

Read Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 211

Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 211

"I'm paying you a visit, and this is a little something from me."

When Fia saw her, her eyes became sharp. "How dare you come here!"

"Fia, I'm worried about you. After Conrad fainted last night, I thought you ran out to call for Mrs. Taylor. I didn't dare leave Conrad alone. If I had known that you would fall from the stairs, I would have had you keep an eye on Conrad and I would have gotten Mrs. Taylor instead.

"At the end of the day, you're the one that's being so childish. Why are you hiding your pregnancy from all of us? So many people are worried about you as you haven't gotten pregnant for three years. This is at good thing. Why didn't you tell us?"

Fia could feel herself getting a headache and her eyes almost popped out from staring at her.

"You manipulative woman!"

"What are you doing?!" Esme acted out like she was shocked. "I didn't yell at you. I was simply stating facts."

"The way you're saying it is making others suspect me and the baby!"

"I'm not." Esme glanced at Conrad. When she saw him simply sitting there in silence, she got even more worried.

"You're getting so emotional. Could it be because you have some mental problems?"

"You whore!" Fia cursed out loudly as the veins on her forehead almost popped. She was going to get off her bed and pounce at Esme.

"Conrad!" Esme cried out in fear. "Fia wants to hit me. What did I do wrong?"

Conrad immediately stopped Fia and pressed her down in bed so that she couldn't move.

"Listen to the doctor. For our baby."

Fia stared at Conrad as she heaved. She could feel her chest about to explode from all the anger.

"Do you know how many dirty things she did behind your back?! You're still helping her?!"

"I'm not helping her. I'm just worried about you and our baby," Conrad said. He noticed that she was losing control of her emotions, so he turned around and stared at Esme who was pretending to be innocent. "Leave, now!"

"Why? I... I'm just here visiting Fia. Aunt Echo and Grandmother have both passed away. I'm worried."

"I don't need you to worry about me. If it wasn't because I was lucky yesterday, I would have died along with my baby because of you!" Fia screamed out uncontrollably.

"Don't be ridiculous, Fia! You fell down yourself! I didn't even touch you!" Esme cried out as if she had been wrongly accused.

Conrad could feel his eardrums almost bursting from the screaming. He could feel Fia's breathing becoming more and more rapid. He quickly stood up and dragged Esme away, then threw her out of the ward.

"Conrad..."

Esme cried as she sat on the ground.

Conran then said in a stern voice as a violent aura surrounded him.

Did you actually listen to a word I said? The only reason that the police didn't continue investigating you pushing Fia down the stairs is because of me! I'm treating this as a final favor to you! And yet, you come over to provoke Fia again!"

“I didn’t push her. I didn’t!” Esme’s tears rolled as she bellowed. “You can’t simply think that I admit to it because I didn’t refute you during the candlelight dinner! I was touched that you’re standing on my side! I wasn’t acknowledging it! How could I...”

“Enough! We’ll pretend that this never happened. You should feel lucky that Fia and the baby are alright. Otherwise, the investigation would not have stopped there!”

Back in the ward, Fia was listening to their conversation.

She wasn’t touched at all, though. Instead, she felt that Conrad was still siding with Esme. He chose to be blind because she and her child didn’t suffer any major injuries.

Esme sat on the ground, dumbfounded. The anger and coldness in Conrad’s eyes pierced through her heart.

The young man that used to only think about her... How did he become like this?

Conrad closed the door to the ward and quickly walked over to the bed. He held Fia carefully in his arms and gently said, “Don’t get angry, Fia. I got rid of her.”

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 212

Fia’s eyes were red out of hatred. She gripped Conrad’s arm tightly and said with a cold, hateful tone, “I didn’t lie. She didn’t touch me, but she was the reason that I fell from the staircase!”

Conrad frowned as he didn’t know what to say.

When he looked at her like this, the scale in his mind slowly tilted toward her.

She was his wife and she bore his child. He should believe her.

“And about Eileen.” The vein on Fia’s neck was popping as she gripped Conrad’s arm even tighter to the point that she was scratching him. “It’s definitely her doing! No one else would do it!”

Conrad's heart sank. He already knew about Eileen and Victor some time ago. It was just that his relationship with Victor had always been sour and he didn't understand the worry Fia had for her best friend. That was why he wasn't that proactive in dealing with it.

"Conrad, I'm telling you right now. Esme hurt Eileen because of me. You can't simply stand by and do nothing!"

"Alright. I'll help you deal with this."

"If you can't deal with this, then there's no future for the both of us!" Fia glared at Conrad with a shadowy expression.

She was different from before.

She loved him. She would demand herself not to use his money or bring any problems to him.

But, her strictness toward herself didn't help her in getting treated well in the marriage.

She had been set up. She couldn't let Eileen get hurt too. Conrad needed to deal with this!

"Rest first. I'll ask Silas to deal with this."

"The Maxwell Corporation's law department and public relations department are the best of the best. With those from Victor's company, you need to deal with this by today!" Fia had just checked on her phone. Although the video was completely gone and it was always getting removed from the searches, there were simply too many people discussing it online. The matter between Eileen and Victor never stopped. In less than two days, there were already a few advertising companies that wanted to stop their collaboration with her and had demanded compensation.

Conrad's eyes turned dark as his arms holding around Fia tightened.

"Fia... this is the first time you're asking for my help, but it's not for yourself." And that upset him very much.

“If you can’t even deal with this, it’s impossible for me to ask for your help on other things!” Fia had just said that when he pushed his arm away and lay back into the bed on her side as if she was covered by an aura of apathy.

Conrad stared at her for a few seconds before walking over to the window. He dialed Silas’s number and said, “Get in touch with Victor. Use whatever is necessary to settle Eileen Reid’s scandal by this evening!”

Silas’s heart skipped a beat when he heard his boss. He reminded him, “Sir, we’re not in a good position to interfere. Mr. Victor’s fiancée is your cousin.”

“I know. If necessary, I will use her to settle this as well.” Conrad ignored Silas’s objection and said, “And Thea’s project. Once the contract’s ready, take it to the hospital in the afternoon.”

He hung up. Conrad turned around and looked at Fia. “What do you want for breakfast? I’ll buy it for you.”

Fia raised her eyes and stared at him for two seconds. “Sapphire is innocent.”

Conrad frowned. “She’s the best way to settle this.”

Fia remembered how well Sapphire treated her every time she saw her. She never treated her like her mother-in-law Beryl.

“Your cousin Victor is the bastard.”

