the jasmine, so why have the leaves turned yellow?"

Upon hearing Leilany's question, Melissa turned around to face her.

As anticipated, the jasmine's leaves had indeed turned yellow, appearing as though they were malnourished.

"Perhaps it's too hot for it? Let's move it to a cooler location for the time being."

"Fine."

Leilany proceeded to place the pot of jasmine in the corner of the office. As she stood up, she felt dizzy and nearly lost her balance.

"What occurred?" Melissa quickly stood up and supported Leilany's arm. "Are you experiencing symptoms of hypoglycemia? Please take a seat and rest for a moment. I'll prepare some sugar water for you."

"Sure, no problem. Thank you, Melly."

Leilany reclined in the chair and took her time to recuperate, as it took her a while to recover from her hypoglycemic symptoms.

"I'm not sure what's happening, but I've been feeling tired and dizzy lately. Even moving around a little bit makes me feel exhausted," Leilany said.

"How about I apply for a physical examination for you, and you can get a check-up since there are few patients currently?"

Melissa promptly signed a physical examination form without any hesitation.

She handed the form to Leilany and furrowed her brows in concern. "Even though it might be a minor issue, have your body checked. Afterward, please bring the examination results back to me."

Leilany waved her hand dismissively, seemingly wanting to decline Melissa's advice.

However, after some contemplation, Leilany eventually decided to accept it. "Melly, you don't think I'm slacking off, do you?"

"At this point, you should prioritize your health and get checked as soon as possible. If anyone asks, tell them that I have authorized it."

Melissa playfully poked Leilany's forehead and insisted she should go for a check-up.

As soon as Leilany left the office, Melissa turned around and was suddenly overcome by a severe headache, causing her to fall backward uncontrollably.

"Melly!" At that moment, a voice could be heard from the door.

A figure rushed into the office and held her in his arms.
