At that moment, Liam seemed like a wild animal stripped of its senses.

Shayla and the others sensed Liam's distress and rushed to his aid, offering words of comfort.

"Liam, don't worry so much. Julie and Asher are useful to the Blood Clan. They won't kill them right away. We still have time to save them!"

Liam responded with a bitter smile.

He had never visited the Cosmic realm, yet he understood its complexities far exceeded his expectations.

Finding Julie and Asher would be akin to searching for a needle in a haystack!

Unless...

A spark of hope flickered in Liam's eyes.

He suddenly thought of Emperor Hoffman, his father.

Only with his father's assistance could he have a chance to save Julie and Asher.

Given the situation, Liam knew he must venture into the Cosmic realm immediately.

Otherwise, unforeseen tragedies might occur, leaving him with lifelong regrets.

Observing Liam's newfound resolve, Shayla spoke up. "By the way, we brought a woman back with us. She wouldn't reveal her name, but she claimed to be your wife!"

Liam's brow furrowed at Shayla's words.

His wife? Wasn't that Julie?

Nevertheless, Liam still inquired, "Where is she? Take me to see her."

Shayla nodded and led the way for Liam.

"Yolanda!" Liam recognized the woman upon seeing her.

Yolanda had descended into madness.

Liam immediately recognized the gravity of Yolanda's condition, his expression growing complex.

Indeed, Yolanda was his wife. But she was his ex-wife.

Memories of their time together lingered vividly in Liam's mind.

But Liam recalled this not out of nostalgia; he only remembered all the humiliations he had endured during their time together.

Despite Yolanda's struggles and her efforts to help save Asher, Liam had no desire to see her again.

Their relationship had ended, and Liam had no intention of rekindling it.

So, Liam firmly instructed Shayla, "Take her to a psychiatric hospital. She's my ex-wife, and I have nothing to do with her now."

Shayla and Laura exchanged looks upon hearing Liam's words, both feeling relieved.

With Yolanda's situation handled, Liam felt it was time for him to return to the earth's core.

He owed Lancy a debt of gratitude for Flame's role in his rescue and wanted to deepen his understanding of the Cosmic realm to increase his chances of a successful rescue mission.

Thus, Liam parted ways with Shayla and the others, venturing alone to the earth's core.

Upon his arrival, Flame and Lancy welcomed him happily.

Lancy beamed at him. "Liam, you finally think of me!"

Liam smiled gently, expressing his gratitude. "Lancy, thank you for your repeated help. From now on, I'll do my best to support you in any way you need!"

Lancy returned the smile. "You're welcome! We're friends, after all. Friends don't need to thank each other."

Touched by her words, Liam felt a warmth in his heart.

Yet, he remembered the second purpose of his visit and said, "Lancy, I have another reason for being here. I need to learn more about the Cosmic realm."

Upon hearing Liam's words, Lancy didn't hesitate for a moment. She responded, "In fact, given your current strength, it's much too soon for you to think about entering the Cosmic realm. Because there is a rule similar to a strength limit on Blue Star. Only a level-ten Primogem Warrior could break through this limit and enter the Cosmic realm. The strength of a level-ten Primogem Warrior is merely a starting point. After all, even a level-ten Primogem Warrior is barely more than cannon fodder in the Cosmic realm."

Liam's eyes widened in shock. He hadn't expected the Cosmic realm to be so formidable.

On Blue Star, a level-ten Primogem Warrior could rule supremely, yet in the Cosmic realm, they were considered insignificant!

After taking a deep breath to calm down, Liam asked, "So, is there a higher level rank in the Cosmic realm?"

Lancy nodded and explained, "Above the level-ten Primogem Warrior, there are the Primogem Expert, the Primogem King, the Primogem Emperor... The highest rank is the Primogem Deity. Anyone who reaches the level of Primogem Deity is known as the Human Sovereign. Didn't you mention that your father might be the Human Sovereign of the Human Clan in the Cosmic realm? That means your father is a formidable Primogem Deity! And if you want to take me to the Cosmic realm, you'll also need to reach the level of the Primogem Deity."