Conrad was silent for a moment before saying, “Fia, you must know that if we push all the responsibility on Victor saying that he cheated with a celebrity over his fiancée, no matter how bad of a man he was, those people will only think that Ms. Reid didn’t have enough self-respect. Meanwhile, Sapphire would only end up as a victim. Ms. Reid would be ruined.”

Fia had no counterargument for that. Conrad’s analysis was correct. “Then, how do you want Sapphire to deal with this?”

.

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 213

“If necessary, I would have her prove that the person in the video is not Ms. Reid, but her and Victor.”

Fia could feel her heart tightening. It was too cruel to Sapphire.

Conrad could see Fia’s emotions through her eyes. “This has nothing to do with you. This is the method I came up with. I’m simply telling you how it is.”

At this time, there was a knock at the door. It was Sally coming with breakfast.

She looked at Conrad who was standing coldly by the window and she walked over to Fia with a smile.

“I just went to the cafeteria to have some breakfast, so I brought you some.”

“Thank you, Doctor Hall.”

“You’re welcome.”

Conrad quickly walked over, worried that Fia would accept it. He refused her coldly. “No thanks.”

Sally didn’t even glance at him before saying, “I bought this for Fia, not for you. If you don’t want to eat this, go and buy food yourself.”

Conrad was speechless.

“I’ll help you up, Fia?”

Fia felt somewhat on the defensive. She felt that it was not from Sally, but from Jason.

“You have a baby now, so you need to eat breakfast. It’s already nine. If you don’t eat, the baby will be hungry.” Sally advised her gently as she helped Fia up and then said to Conrad, “You’re a sorry excuse of a husband. Feed her!”

Conrad realized that he was indeed not fitting to be a husband. He needed time to buy breakfast too. And so, he no longer refused Sally's breakfast and fed it to Fia.

"Thank you, doctor." Fia's eyes were filled with gratitude. Sally and Jason were both very good doctors and she hoped that the two of them could get together eventually.

Both of them were gentle and kind people. They would be very happy if they got together.

However, there were plenty of people who had similar temperaments, but they might not see eye to eye.

It was almost twelve in the afternoon. Conrad was worried as Silas was late in delivering the lunch and Fia would starve, so he called him about it.

Fia had been lying down since breakfast. So, she sat up and switched on the television.

It was showing the local news. On the screen, a group of reporters was chasing a graceful woman.

The woman's face was wine-red in color. She didn't know if it was because of her makeup or because of her inner struggle.

The moment she opened her mouth, Fia's expression changed.

"It's just as I've written on my Facebook. The woman in the video is me, not Ms. Reid. I don't know who wants to frame her that they even changed my face to hers."

She paused, and then said in an embarrassing tone, "I believe that all of you know that I'm Victor's fiancée. Both of us are engaged. Not to mention that we're both adults, and spending a night together is not against the law. There's no need to secretly film us and frame the innocent Ms. Reid."

When she looked straight ahead, everyone watching the live news could see right into her clear eyes.

"I don't watch dramas that much, but I've watched all the shows that Ms. Reid has starred in. I really love how spirited she is. I wish that all of you can let her be and stop hurting her." After she finished saying that, Sapphire bowed, embarrassed, while still maintaining her grace.

Fia's heart sank and she looked at Conrad who had just finished his call.

"You made her do it?"

Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 214

Conrad stared at the television screen with mixed feelings. He then answered Fia's question. "It wasn't me."

"Not you? But what she did was what you said this morning."

Conrad turned around and looked at Fia. "Other than that, another way is to have Sapphire and Victor announce that their engagement had already been canceled and that he's dating Ms. Reid."

Fia's heart turned cold as she looked at the television. She looked at

Sapphire getting escorted by several bodyguards to a car and leaving. There was a man inside the car. While she only saw his face from one side, she knew who he was because he looked somewhat similar to Conrad. It was Victor.

"Your cousin forced Sapphire to do that?"

"There's also a possibility that Sapphire wanted to do it."

“Why? She knows it’s not her. How’s it possible for her to take it lying down as his fiancée?”

Conrad could see all the different types of emotions in her through her eyes. On one hand, she was worried about Eileen. On the other hand, she was feeling guilty toward Sapphire. However, more than those two was her anger toward Victor for cheating.

In that instant, he felt like he saw the relationship between him, her, and Esme.

While the details of the triangle affair in this world were different, they all shared the same logic.

“Fia, don’t put yourself into their roles. Look at it as an outsider. Perhaps, Sapphire has an aim to willingly replace Eileen.”

“Even if she does, she won’t feel good about it. And Eileen. None of you know what she went through. Two years ago, she...”

Fia decided to shut up in frustration. She didn’t want to reveal to everyone how Victor forced Eileen to abort her baby.

She lowered her head with both her hands in her hair. She was very sympathetic toward Eileen. She used to love Victor so much. She was so much like her in the way she treated Victor.

There was nothing wrong with a woman loving a man. It was only wrong when she was too foolish and too ignorant. When she couldn’t be selfish and serve only herself.

“I wonder how Eileen’s doing. I can’t call her.”

Conrad swallowed before analyzing the situation calmly. “Don’t worry about Ms. Reid. From how things are going, Sapphire must have discussed this with Victor. He would never allow Sapphire to bring this up ever again. Meanwhile, Ms. Reid’s career is going to step up to another level.”

Sapphire’s sacrifice allowed Eileen to “clear her name” and free her from being cursed at by the public. This would boost her reputation further.

Fia knew that. But she didn't believe that Eileen was a woman that could ignore her feelings. She felt somewhat uneasy. She really wanted to go see her. To accompany her and to have a chat with her.

Conrad walked over and put a hand on Fia's shoulder, trying to console her. "Don't worry. Victor's company will release a statement as well. Ms. Reid's matter will be solved very soon."

"Conrad." Fia raised her head and looked at him. Lately, her eyes had always been bloodshot. "Do you think that Eileen is happy?"

Conrad frowned and said, "I don't know her that well. But just from how this is resolved, she won."

"Then how do you think your cousin will thank Sapphire?"

Conrad bit his lips. He already knew the answer but he didn't want to tell her. He didn't want her to worry about others.

Fia's tears rolled down as she looked at Conrad.

"Is Victor going to marry Sapphire?"

"They've been engaged for a few years already."

"Conrad... You must have known what's going on between your cousin and Eileen!" Fia raised her voice. She didn't believe that this was the right way to resolve the issue.

Eileen didn't know if Victor had any love for her at all. If he married Sapphire, what about her?

"Fia, you have to understand that there's no perfect way to solve this." Conrad bent down and held Fia's shoulders, as he looked deeply into her eyes.

