

Chapter 1266 The Lord Of Rosefinch

---

Liam memorized the location of the star remnants before leaving the planetary system to return to the mission room and submit his task.

He also exchanged the spark metal he had collected for points.

Now, he was remarkably wealthy in terms of points; he had nearly ten thousand points.

After that, Liam sought out a specialized cultivation chamber aligned with the earth element to organize his gains since arriving in the Cosmic realm and prepare himself to deepen his understanding of the earth element's law power.

Although he had already grasped its basics in the Meteor Realm, his mastery over it was still somewhat rudimentary.

Meanwhile, in the Rosefinch Galaxy, within an opulent palace, an elder exuded a formidable pressure.

Even though he didn't intentionally exert his power, the mere leakage of it distorted space.

This elder was none other than the Lord of Rosefinch.

At the moment, he was reviewing the newly joined tenth-level Primogem Warrior in the Network of Human Sovereign.

After all, these Primogem Warriors were crucial for the Human Clan's cultivation of formidable fighters.

With a mere thought, the Lord of Rosefinch used a surge of energy to form a colossal light screen.

Within it appeared the names of countless Primogem Warriors, including those from Celestial Realms and remote planetary systems.

One of those names was Liam's.

The Lord of Rosefinch estimated that there were as many as three million names before he nodded in acknowledgment.

However, due to limited resources, many of them would inevitably be eliminated.

The Lord of Rosefinch didn't have the time to scrutinize each individual's circumstances.

An idea suddenly struck him.

He directed the Network of Human Sovereign to narrow down this vast pool by selecting the Primogem Warriors who were under a thousand years old.

Under his command, the Network of Human Sovereign quickly categorized everyone, establishing a highly detailed ranking based on the age of each Primogem Warrior.

At the top of the list was Liam.

"28 years old?"

Even the Lord of Rosefinch, typically calm and composed, couldn't help but exclaim upon seeing Liam's age.

Reaching the tenth level as a Primogem Warrior at 28 was an achievement that could astonish the entire Human Clan.

The Lord of Rosefinch was shocked.

It was noteworthy that the second person on the list was 44 years older than Liam.

And even a 72-year-old Primogem Warrior who could reach the tenth level was considered a genius.
