

Chapter 1205 The Center Of The Earth

After their passionate sex, Liam, Laura, and Shayla cuddled up.

Liam then began to dress, glancing back at Laura and Shayla with a gentle expression.

He said, "I have to leave for Genesis Island soon. My master informed me of a Genmo near Genesis Island that can boost my strength. You can stay here and wait for my return."

As the reality of his words sank in, Laura and Shayla snapped out of their romantic haze and quickly stood up, their faces etched with worry.

"No way! We want to go with you!"

Before Liam could respond, Shayla said hastily, "Laura and I have also gotten stronger lately. We can handle challenging situations now! Liam, let us come with you. We can definitely help!"

Liam sighed, having anticipated their reaction.

However, this time, he wasn't going to back down.

He said calmly, "The core of the earth is incredibly dangerous. Even an eighth-rank Primogem Warrior risks death there. I wouldn't attempt this if I hadn't made progress with the Human Body Refinement Technique. I can't agree to your request."

Despite his firm stance, Laura and Shayla protested again, determination clear in their voices. "We can help you, Liam! Take us with you!"

To convince Liam, Shayla even let a hint of playful charm slip onto her face. She wrapped her arms around Liam, her chest pressing against his arm.

Feeling resigned, Liam knew he had to think quickly to persuade Laura and Shayla not to go with him.

He said, "The reason I need to go to the center of the earth to find Genmo is to gain the power necessary to stop the Lord of the War God House from becoming the leader of the Salvation Society. When that time comes, Invone's defenses will be at their weakest. I need you two to seize this opportunity to rescue Julie and Asher for me. There's only a month left until the leader selection of the Salvation Society. Your task is crucial, and you must train hard to keep your strength at its peak."

Hearing this, Laura's and Shayla's expressions turned serious.

They exchanged glances, realizing the significance of the task
Liam had entrusted to them.

Although they longed to accompany Liam, they understood the importance of his mission and reluctantly agreed to stay behind.

With the two women agreeing to his request, Liam felt relieved.
He left Mount Moria and headed to Genesis Island.

A day later, armed with the map the president had given him, Liam began searching for the possible locations of the Genmo as indicated by the marks on the map.

As he approached Genesis Island, he noticed a small, constant vortex in a place that the president had marked on the map.

It was winter, and the weather was bitterly cold. However, this tiny, constant vortex emitted a warm current.

The oddity of the scene made Liam feel a bit strange.

This phenomenon led him to suspect that Genmo might be hidden beneath the vortex.

Without hesitation, Liam made up his mind and dove straight into the vortex.

With his enhanced abilities now, diving was no longer a challenge. The intense water pressure of the deep sea didn't affect him.

Once inside the vortex, Liam discovered a tunnel. He swam into it without hesitation.

The tunnel seemed to guide him, leading him effortlessly through the underwater passage. Following its path, Liam soon found himself at the bottom of the sea.

The tunnel continued its downward path beneath the bottom of the sea.

Liam felt the temperature rising noticeably as he descended further.

Undeterred, he kept moving.

After traversing the dark, seemingly endless abyss, he finally saw dry land ahead.

However, Liam wasn't overly surprised by the sudden appearance of the land. After all, he was now a Primogem Warrior. Nothing was impossible.

Excitement surged through Liam as he approached the dry land. He believed this had to be the world at the earth's core!

The heat here was high, nearly overwhelming for Liam even with his protective abilities.

Thankfully, his training in the Human Body Refinement Technique had made his body strong enough to endure the extreme heat.

Carefully, Liam stepped onto the dry land, feeling the scorching ground beneath his feet.

Fortunately, the president had warned him about this. He had come prepared, wearing special clothes designed to withstand high temperatures, protecting him from being burned.

Liam took a moment to survey his surroundings.

The air was thick with a heavy, oppressive aura. This underground world was too harsh for normal life forms to survive.

Besides the heated ground, the only other feature was a river of magma flowing through this place.