Read Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 212

Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 212

Fia's eyes were red out of hatred. She gripped Conrad's arm tightly and said with a cold, hateful tone, "I didn't lie. She didn't touch me, but

she was the reason that I fell from the staircase!"

Conrad frowned as he didn't know what to say.

When he looked at her like this, the scale in his mind slowly tilted toward her.

She was his wife and she bore his child. He should believe her.

"And about Eileen." The vein on Fia's neck was popping as she gripped Conrad's arm even tighter to the point that she was scratching him. "It's definitely her doing! No one else would do it!"

Conrad's heart sank. He already knew about Eileen and Victor some time ago. It was just that his relationship with Victor had always been sour and he didn't understand the worry Fia had for her best friend. That was why he wasn't that proactive in dealing with it.

"Conrad, I'm telling you right now. Esme hurt Eileen because of me. You can't simply stand by and do nothing!"

"Alright. I'll help you deal with this."

"If you can't deal with this, then there's no future for the both of us!" Fia glared at Conrad with a shadowy expression.

She was different from before.

She loved him. She would demand herself not to use his money or bring any problems to him.

But, her strictness toward herself didn't help her in getting treated well in the marriage.

She had been set up. She couldn't let Eileen get hurt too. Conrad needed to deal with this!

"Rest first. I'll ask Silas to deal with this."

"The Maxwell Corporation's law department and public relations department are the best of the best. With those from Victor's company, you need to deal with this by today!" Fia had just checked on her phone. Although the video was completely gone and it was always getting removed from the searches, there were simply too many people discussing it online. The matter between Eileen and Victor never stopped. In less than two days, there were already a few advertising companies that wanted to stop their collaboration with her and had demanded compensation.

Conrad's eyes turned dark as his arms holding around Fia tightened.

"Fia... this is the first time you're asking for my help, but it's not for yourself." And that upset him very much.

"If you can't even deal with this, it's impossible for me to ask for your help on other things!" Fia had just said that when he pushed his arm away and lay back into the bed on her side as if she was covered by an aura of apathy.

Conrad stared at her for a few seconds before walking over to the window. He dialed Silas's number and said, "Get in touch with Victor. Use whatever is necessary to settle Eileen Reid's scandal by this evening!"

Silas's heart skipped a beat when he heard his boss. He reminded him, "Sir, we're not in a good position to interfere. Mr. Victor's fiancée is your cousin."

"I know. If necessary, I will use her to settle this as well." Conrad ignored Silas's objection and said, "And Thea's project. Once the contract's ready, take it to the hospital in the afternoon."

He hung up. Conrad turned around and looked at Fia. "What do you want for breakfast? I'll buy it for you."

Fia raised her eyes and stared at him for two seconds. "Sapphire is innocent."

Conrad frowned. "She's the best way to settle this."

Fia remembered how well Sapphire treated her every time she saw her. She never treated her like her mother-in-law Beryl.

“Your cousin Victor is the bastard.”

Conrad was silent for a moment before saying, “Fia, you must know that if we push all the responsibility on Victor saying that he cheated with a celebrity over his fiancée, no matter how bad of a man he was, those people will only think that Ms. Reid didn’t have enough self-respect. Meanwhile, Sapphire would only end up as a victim. Ms. Reid would be ruined.”

Fia had no counterargument for that. Conrad’s analysis was correct. “Then, how do you want Sapphire to deal with this?”

.

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 213

“If necessary, I would have her prove that the person in the video is not Ms. Reid, but her and Victor.”

Fia could feel her heart tightening. It was too cruel to Sapphire.

Conrad could see Fia’s emotions through her eyes. “This has nothing to do with you. This is the method I came up with. I’m simply telling you how it is.”

At this time, there was a knock at the door. It was Sally coming with breakfast.

She looked at Conrad who was standing coldly by the window and she walked over to Fia with a smile.

“I just went to the cafeteria to have some breakfast, so I brought you some.”

“Thank you, Doctor Hall.”

“You’re welcome.”

Conrad quickly walked over, worried that Fia would accept it. He refused her coldly. "No thanks."

Sally didn't even glance at him before saying, "I bought this for Fia, not for you. If you don't want to eat this, go and buy food yourself."

Conrad was speechless.

"I'll help you up, Fia?"

Fia felt somewhat on the defensive. She felt that it was not from Sally, but from Jason.

"You have a baby now, so you need to eat breakfast. It's already nine. If you don't eat, the baby will be hungry." Sally advised her gently as she helped Fia up and then said to Conrad, "You're a sorry excuse of a husband. Feed her!"

Conrad realized that he was indeed not fitting to be a husband. He needed time to buy breakfast too. And so, he no longer refused Sally's breakfast and fed it to Fia.

"Thank you, doctor." Fia's eyes were filled with gratitude. Sally and Jason were both very good doctors and she hoped that the two of them could get together eventually.

Both of them were gentle and kind people. They would be very happy if they got together.

However, there were plenty of people who had similar temperaments, but they might not see eye to eye.

It was almost twelve in the afternoon. Conrad was worried as Silas was late in delivering the lunch and Fia would starve, so he called him about it.

Fia had been lying down since breakfast. So, she sat up and switched on the television.

It was showing the local news. On the screen, a group of reporters was chasing a graceful woman.

The woman's face was wine-red in color. She didn't know if it was because of her makeup or because of her inner struggle.

The moment she opened her mouth, Fia's expression changed.

"It's just as I've written on my Facebook. The woman in the video is me, not Ms. Reid. I don't know who wants to frame her that they even changed my face to hers."

She paused, and then said in an embarrassing tone, "I believe that all of you know that I'm Victor's fiancée. Both of us are engaged. Not to mention that we're both adults, and spending a night together is not against the law. There's no need to secretly film us and frame the innocent Ms. Reid."

When she looked straight ahead, everyone watching the live news could see right into her clear eyes.

"I don't watch dramas that much, but I've watched all the shows that Ms. Reid has starred in. I really love how spirited she is. I wish that all of you can let her be and stop hurting her." After she finished saying that, Sapphire bowed, embarrassed, while still maintaining her grace.

Fia's heart sank and she looked at Conrad who had just finished his call.

"You made her do it?"

Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 214

Conrad stared at the television screen with mixed feelings. He then answered Fia's question. "It wasn't me."

"Not you? But what she did was what you said this morning."

Conrad turned around and looked at Fia. "Other than that, another way is to have Sapphire and Victor announce that their engagement had already been canceled and that he's dating Ms. Reid."

Fia's heart turned cold as she looked at the television. She looked at

Sapphire getting escorted by several bodyguards to a car and leaving. There was a man inside the car. While she only saw his face from one side, she knew who he was because he looked somewhat similar to Conrad. It was Victor.

