

Chapter 1373 The Invitation

After thinking of Chad and Everett, Liam accessed the Network of Human Sovereign and reached out to them.

He soon discovered they were indeed at the stronghold of the Titan Bugs.

Delighted to know that they were also here, Liam quickly extended an invitation for them to join his team to do the mission this time.

Without hesitation, Chad and Everett accepted Liam's invitation. Once they had details of Liam's team's location, they told Liam they would go and find them.

Liam just needed to contact them again when they neared the valley.

Liam sighed with relief, knowing Chad and Everett would join the team.

With Chad and Everett, both seventh-stage Primogem Kings, and armed with the Gibson family's sword formation, his team had a robust chance of defeating the King of the Titan Bugs.

Liam decided to keep the news of Chad and Everett joining the team under wraps until they arrived.

He guided his team deeper into the heart of Titan Bugs' territory...

They proceeded until dusk without encountering significant threats. They had only encountered a few lone Titan Bugs that they easily neutralized.

As the sky grew dark, Liam said, "The Titan Bugs are black and merge seamlessly with the night. If we travel now, we might walk right into a trap. Let's make camp here on the plain for the night."

He chose an open area over a cave to avoid being trapped if the Titan Bugs discovered them.

The team members agreed without any objections.

After starting a campfire, Liam proposed, "There are five of us. Let's each take a two-hour watch. I'll start. You can arrange the remaining shifts among yourselves."

With that, Liam positioned himself at the edge of the camp, staying alert.

As the night deepened and a cool breeze stirred, Liam's thoughts wandered to Julie and Asher.

He retrieved a well-worn photograph of his family, looking at the smiling faces on it.

He muttered, "Once this mission is complete, I should have enough points to achieve level five clearance. Julie, Asher, just hang on a little longer. I'm going to rescue you from the Blood Clan soon!"

Meanwhile, not far from Liam and his team, Julio and Jeremias moved stealthily through the darkness.

Their peace was abruptly shattered when they encountered two menacing shadows ahead.

Julio's eyes narrowed in fear. The shadows were two Titan Bugs with the strength of fourth-stage Primogem Kings.

Panicking, Julio turned and fled without alerting his brother.

Jeremias, quickly realizing the danger, followed suit.

Their hasty movements alerted the Titan Bugs, and the Titan Bugs chased after Julio and Jeremias.

Overcome with terror, Julio and Jeremias sprinted for their lives, accidentally reaching where Liam's team was.

