

Chapter 384 One Hurdle After Another

"Okay, I will get it done."

Leilany nodded her head and walked out of the room, taking out her phone from her pocket.

Half an hour later, two cryogenic storage boxes were sent to the room.

"Miss Green, this is what you asked me to bring."

"Okay, you can leave now." Before the person left, Leilany raised her voice and said, "Also, let my father know that I will be back after a few days."

Then she closed the door.

"Melly, this is what you want."

"Okay." Melissa took a look at the boxes. It had been set in a low temperature. "You can put our blood samples in it, and I'll go and get the bag of unknown object in my office."

"Are you going in alone?" Leilany's face creased in a frown. "I can't let you go in there. What if it's poisonous?"

Melissa believed that it must be poisonous. But she remained calm as she spoke. "Someone must take it out. If we don't do it, how do we know what it is?"

"Alas..."

Without waiting for Leilany to speak again, Melissa went straight into her office, covering her mouth and nose with her sleeves. She took the bag with a handkerchief and carefully placed it into the storage box.

This also gave her an opportunity to examine what it was.

It was a small medicine bottle and had a small opening to it. Inside, there was black liquid.

There was a strong odor. And it was beginning to irritate her eyes as she looked carefully at it.

This liquid should have been diluted. Otherwise, it would have been highly toxic.

Melissa closed the box and walked out of the office quickly.

She looked at Leilany and said, "There may be some smell left in the office. Go and brief the director about the situation. Tell him that there was a snake in the office. Ask someone to clean it up. Make sure you tell them to wear a gas mask. And lastly, stop my schedule this afternoon."

"Okay." Knowing the gravity of the matter, Leilany nodded her head and said, "I'll handle this stuff and you can deal with the blood samples."

"Well, before I do so, I will take the children back."

Lucky for her, both her kids were obedient and cooperated properly from start till end.

After Melissa took them to the car, she took a look at them. They were busy fastening their seatbelts.

"I am going to call Aloys now. Can you be quiet while I speak to him? In the end, I will let you say hi to him."

"Okay."

They nodded enthusiastically.

Immediately, Melissa took out her phone.

She knew her kids missed Aloys deeply. They hadn't spoken to him for quite a long time.

But she couldn't contact Aloys directly, so she rang his trusted subordinate in Andeport.

A minute later, an overseas call came.

Melissa answered the phone.

"Hello, Melissa." Aloys then asked anxiously, "What happened? It is Howell again?"

"No, someone else." She sighed with frustration.

One hurdle after another had presented itself to her since she returned to Andeport.

Although she didn't know what was hidden in the flowerpot, she knew someone was behind it.

There was someone somewhere with an intent to kill her!

Aloys frowned and clenched his phone.

"What happened?"

"I found something in the flowerpot in my office today. And it's harmful from what I know so far. I and the other person in my office have inhaled the smell for a period of time and suffered some symptoms. It was not until Lindsey and Merrick came today that we found out its location."