"Your cousin forced Sapphire to do that?"

"There's also a possibility that Sapphire wanted to do it."

"Why? She knows it's not her. How's it possible for her to take it lying down as his fiancée?"

Conrad could see all the different types of emotions in her through her eyes. On one hand, she was worried about Eileen. On the other hand, she was feeling guilty toward Sapphire. However, more than those two was her anger toward Victor for cheating.

In that instant, he felt like he saw the relationship between him, her,

and Esme.

While the details of the triangle affair in this world were different, they all shared the same logic.

"Fia, don't put yourself into their roles. Look at it as an outsider. Perhaps, Sapphire has an aim to willingly replace Eileen."

"Even if she does, she won't feel good about it. And Eileen. None of you know what she went through. Two years ago, she..."

Fia decided to shut up in frustration. She didn't want to reveal to everyone how Victor forced Eileen to abort her baby.

She lowered her head with both her hands in her hair. She was very sympathetic toward Eileen. She used to love Victor so much. She was so much like her in the way she treated Victor.

There was nothing wrong with a woman loving a man. It was only wrong when she was too foolish and too ignorant. When she couldn't be selfish and serve only herself.

"I wonder how Eileen's doing. I can't call her."

Conrad swallowed before analyzing the situation calmly. "Don't worry about Ms. Reid. From how things are going, Sapphire must have discussed this with Victor. He would never allow Sapphire to bring this up ever again. Meanwhile, Ms. Reid's career is going to step up to another level."

Sapphire's sacrifice allowed Eileen to "clear her name" and free her from being cursed at by the public. This would boost her reputation

further.

Fia knew that. But she didn't believe that Eileen was a woman that could ignore her feelings. She felt somewhat uneasy. She really wanted to go see her. To accompany her and to have a chat with her.

Conrad walked over and put a hand on Fia's shoulder, trying to console her. "Don't worry. Victor's company will release a statement as well. Ms. Reid's matter will be solved very soon."

"Conrad." Fia raised her head and looked at him. Lately, her eyes had always been bloodshot. "Do you think that Eileen is happy?"

Conrad frowned and said, "I don't know her that well. But just from how this is resolved, she won."

"Then how do you think your cousin will thank Sapphire?"

Conrad bit his lips. He already knew the answer but he didn't want to tell her. He didn't want her to worry about others.

Fia's tears rolled down as she looked at Conrad.

"Is Victor going to marry Sapphire?"

"They've been engaged for a few years already."

“Conrad... You must have known what’s going on between your cousin and Eileen!” Fia raised her voice. She didn’t believe that this was the right way to resolve the issue.

Eileen didn’t know if Victor had any love for her at all. If he married Sapphire, what about her?

“Fia, you have to understand that there’s no perfect way to solve this.” Conrad bent down and held Fia’s shoulders, as he looked deeply into her eyes.

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 213

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 213

“If necessary, I would have her prove that the person in the video is not Ms. Reid, but her and Victor.”

Fia could feel her heart tightening. It was too cruel to Sapphire.

Conrad could see Fia’s emotions through her eyes. “This has nothing to do with you. This is the method I came up with. I’m simply telling you how it is.”

At this time, there was a knock at the door. It was Sally coming with breakfast.

She looked at Conrad who was standing coldly by the window and she walked over to Fia with a smile.

“I just went to the cafeteria to have some breakfast, so I brought you some.”

“Thank you, Doctor Hall.”

“You’re welcome.”

Conrad quickly walked over, worried that Fia would accept it. He refused her coldly. "No thanks."

Sally didn't even glance at him before saying, "I bought this for Fia, not for you. If you don't want to eat this, go and buy food yourself."

Conrad was speechless.

"I'll help you up, Fia?"

Fia felt somewhat on the defensive. She felt that it was not from Sally, but from Jason.

"You have a baby now, so you need to eat breakfast. It's already nine. If you don't eat, the baby will be hungry." Sally advised her gently as she helped Fia up and then said to Conrad, "You're a sorry excuse of a husband. Feed her!"

Conrad realized that he was indeed not fitting to be a husband. He needed time to buy breakfast too. And so, he no longer refused Sally's breakfast and fed it to Fia.

"Thank you, doctor." Fia's eyes were filled with gratitude. Sally and Jason were both very good doctors and she hoped that the two of them could get together eventually.

Both of them were gentle and kind people. They would be very happy if they got together.

However, there were plenty of people who had similar temperaments, but they might not see eye to eye.

It was almost twelve in the afternoon. Conrad was worried as Silas was late in delivering the lunch and Fia would starve, so he called him about it.

Fia had been lying down since breakfast. So, she sat up and switched on the television.

It was showing the local news. On the screen, a group of reporters was chasing a graceful woman.

The woman's face was wine-red in color. She didn't know if it was because of her makeup or because of her inner struggle.

The moment she opened her mouth, Fia's expression changed.

"It's just as I've written on my Facebook. The woman in the video is me, not Ms. Reid. I don't know who wants to frame her that they even changed my face to hers."

She paused, and then said in an embarrassing tone, "I believe that all of you know that I'm Victor's fiancée. Both of us are engaged. Not to mention that we're both adults, and spending a night together is not against the law. There's no need to secretly film us and frame the innocent Ms. Reid."

When she looked straight ahead, everyone watching the live news could see right into her clear eyes.

"I don't watch dramas that much, but I've watched all the shows that Ms. Reid has starred in. I really love how spirited she is. I wish that all of you can let her be and stop hurting her." After she finished saying that, Sapphire bowed, embarrassed, while still maintaining her grace.

Fia's heart sank and she looked at Conrad who had just finished his call.

"You made her do it?"

Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 214

Conrad stared at the television screen with mixed feelings. He then answered Fia's question. "It wasn't me."

"Not you? But what she did was what you said this morning."

Conrad turned around and looked at Fia. "Other than that, another way is to have Sapphire and Victor announce that their engagement had already been canceled and that he's dating Ms. Reid."

Fia's heart turned cold as she looked at the television. She looked at

Sapphire getting escorted by several bodyguards to a car and leaving. There was a man inside the car. While she only saw his face from one side, she knew who he was because he looked somewhat similar to Conrad. It was Victor.

"Your cousin forced Sapphire to do that?"

"There's also a possibility that Sapphire wanted to do it."

"Why? She knows it's not her. How's it possible for her to take it lying down as his fiancée?"

