

Chapter 493 Humiliating Keira

Melissa smiled at Peter deviously. She knew that he wanted her to work for him again; that was his reason for all this. However, she still wanted to know who the real culprit was.

"Where is the culprit?"

Melissa's interest put a smile on Peter's face. "I'll get her here immediately."

In the space of ten minutes, Keira walked in. The instant she saw Melissa in the office, her face contorted in anger. "You called me here, Dad. Did you do so for her?"

"Indeed. I discovered who framed Dr. Sherman on the hospital's forum already. You are the one causing her so much trouble. Apologize to her immediately and make a public statement to clear the air!"

Keira stared at Peter in shock. "What are you saying, Dad? You want me to apologize to her?"

Peter became irritated. He bellowed at Keira, "You should apologize, shouldn't you? I mean you're the reason Dr. Sherman left our hospital, is that not true?"

Keira continued to stare at Peter in complete shock. Just a few days ago, he'd assured her he would help her seek revenge. Now, Leilany had been hospitalized, and she was still waiting on Melissa's downfall. However, Melissa was perfectly fine, and even worse, her own father was helping the bitch.

Keira's fists tightened as she suppressed the anger within her. "Everything has been my fault, Dr. Sherman. I will make a public statement." Keira bent her head and apologized, anger surging in her heart.

Melissa mocked, "Indeed, Dr. Cooper. You should issue a statement telling everyone you're the culprit."

"Indeed." Keira stormed out in anger.

Peter said, "I'm assuming you'd be returning now that Keira has apologized, right?"

"Returning?" Melissa lifted a brow and frowned. "I never said I'd return to the hospital. How did you get that idea?"

Peter's eyes turned red the instant he heard this. He snarled, "Are you playing with me, Melly?"

"And what about it? You tossed me out of the hospital at the start of all this. Keira only apologized now and you want me back. Why would I listen to you?"

"What is it that you want?"

Melissa crossed her arms over her chest and turned her eyes away. She said in a huff, "I won't be returning here. I know you only want me back because of the public's criticism. However, I have a better job offer now."

Peter never expected that Melissa had been playing him the entire time. She'd used him. She was simply a random employee of his. How dare she treat him this way?!

He yelled in anger, "Don't forget you are still under heat for copying the paper. If you leave now, I would not help you out of this situation."

Melissa paused. She then turned around and gave him a bright smile. "Don't worry, I've fixed that problem. In fact, you should be thinking about how to help Keira now."

"What are you saying?" Peter asked.

"Go online and check the news. You're in for an exciting surprise."

Peter jumped to check the news on the Internet the instant Melissa walked out. His eyes widened when he saw it. A video of Keira apologizing to Melissa was trending, everywhere.