

Chapter 1381 Lindy's Feelings For Liam

Liam had secluded himself to focus on cultivating the Death Power.

As a result, a faint, eerie aura of death subtly emanated from Liam.

When Chad, Lindy, and the others caught this aura, their eyes widened in sheer astonishment. Everett couldn't contain his bewilderment and blurted out, "Liam is a beast! We've only been apart for a few days, and he has already mastered the Death Power? That is too impressive! Not only has his strength surged in such a short time, but he has also mastered the Death Power! I'm really envious of his ability right now!"

Chad shot Everett a resigned look and said, "You're not alone in your envy. I feel the same."

In his heart, Chad deeply admired Liam.

Liam had truly lived up to his status as the genius of the Rosefinch Galaxy, recognized by the entire Human Clan. The sheer scope of his cultivation talent and his mastery of such formidable law power were enough to make many shocked.

Annabella, who had just recovered from the shadows of an almost humiliating encounter with Jeremias, was equally astounded by Liam's formidable talent.

She turned to Lindy, smiling playfully, and inquired, "Lindy, where did you find such an extraordinary junior fellow apprentice? His talent is staggering. Do you possibly know other people like him? Introduce some to me."

Lindy rolled her eyes, feeling resigned.

When she had heard others praising Liam, she couldn't help but feel a surge of pride. "I have recognized Liam's talent from the start. My judgment of people is excellent. Not anyone can learn from the same mentor as me."

Annabella noticed the pride and a subtle softness on Lindy's face, which left her momentarily stunned. Then, with a teasing tone, Annabella whispered, "Lindy, it seems like you've grown quite fond of Liam. Maybe you should be a bit bolder and explore a relationship with him?"

Blushing, Lindy realized Annabella was teasing her. "Just a few days ago, you were talking about how your grandfather was planning to set you up with someone. You seem quite keen on finding a partner yourself. Why not accept your grandfather's offer?"

When Annabella heard this, her face reflected a mix of resignation and frustration. She responded, "I haven't even met the man my grandfather is so eager to introduce. How can I possibly make such a hasty decision? Furthermore, my grandfather boasts about the man being a rare genius. But what does that matter to me? Even though I'm no great genius myself, I'm not keen on binding my life to a stranger just to have a so-called good future. Even if that man is a powerful source God, it doesn't tempt me."

Lindy nodded. She understood Annabella.

Her eyes then subtly shifted towards Liam, and a wave of relief washed over her.

Fortunately, her bond with Liam was robust; she was his closest female friend within the vast expanses of the Cosmic realm...

However, as Lindy thought about this, a sigh escaped her lips.

She was aware that Liam already had a wife and a child.

Furthermore, Liam was entirely engrossed in his daunting quest to save his family.