Conrad could see all the different types of emotions in her through her eyes. On one hand, she was worried about Eileen. On the other hand, she was feeling guilty toward Sapphire. However, more than those two was her anger toward Victor for cheating.

In that instant, he felt like he saw the relationship between him, her,

and Esme.

While the details of the triangle affair in this world were different, they all shared the same logic.

"Fia, don't put yourself into their roles. Look at it as an outsider. Perhaps, Sapphire has an aim to willingly replace Eileen."

"Even if she does, she won't feel good about it. And Eileen. None of you know what she went through. Two years ago, she..."

Fia decided to shut up in frustration. She didn't want to reveal to everyone how Victor forced Eileen to abort her baby.

She lowered her head with both her hands in her hair. She was very sympathetic toward Eileen. She used to love Victor so much. She was so much like her in the way she treated Victor.

There was nothing wrong with a woman loving a man. It was only wrong when she was too foolish and too ignorant. When she couldn't be selfish and serve only herself.

"I wonder how Eileen's doing. I can't call her."

Conrad swallowed before analyzing the situation calmly. "Don't worry about Ms. Reid. From how things are going, Sapphire must have discussed this with Victor. He would never allow Sapphire to bring this up ever again. Meanwhile, Ms. Reid's career is going to step up to another level."

Sapphire's sacrifice allowed Eileen to "clear her name" and free her from being cursed at by the public. This would boost her reputation

further.

Fia knew that. But she didn't believe that Eileen was a woman that could ignore her feelings. She felt somewhat uneasy. She really wanted to go see her. To accompany her and to have a chat with her.

Conrad walked over and put a hand on Fia's shoulder, trying to console her. "Don't worry. Victor's company will release a statement as well. Ms. Reid's matter will be solved very soon."

"Conrad." Fia raised her head and looked at him. Lately, her eyes had always been bloodshot. "Do you think that Eileen is happy?"

Conrad frowned and said, "I don't know her that well. But just from how this is resolved, she won."

"Then how do you think your cousin will thank Sapphire?"

Conrad bit his lips. He already knew the answer but he didn't want to tell her. He didn't want her to worry about others.

Fia's tears rolled down as she looked at Conrad.

"Is Victor going to marry Sapphire?"

"They've been engaged for a few years already."

“Conrad... You must have known what’s going on between your cousin and Eileen!” Fia raised her voice. She didn’t believe that this was the right way to resolve the issue.

Eileen didn’t know if Victor had any love for her at all. If he married Sapphire, what about her?

“Fia, you have to understand that there’s no perfect way to solve this.” Conrad bent down and held Fia’s shoulders, as he looked deeply into her eyes.

Read Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 214

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 214

Conrad stared at the television screen with mixed feelings. He then answered Fia’s question. “It wasn’t me.”

“Not you? But what she did was what you said this morning.”

Conrad turned around and looked at Fia. “Other than that, another way is to have Sapphire and Victor announce that their engagement had already been canceled and that he’s dating Ms. Reid.”

Fia’s heart turned cold as she looked at the television. She looked at Sapphire getting escorted by several bodyguards to a car and leaving. There was a man inside the car. While she only saw his face from one side, she knew who he was because he looked somewhat similar to Conrad. It was Victor.

“Your cousin forced Sapphire to do that?”

“There’s also a possibility that Sapphire wanted to do it.”

“Why? She knows it’s not her. How’s it possible for her to take it lying down as his fiancée?”

Conrad could see all the different types of emotions in her through her eyes. On one hand, she was worried about Eileen. On the other hand, she was feeling guilty toward Sapphire. However, more than those two was her anger toward Victor for cheating.

In that instant, he felt like he saw the relationship between him, her, and Esme.

While the details of the triangle affair in this world were different, they all shared the same logic.

“Fia, don’t put yourself into their roles. Look at it as an outsider. Perhaps, Sapphire has an aim to willingly replace Eileen.”

“Even if she does, she won’t feel good about it. And Eileen. None of you know what she went through. Two years ago, she...”

Fia decided to shut up in frustration. She didn’t want to reveal to everyone how Victor forced Eileen to abort her baby.

She lowered her head with both her hands in her hair. She was very sympathetic toward Eileen. She used to love Victor so much. She was so much like her in the way she treated Victor.

There was nothing wrong with a woman loving a man. It was only wrong when she was too foolish and too ignorant. When she couldn’t be selfish and serve only herself.

“I wonder how Eileen’s doing. I can’t call her.”

Conrad swallowed before analyzing the situation calmly. “Don’t worry about Ms. Reid. From how things are going, Sapphire must have discussed this with Victor. He would never allow Sapphire to bring this up ever again. Meanwhile, Ms. Reid’s career is going to step up to another level.”

Sapphire’s sacrifice allowed Eileen to “clear her name” and free her from being cursed at by the public. This would boost her reputation

further.

Fia knew that. But she didn't believe that Eileen was a woman that could ignore her feelings. She felt somewhat uneasy. She really wanted to go see her. To accompany her and to have a chat with her.

Conrad walked over and put a hand on Fia's shoulder, trying to console her. "Don't worry. Victor's company will release a statement as well. Ms. Reid's matter will be solved very soon."

"Conrad." Fia raised her head and looked at him. Lately, her eyes had always been bloodshot. "Do you think that Eileen is happy?"

Conrad frowned and said, "I don't know her that well. But just from how this is resolved, she won."

"Then how do you think your cousin will thank Sapphire?"

Conrad bit his lips. He already knew the answer but he didn't want to tell her. He didn't want her to worry about others.

Fia's tears rolled down as she looked at Conrad.

"Is Victor going to marry Sapphire?"

"They've been engaged for a few years already."

"Conrad... You must have known what's going on between your cousin and Eileen!" Fia raised her voice. She didn't believe that this was the right way to resolve the issue.

Eileen didn't know if Victor had any love for her at all. If he married Sapphire, what about her?

"Fia, you have to understand that there's no perfect way to solve this." Conrad bent down and held Fia's shoulders, as he looked deeply into her eyes.

Read Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 215

Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 215

“Just like us. I chose to live with you, but I needed to hurt Esme.”

Fia smiled bitterly. “Just like if you chose to chase after your love, the baby inside of me would suffer, right?”

Conrad frowned as he found it to be quite offensive.

He noticed that no matter what he said, Fia would never believe that he really wanted to cut Esme out. “Speaking of which, the reason that you changed must be because you pitied me for losing my mom and grandma, and now because I have a child. Most of this is because of the child, isn't it?”

Fia felt that her thoughts were getting more and more muddled.

“You can think of anything, but why won't you believe that it's because I have feelings for you?” Conrad said angrily. He said it in a rush to the point that he frowned.

