

Chapter 1189 Carlden's Protection

Upon Carlden's arrival, Cillian's expression turned cautious right away.

At that moment, Cillian recognized the potent strength emanating from Carlden, surpassing his own. He understood that engaging in a direct confrontation with Carlden would likely result in a defeat for him.

However, learning about Shayla's involvement in his son's death and considering Kolton's proximity to Shayla, Cillian was determined not to overlook this matter.

He locked eyes with Carlden and said, "Carlden, do you intend to interfere in this matter?"

Carlden responded with a smirk, "Cillian, after attacking my people, you question if I'll intervene? Have you lost your senses? Or have you never taken me seriously, Carlden?"

In Liam's presence, Carlden might appear amiable, considering Liam is his junior disciple.

However, when facing adversaries, Carlden exhibited a ruthless demeanor.

He was cruel to his enemies while protective of his people, akin to a reliable elder brother, ensuring his comrades wouldn't be mistreated.

Concluding his words, Carlden promptly summoned a burst of primogem energy, directing it at Cillian, who had to swiftly defend against the attack.

Despite his attempts to block the attack, Cillian staggered backward, visibly shaken.

Cillian's expression turned serious as he realized his immense power gap with Carlden, a realization exceeding his expectations.

However, Cillian remained resolute, saying, "You owe me an explanation regarding your disciple! Carlden, this is beyond a personal dispute. It concerns the death of my son! Don't assume your strength alone can deter me. Resolving this won't be that simple!"

Adamson, who had been quiet, spoke up. "Carlden, Cillian has a point. Your disciple must explain this situation."

Cillian swiftly turned to look at Adamson with gratitude, recognizing Adamson's superior strength and influence.

Facing opposition from both of them and with demands for an explanation directed at Liam, Carlden's demeanor became solemn.

While he could defeat Cillian effortlessly, Adamson's involvement added complexity to the situation, especially since Carlden also needed to protect his people here.

Internally, Liam was concerned about Carlden's predicament.

Despite his strength, Carlden faced a challenging situation against two adversaries.

Adamson's strength remained mysterious, posing alarming uncertainty. Currently, Liam lacked knowledge of Adamson's complete prowess.

Nonetheless, Carlden's subsequent action surprised and Carlden advanced, hands folded behind him, wearing a mocking grin. "Adamson, Cillian, do you believe teaming up will alter the situation? Under my watch, no harm will come to my allies. They're safe under my protection! And you demand clarifications? Who granted you authority to make such requests? Get out of here!"

Observing Carlden's authoritative demeanor, Liam comprehended the reputation surrounding Carlden's assertiveness and protective nature.

Liam also acknowledged the inevitability of a battle.

He wanted to back Carlden and fight by his side. But he acknowledged his limitations; confronting an eighth-rank Primogem Warrior surpassed his capabilities, prompting him to refrain from engaging.

At present, Liam could only have faith in Carlden's abilities; he needed to believe that Carlden could deal with both Cillian and Adamson.

Carlden's firm statement triggered a surge of anger in Adamson's typically composed visage. He turned to Cillian and said, "Cillian, the renowned Protector Dorcas doesn't even acknowledge us; let's test his mettle. We'll confront him together!"

Eager for battle, Cillian promptly agreed and teamed up with Adamson to confront Carlden.
