

Chapter 1374 An Unexpected Situation

Liam, intently gazing at the photo of his family, suddenly scrunched his brows. His acute spiritual senses caught a stir in the distance.

Swiftly pocketing the photo, he pivoted and alerted, "Something's happening! Everyone, wake up!"

Though none of his team members were asleep—cultivators like them rarely required sleep—his call snapped them to immediate alertness. For warriors like them, meditation served as the best rest.

Prompted by Liam, the group sprang into action.

Soon, the disheveled Ellis brothers, Julio and Jeremias, burst into view, both shrieking in utter terror, as if horror itself was on their heels.

Liam's eyes narrowed as he tried to discern the cause of their dread. He soon spotted it: two Titan Bugs of the Primogem King level were in pursuit.

Liam's face tensed with caution. Uncertain of more bugs lurking unseen, he wisely chose not to engage.

"Let's leave!" he said to his team members.

However, upon seeing Liam and his friends, relief washed over the Ellis brothers' faces. They veered towards Liam's group, their hope renewed.

"Wait for us! Don't leave us!" Julio bellowed as he dashed.

Annabella's complexion turned pale as she realized the brothers' intent to lead the bugs to them.

Infuriated, she shouted, "Get lost! Don't come over here!"

Ignoring Annabella, the Ellis brothers continued their desperate dash towards them, hoping Liam's team would draw the bugs' attention and grant them a chance to escape the danger.

As Liam's group mobilized, it was clear that their abilities varied. Liam, Lindy, and Annabella kept up a brisk pace.

But Shiloh and his sister Trudy started to lag, their skills not as sharp.

Witnessing this, Liam was worried for them.

Refusing to leave them behind, he turned back to assist Shiloh and Trudy.

Noticing the siblings' struggle, Lindy and Annabella also halted their escape. Drawing their blades, they turned to confront the approaching Titan Bugs, ready to fight bravely.

Shiloh and Trudy were touched by their teammates' actions.

However, Shiloh knew that all of them staying wouldn't boost their chances of survival. They would still face immense danger. So, he shouted, "You guys should leave without us! This is too dangerous!"

Liam, eyes blazing with resolve, said, "No way! I won't leave anyone behind! Shiloh, set up your sword formation now!"

Spurred by Liam's urgency, Shiloh leaped into action, quickly retrieving the sword formation and channeling his primogem energy into it.

Liam and the rest also contributed their primogem energy to the sword formation.

Liam took his stance at the heart of the formation, with Shiloh and Trudy securing strategic positions.

"Hurry! We're running out of time!" Liam urged, his tone filled with urgency as the two Titan Bugs closed in, now only five hundred meters from them.

If they didn't activate the sword formation soon, they would lose their chance.

Realizing the gravity of their situation, Shiloh and Trudy pushed themselves to the limit, pouring every ounce of their primogem energy and spiritual power into the sword formation.