There was no mistake that he had feelings for her. However, he didn't know how deep they were.

He had grown to dislike Esme's plots and changes, and he missed the Fia who he had been married to for the past three years.

Yes... He wanted to live with her after this!

“Haha...” Fia laughed bitterly and mockingly. “Even if you have feelings for me, it's the feeling from interacting with each other as husband and wife. Maybe it's even from when you treat me as a younger sister. Either way, it can't be compared to your childhood love.”

She swallowed the bitterness inside of her and gave Conrad a voiceless smile.

“The reason that you said you want to cut her off is because you noticed that she, too, is a normal person. She gets jealous too. She knows how to plot too. You can’t accept it right now. But when you realize that I’m even more ordinary, or maybe if she cries a little more, you’ll go back to her again out of pity.”

Conrad frowned. He wanted to refute her but he couldn’t. He had done exactly that one time too many lately.

Rather than wasting time telling her about it, he should just do whatever he could for her instead.

“Just watch me, Fia. We have all the time in the world.”

Fia pushed him away and stopped showing her broken emotion on her face. “I’ll take whatever I have. I don’t want to think about it anymore since I can’t expect you to keep your promises too much. All I can do is hope that Eileen will be alright. And my child...”

When she talked about her baby, the smile on her face became genuine as she covered her tummy with both her hands gently.

“My first baby... I will be the best mom I can and teach everything the child needs to know patiently.”

Conrad looked at her numbly. The girl from the past was looking forward to being a mother. His heart trembled. He wanted to be together with her.

He wanted to hold her and hold their child.

Just then, someone knocked on the door. Conrad went over to open it. It was Silas.

“Sorry, sir. Bad traffic so that took some time.”

Conrad grabbed the picnic box from him and asked, “Did you bring the contract?”

“I did.”

Silas grabbed the briefcase under his armpit, took out the document, and gave it to him.

Conrad then whispered, "All done?"

"Yes." Silas nodded.

"Then go back to the company." Conrad took the document and lunch back into the ward, and closed the door with his foot.

"Time for lunch, Fia."

Fia sat down as she reorganized her thoughts. She wanted to eat in peace, at least.

She remembered what Jason and Sally told her. She needed to think less negatively. She needed to eat and drink well. Only then would the child be healthy.

Stop It She's Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 216

After the two of them finished their lunch and Conrad cleaned up the picnic basket and wiped the table, he moved the documents over.

"These are all the documents regarding your grandma's project. The contract is ready too. Take a look. If everything is alright, you can sign the papers."

Fia couldn't wait as she opened the folder. She wanted to see her grandma's glory.

Conrad stared at her and slowly said, "Sign it, and this project will be yours. You'll be its owner from now on. You'll be able to make all the decisions over it."

"Stop. Let me finish first." The more Fia read about it, the more surprised she became. Her grandma's project was a fashion project, and its main feature was its emphasis on the traditional style.

All of her grandma's designs back then were extremely beautiful. Every single pattern and style she made was superb and they were all very fresh.

Inside the documents were also the results of the lawsuits throughout the years. All of them were targeted cases where the plaintiffs had copied her grandma's designs. They won all of them.

No wonder it was so rare to see any other companies copy anything that the Maxwell Corporation produced. No wonder the law department and the lawyers from the company are so universally feared. Their reputation was built case after case!

When Fia thought about how powerful the Maxwell Corporation's law department was, and how her grandma would always mumble about how well Conrad's grandpa was, she couldn't help but ask, "Is the reason your grandpa created the law department in the company because of my grandma's project?"

Conrad's chest tightened. "Yes."

He didn't realize that she would come to that conclusion. He had already destroyed evidence of whatever their grandparents had collaborated on.

2/4

He didn't want her to know that he made a mistake in the lawsuit. He was doing his best to wipe out the connection that his grandpa and Thea had.

"Your grandpa really is a good person. No wonder my grandma always praised him!" When Fia remembered her grandma's passing, she looked at Conrad coldly.

"If he hadn't passed away three years ago, he would have protected my grandma and she wouldn't have gotten ill from all the provocation."

Conrad didn't dare to look at Fia's eyes and looked to the side. He then said as calmly as possible, "When it comes to something that can affect the entire company's profitability, I can't simply look at the relationship of their generation."

"Then why are you willing to give the project back to me now?"

"Read it first."

Fia finished the contract and frowned.

The contract was very clear. The project would be transferred to her, but it would still belong to Maxwell Corporation.

In short, she could create new designs, hire a design team, and be the one with the final say on the design side of things. However, all financial-related matters including expenses, profit, sales, and others fall under the corporation's responsibility.

The company would, after calculating the expenses, share with her 70 % of the net profit.

"Why are you doing this?" She couldn't understand why. 70% was a lot. She didn't have to do anything other than put effort into the designs.

Even an outsider like her knew that the Maxwell corporation was a very powerful entity when it came to advertising and sales.

"Consider it part of my contribution to my grandpa and your grandma's work." Conrad still didn't dare to look at Fia. She was very sensitive and he was afraid that she would become suspicious.

"You don't admit it, but you still can't let it go, can you? You're blaming yourself for my grandma's passing!"

Conrad could hear his heart thumping, but he had no choice but to look into Fia's eyes. "I do blame myself when it comes to our private relationship, but I don't think I did anything wrong when it comes to the company's perspective."

If she knew that a lot of people wanted this project back then and Thea only gave it to his grandpa thanks to their old relationship, and yet he angered Thea to the point of her passing away during the lawsuit... She would blame him for everything, so he must not tell her anything about it.

“Sure. But since grandma gave this project to the Maxwell Corporation, then I should respect her wishes. For your grandpa’s sake as well,” Fia said as she extended her hand to Conrad. “Give me the pen.”

Conrad gave her the pen that he carried with him all the time. “You’ve double-checked all the terms and conditions? Nothing to add?”

“Nothing. Your terms are very generous,” Fia said. With a wave, she signed her name on the piece of paper.

Conrad looked at her face and saw how trusting she was. He suddenly felt the weight on his shoulders. He didn’t want to hide it anymore.

“Fia, there’s something I want to…”

Just then, a ringtone cut off what he wanted to say.

Fia grabbed her phone. “It’s Eileen!”

She quickly answered, but her expression showed that she was being very careful.

She whispered, “Hello, Eileen? Where are you? Are you okay?”

Conrad stared at Fia. He didn’t know what was being said, but she stared at him after she hung up.

He couldn’t help but raise his guard up.

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 217

Fia bit her lips and said, “I want to visit Eileen. Can you bring me to her?”

