Chapter 1246 Level-ten Primogem Warrior At The A...

Inside the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign.

Lindy led Liam to an elderly man dressed in blue and introduced him to Liam.

"Liam, this is Christos Ellis from the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign. He tested my talent before," she said.

Liam bowed respectfully to Christos and said, "I'm Liam Hoffman."

Christos chuckled and looked at Liam. He was about to say something but suddenly frowned.

His gaze then intensified as he looked at Liam.

Both Liam and Lindy were puzzled by Christos' reaction. They couldn't figure out why he was acting this way.

After a moment, Christos said to Liam, "Young man, you're quite remarkable!"

Liam was taken aback by Christos' remark.

It seemed as though Christos could see right through him.

In response to Christos' praise, Liam humbly replied, "Thank you. You give me too much credit."

Christos just laughed in response.

Then, Christos guided Liam to line up.

While waiting, Christos explained, "In the test room, there's a Stardust Crystal. The test will begin once you enter the room. To see your result after the test, just observe the color emitted by the Stardust Crystal. The colors signify different levels: 'D' is indicated by white light, 'C' by green, 'B' by red, and 'A' by golden. To have a chance at entering the City of Divinity in the future, you must achieve at least an 'A' rank. Of course, even if you get an 'A', getting into the City of Divinity is still a tough challenge. Ultimately, entering the City of Divinity isn't solely about talent. It is difficult for Lindy, with an 'A', to get into the City of Divinity!"

Upon hearing this, Liam's expression grew thoughtful.

He had not expected the requirements to enter the City of Divinity to be so strict.

Even Lindy, who got an A, had only a slim chance of entry.

This highlighted just how mysterious and exclusive the City of Divinity truly was!

As Christos spoke with Liam, the line in front of them had mostly cleared.

One by one, the tests proceeded, yet most participants only managed to get a C.

Very few people achieved a B, and their talent's red light wasn't very strong.

This suggested that their abilities were just at the medium or lower level of the rank B.

Liam noticed that the age range of those testing their talents spanned from ninety-five to two hundred years old!

Their general strength level was that of a Primogem Warrior from one to three stars at level ten.

Liam sighed in his heart.

He hadn't expected that many people here in the Cosmic realm were level-ten Primogem Warriors, capable of ruling over Blue Star!

His heart grew heavy with this realization.

Christos, observing Liam's contemplation, gave him a reassuring smile and said, "Liam, it's your turn now. Go ahead!"

Only upon hearing Christos' words did Liam snap back to reality. He then expressed his gratitude to Christos.

As Liam prepared for his test, the others in the hall, who had been watching just like he had, turned their attention to Liam's test result.

Christos reassured Liam, "Don't worry. Just follow the instructions in the test room!"

Liam nodded gratefully to Christos. Then, he pushed open the door and stepped into the test room.

A number promptly appeared on the test room door.

28.

Even though it was just a bone age test, that number still shone as bright as the sun.

A level-ten Primogem Warrior at the age of twenty-eight!

Instantly, everyone in the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign was taken aback by this revelation.

"Only twenty-eight years old? How can that be?"

"Is this guy some kind of devil? At only twenty-eight, he's already a level-ten Primogem Warrior! When I was that age, I was just a level-four Primogem Warrior!"

"He's a true prodigy!"

Everyone was so astonished that they couldn't stop talking about it.

Even Christos looked taken aback. Clearly, he hadn't anticipated Liam to be so young!
