

Chapter 1092 Competition

As two more members of Leif's team integrated into Rodney's squad, Doug, who had been waiting nearby, furrowed his brows in growing impatience. Addressing Rodney sternly, he asked, "Is your team fully assembled now? I trust we won't be left waiting any longer. Rodney, our agreement to wait stemmed solely from respect for Carlden. However, if you stretch this wait beyond reason, I'll be compelled to step in and make you leave!"

Rodney's expression darkened as he absorbed Doug's words, fully aware of the irresistible attraction the Universe Crystal Dew held for everyone. He realized that further delays would inevitably direct their frustrations toward him.

Rodney bit his lip in contemplation before nodding resolutely. "Alright, no more delays! Let's get down to business!"

Just as Rodney prepared to broach the topic of distributing the spoils, Mateo poised himself to speak, only to be cut off by Garrett's disdainful interruption. "Isn't it simple to divide the Universe Crystal Dew? Let's designate a representative from each group to retrieve it from the towering lotus above! Then, we'll distribute it according to our strengths. My team will claim fifty percent, Doug thirty, and you, Rodney, the final twenty."

Garrett's tone brimmed with arrogance and audacity.

Rodney and Doug exchanged knowing glances upon hearing Garrett's proposal, both expressing their disdain with scoffs. Doug's derisive retort followed, "Garrett, your naivety is astounding. Why not display genuine prowess instead of these fanciful notions? Were it not for your lineage as Cillian's son, I would have silenced you much sooner!"

Liam, positioned among Rodney's team, promptly learned Garrett's lineage from Doug's remark.

A subtle furrow appeared on Liam's brow as he muttered, "Cillian's son? Didn't Adamson take Shayla? How did Shayla end up with Garrett?"

Witnessing Shayla's harrowing destiny, Liam silently swore vengeance against Garrett.

While Liam contemplated his strategy for rescuing Shayla, the three groups engaged in negotiations, eventually formulating a plan to distribute the Universe Crystal Dew.

Each group would select three representatives for combat, with points allocated to victorious participants.

The initial round featured fifth-tier Primogem Warriors, awarding twenty points to the winner.

The subsequent round showcased sixth-tier warriors, granting thirty points to the victor.

Finally, there would be a fight between the group leaders, carrying a fifty-point value.

The group accumulating the highest total would claim half of the Universe Crystal Dew. The remaining portions, comprising thirty and twenty percent, would be allocated to the second and third place accordingly.

Liam's expression soured slightly as he perceived the distribution plan as unfair to Rodney. Rodney was the sole openly acknowledged sixth-tier Primogem Warrior in his group, so he had to compete in two rounds.

Even though harboring reservations, Liam remained unfazed, steadfast in his determination to secure the Universe Crystal Dew.

The initial bout quickly commenced.

A confrontation unfolded between fifth-tier Primogem Warriors. Rodney chose a familiar face known to Liam and Laura.

Upon witnessing Briggs' appearance on the battlefield, Liam felt resigned.

Under Liam's encouragement, Briggs had made significant strides, edging closer to mastering fifth-tier Primogem Warrior skills.

In this clash of fifth-tier Primogem Warriors, Briggs harbored an unwavering resolve to emerge victorious.