She rubbed her belly. “I can’t get off the bed and walk around like this.”

Conrad got some medicine out from the drawer and said, “Take your medicine first.”

Fia quickly ate it and looked at him expectantly.

“Can we go now?”

“Leave Doctor Hall a message.” With that, Conrad carried Fia like a princess.

Fia sent a message to Sally while she was in his arms, then she grabbed Conrad’s neck tightly.

He gave her buttocks a pat and asked, “Where to?”

“Bellwood Hills.”

Conrad frowned. “She has a place there?”

“Yes, I’ve been there once.”

“Victor has a mansion there too.”

Fia frowned.

Conrad then said coldly, “Sapphire saved her this once. She wouldn’t save her again.”

Fia’s heart sank. She knew that he was trying to tell her not to let Eileen stay with Victor.

“Tell her to move out from Bellwood Hills. Fia, I’m doing this because of you.”

“I know.”

Conrad was worried that Fia would get hurt while they were on the way. So, he lay her down in the back seat and put her head on a pillow.

He also drove slowly and maintained a set distance from the car in front and the one at the back, so he had the time to brake or swerve.

Bellwood Hills, at a certain mansion

While Conrad was carrying Fia, she pressed the doorbell next to the gate.

Very quickly, a slender figure in full black and wearing a hat opened the door.

Fia immediately recognized who she was. "Eileen?"

"We'll talk inside."

Once inside, they then saw Victor sitting in the living room.

"Have a seat, Conrad," Victor said with a smile as if nothing had happened.

Conrad let Fia remain on his legs so that Fia could slip down from his legs to the sofa. She looked at Victor with mixed feelings.

"What are your plans for Eileen now?"

"It's done already, isn't it?" Victor was quite gentle and he waved at Eileen who was taking a fruit platter to her guests. "Sit next to me, Eileen."

Eileen ignored him and sat next to Fia. "Have some fruit, Fia."

Fia didn't have the appetite for fruit at a time like this. She grabbed Eileen's hands and said, "Eileen, let's leave, alright?"

Eileen raised her eyes and she saw how concerned Fia was from her expression. She gave Fia a wide smile and patted Fia's hand instead.

"I know you worry for me and that you won't have a peace of mind until you see me, but it's not appropriate for me to visit you at the hospital. Thanks for taking the effort to come here."

"Eileen..."

"Out of all of my properties, only this one is not under my name. It will be easy for anyone to find me if I move into any of my other properties."

"But this property is under Victor's name. They'll find you eventually!"

“That’s why I asked you to come here. To give me a hand,” Victor said softly. “I’ll transfer the title of this property to Fia’s name first. Once this is over, can you please transfer it to Eileen?”

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 218

Fia stared at Victor with a fire burning in her eyes.

She hated how lightly he was making the situation sound!

“You’re Conrad’s cousin, so I should call you cousin-in-law as well. So, what are you going to do to Eileen next, dear cousin-in-law?”

Victor’s eyes turned frigid. “This is between me and her. I have no need to tell you anything.”

Conrad then said, “Fia can refuse the transfer using the same reason as well.”

Eileen looked at the three of them who looked like they were going to start a war at any time and said, “We should deal with the transfer first. If you think that it’s not convenient for you, don’t worry about it. I’ll ask my personal assistant about it later.”

“You misunderstood me, Eileen. I’m willing to help you. But if someone wanted to really dig into this matter, they’ll still find some traces even if the title was transferred a few times. It’s not the best way to deal with this.”

Fia then turned and gave Conrad a look.

Conrad looked at Victor and said, “It’s best for you not to touch any of your properties for the time being. Ms. Reid cannot live in any of them, naturally.”

Fia grabbed Eileen’s hand and said, “Eileen can stay in our home!”

Victor stared at Conrad in shock. “You’re okay with that?”

He knew how cold-blooded Conrad was. He was not someone so generous.

“Fia’s idea,” Conrad said with a stern expression on his face as he glanced at Fia.

“What?” Was he going to go back on his word at the last second?

“Ms. Reid can live at any of my other properties for the time being, but not our family home.”

Fia frowned and was about to say something when Conrad added, “It’s very easy to find out about where we live from Victor and my relationship. Worst of all, someone might put me and Ms. Reid together.”

“Then I won’t stay at your place. Fia, I’ll stay at the apartment that Aunt Echo left for you.” Eileen managed to find the best place to stay in her chaotic thoughts.

Now was not a suitable time for her to appear in public. She couldn’t go to the airport. And she couldn’t get close to anyone with the surname of Maxwell. It was best for her to stay in the apartment that used to be owned by Echo, now owned by Fia.

Fia felt bad for her. “That’s not a big apartment. Is it really okay for you?”

“What are you talking about?” Eileen let out a helpless smile. “I’m not some princess. I don’t have to stay in a castle. When we went traveling during our university years and had no money, what kind of places hadn’t we stayed at before?”

Fia remembered. While those days were hard, they were especially memorable.

Victor stayed silent for two seconds and said, “Fine then. Once this is over, I’ll transfer the title of this mansion to you.”

“No thanks. I’m not lacking money and I can buy a mansion.” Eileen’s eyes looked at Victor coolly. “The only reason I came here isn’t because of this mansion.”

It was because of this person. But after what happened, she could no longer stay here.

Victor could feel himself choke. “This mansion was originally meant for you. It’s just that I didn’t manage to transfer the title to you in time. If you don’t want it, I can pay you the mansion’s market price in cash instead.”

“No thanks. Give this mansion to Ms. Starling as a thank–you gift for clearing my name.” After that, Eileen took her purse and stood up. Fia, I’m going over to Aunt Echo’s apartment now.”

“Alright, I’ll send you.” Fia had just wanted to stand up, but Conrad had already carried her up like a princess again.

”

He then said, “Don’t you know how bad your health is? Don’t move!”

Fia frowned and didn’t fight back.

Eileen turned around first and walked out. Conrad followed suit with Fia in his arms.

When Victor saw Eileen leaving without turning around, he loosened his necktie irritably and yelled, “Eileen, you’re sure about your decision?”

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 219

Eileen paused, but she stood with her back straight. “There’s no need to reconsider my options. Please thank Ms. Starling on my behalf. I’m a human, after all. Not an animal. I can’t hurt another innocent person knowingly!”

Fia looked at Eileen worriedly. After she got into the car from the other side, she looked out of the car numbly.

“Our future will only get better.”

“Yeah.” Eileen sighed before flashing a smile at Fia. “Don’t worry, I’m fine.”

Conrad focused on driving the whole way and didn’t cut in between their conversation.

