

Chapter 1277 Be Friends With You

A name appeared above the man's head: "Chad Bragg."

Liam couldn't help but chuckle inwardly at Chad's words. He laughed and said, "The last person who spoke like that ended up knocked out by me. Did you two plan this to embarrass yourselves?"

Observing Liam's smile, Chad's face darkened.

He snapped, "What's so funny?"

Since he was in a good mood, Liam replied, "Everett said the same thing to me when he showed up in the battle ring."

The mention of Everett's name made Chad realize what Liam had said was real.

Knowing Everett, Chad asked nonchalantly, "So, what happened then?" Did Everett rough you up? Don't worry; I'm not like him. I'll go easy on you!"

Liam shook his head slightly. "Didn't I just say? I knocked Everett out and eliminated him."

Chad was briefly taken aback.

Then, he burst out laughing. "Everett boasted he was going to win 100 matches in a row! And you eliminated him! That's fantastic!"

From Chad's reaction, Liam inferred that he and Everett were probably friends.

Chuckling heartily, Chad's demeanor towards Liam softened; he was clearly in a good mood now. He said, "Since you eliminated Everett, I'll take it easy on you this time! By the way, I'm from the No. 10 planetary system. When this tournament is over, you should come visit me there. I'd like to be friends with you, Liam!"

Liam had not expected that defeating Everett would lead to a new friendship with Chad.

Still, he found Chad to be quite likable.

As they conversed, the preparation phase ended, and the battle commenced.

Once the match started, the smile on Chad's face disappeared. He conjured a long primogem energy sword and then moved with incredible agility as he lunged at Liam.

Chad's sword was aiming at Liam.

He didn't know the exact method Liam had used to defeat Everett.

Yet, he was filled with confidence in his own abilities, skeptical that Liam could withstand his attack.

But as Chad was sure of his imminent victory, Liam disappeared from his sight.

From behind him, a bright beam erupted, and Chad had been defeated in the same manner as Everett—suddenly and decisively, by Liam's mastery of the light element special power combined with the lava Origin Technique.

Moments before, Chad had been strategizing on how to defeat Liam. Now, he found himself overpowered and defeated, awkwardly leaving the battle ring.

"What?" From below the battle ring, Chad looked up at Liam with a blend of surprise and curiosity, echoing Everett's reaction. He was baffled by his swift defeat.

After a moment, he stopped trying to unravel the mystery.

Instead, he stared at Liam with respect and murmured, "Liam, I will remember you. Be sure to visit the No. 10 planetary system and have a drink with me!"

On the other side of the arena, spectators familiar with Chad's reputation were in shock.

Their astonishment was evident.

They all knew Chad was known as a formidable Primogem King.

Although the contest restricted all contestants' powers to the Primogem Warrior level in the Human Sovereign Arena, Chad's extensive combat experience should have provided him with a considerable advantage.

Even with his power limited to Primogem Warrior level, he was typically far more formidable than his opponents at the same level.

Yet, against all odds, he had been defeated by an ostensibly lesser-known opponent like Liam.

It was truly astonishing.