He drove directly to the Koi Gardens basement. No one knew Eileen Reid would be here, so there was no one here at all.

Even when she got down the car, Eileen was still covering herself. She then said to Conrad, "Take Fia back to the hospital. I can head up myself."

"Eileen..." Fia looked at her with worry on her face as she held onto Eileen's hand.

Eileen grinned at her, saying, "I'm not that weak. Trust me."

"I want to stay with you."

"Now that the dust has almost settled, I don't feel that worried anymore. All I want to do now is to sleep. We'll talk after I wake up, okay?" Fia was probably the only person that Eileen would speak to so gently right now.

a text message is fine too."

"Sure. I won't let you and the baby worry!"

However, the moment she shifted her attention to Conrad, her gentle eyes instantly turned icy. "Mr. Maxwell, I hope you can take good care of Fia and her baby. Otherwise, I'll take her away from you!"

Conrad burst out a laugh. "Do you think you can do that?"

"Maybe I can't, but Victor can. He feels very guilty right now and wants to make things up to me. Other than marrying me, he'll do his best to fulfill anything I want!"

Conrad's expression instantly turned cold. "Sapphire Starling helping you... He asked for her help?"

Eileen let out an icy smile and left the car. She didn't even want to reply to Conrad.

The atmosphere in the car instantly froze. Fia stared at Conrad from the back seat.

"You're worried about Sapphire, aren't you?" She could see from the change in his expression.

“I know that Sapphire is innocent, but so is Eileen. When she joined your cousin’s company, she didn’t know that he had a fiancée. Your cousin’s the one at fault. Why did he lay down a trap for her when he already had a fiancée? Is love something worth so little respect in your eyes?”

Conrad frowned. He didn’t pay much attention when the topic of the conversation was Eileen. However, he did catch the final sentence.

“You love me too?” He turned around and gazed at Fia, his heart slowly thumping faster and faster.

Fia secretly bit her lips and then carefully said, “Luckily, I don’t.”

Conrad frowned and stared at Fia. He then said as this feeling burst out from his heart, “Sometimes, I feel that you like me.”

Fia looked away. “Grandpa Maxwell and Grandma forced us to get married. There’s no love there.”

“Maybe not in the very beginning, but people can fall in love after a long time.” Conrad wanted to see a hint of anxiety on her face. The more anxious she was, that meant the more she was deceiving him.

However, Fia’s expression didn’t change at all. Instead, there was a faint, mocking smile.

“Do I look like a fool? I wouldn’t dare love you when I know you love my cousin so deeply.”

But the truth was, she was that fool. Like a lot of innocent young girls, she was attracted by his arrogant, handsome looks. She couldn’t control her feelings at all.

If it wasn’t because she dreamed of something that she shouldn’t have three years ago and had perhaps found a normal boyfriend that loved her and cared for her instead, maybe her life would be much easier?

But the hardest part of being human was letting go.

There were people that would only love that one, single person. Even if they never met that person again, they could never let it go.

Stop It She’s Remarrying by Stellar Strands Chapter 220

When they were on their way back from Koi Gardens to the hospital, the two of them didn't speak to each other.

Conrad carried Fia back to her ward in the hospital, but there was already someone sitting there.

"Conrad..."

Esme looked at Conrad carrying Fia with teary eyes. She tightened her hands and cursed at Fia to die sooner than later in her mind.

Conrad looked at her with a frown before putting Fia back on the bed. and he said in a frosty demeanor, "Didn't I tell you not to come here and disturb Fia?"

"I have something important to tell you. It's very important. I've been waiting for an hour, and I didn't even eat breakfast."

Fia raised an eyebrow as she lay on the bed. She sighed. 'Here we go again. She's trying to act pitiful to get more attention.'

"What is it?" Conrad sat next to the bed and said to her coldly.

Esme kept on acting and said, "After what happened to Eileen, I don't know how they did their investigation but they pinned it on me. Your cousin then started to attack my dad's business and he lost businesses worth millions in just one morning. He got angry and hit me."

She paused and then placed her left hand on her right, sobbing. "Fia, I know that you're best friends with Eileen and she never liked me. She would verbally abuse me every time she saw me. But I'm innocent and didn't do anything to you..."

"Can you take this outside?" Fia cut her off icily. She was bored of the same old act, and it was getting disgusting too.

Conrad gave Fia a glance and said, "No. I won't. You're going to misinterpret things."

Fia was speechless.

He was right. But Esme disgusted her when she was around.

Conrad could see the agitation in her eyes, and so he said to Esme, "You know whether you did it or not. If you did, apologize to the people involved."

"You don't believe me, Conrad?"

Conrad didn't want to talk to Esme about it. He only said, "You and Sapphire are good friends. You can ask her for help."

Esme was shocked and saddened. It was the first time he was being so adamant that he would not deal with something for her.

"Conrad, I don't care if other people don't believe me, but how can you not believe me? I'm..."

"You're so annoying!" Fia sat up by pulling herself up using the bed head as she stared at Esme with a dark expression on her face, who was still trying to sell how miserable she was.

"You know better than anyone whether you took that video and whether you posted it!"

She went to that bar frequently with Esme in the past. She knew where it was with just one look at its interior decorations.

"That night, Eileen saw you at the bar drinking. You two saw her with Victor. From my understanding of your character, I can confirm that you did it. Unless you're implying that he took the video?"

Fia glared at Conrad before looking at Esme. "Admit it if you did it, alright? He already found out that you did it and you're still trying to worm your way out!"

"I..." Esme gritted her teeth and wished she could shred Fia's mouth to pieces. Why did she want to say things so clearly? So that Conrad wouldn't give her another chance?

"Enough. I can't help you with this. Go apologize to them yourself." Conrad's tone was firm. "Since the Maxwells and the Mannings do have a relationship with each other, if you apologize wholeheartedly, Victor won't go overboard with it."

Fia smiled mockingly. "And here's why I'm thinking that you're telling her to apologize."

Conrad frowned and knew that Fia was overthinking things again. He grabbed her hand and said, "It has already happened and the dust has mostly settled. Apologizing quickly is the method that's the most efficient."

Esme quickly said, "Conrad's right. It doesn't matter whether or not I'm the one that did this. As long as his cousin stops, I can apologize to them. But Fia, your best friend Eileen has always been someone bitter. I'm worried that she won't forgive me."

"Ha, don't tell me that you want me to persuade Eileen?"

Fia then said with a mocking smile, "Don't think that just because you have me under your control, you want me to force Eileen under your control too, Conrad. She's my friend, not my puppet!"