

Chapter 1383 The Sea Of Death

Liam's focused efforts paid off as he steadily mastered the formidable Death Power.

By noon, Liam's aura had finally stabilized, sparking excitement among Chad, Everett, and the others. This stability signaled the end of Liam's breakthrough.

As expected, Liam's aura exploded with newfound power, marking his rise as a ninth-stage Primogem Expert.

When Liam opened his eyes, a flicker of joy was evident in them.

Liam hadn't anticipated his strength would surge so dramatically, catapulting him from the seventh stage to the ninth stage instantly.

Other than comprehending the Death Power in the Sea of Laws, Liam had never been able to improve his strength so quickly before!

This unexpected boost had naturally filled Liam with both surprise and joy.

As Liam came to, Chad, Everett, and the others approached him with beaming smiles and hearty congratulations.

Everett could barely hide his excitement. "Liam, you are truly a beast! Chad and I have pondered over your talents, but the complete harmony you've achieved with the Death Power is beyond our wildest guesses! In our Human Clan's long history, many have synchronized with the law power, yet none have managed to align as seamlessly with the Death Power as you have! If you can keep this up, you might very well become the sole master of the Sea of Death one day!"

Liam, smiling, was about to reply when Everett's mention of the Sea of Death stopped him. He had never heard this term before.

"The Sea of Death? What is that?" Liam inquired, his curiosity sparked.

The surprise was evident on everyone's faces. It was clear that they hadn't expected Liam to be unaware of the Sea of Death's existence.

Annabella stepped forward and explained, "The Sea of Death is the most forbidden subject in the Human Clan. This formidable force has marked our territory long ago. It's dubbed a sea due to its sheer size—it's as vast as two Rosefinch Galaxies combined! For the Human Clan, the Sea of Death is akin to a ticking bomb. It brims with an enormous amount of death energy and proves exceedingly difficult to tame. In bygone eras, it would frequently unleash its lethal might, wiping out countless of our forebears."

Liam, visibly stunned, hadn't anticipated discovering such a perilous area within the Human Clan.

Noticing that Annabella had more to say, Liam chose not to say anything to interrupt her.

Annabella continued, "Given its volatility, the Sea of Death has always posed a significant threat to our Human Clan. Each of its eruptions has claimed the lives of at least tens of thousands of people. To mitigate this danger, thirty of our Human Sovereigns once united to partition the Sea of Death into four distinct sections, each confined within the Sea of Laws in different galaxies. Over time, the Sea of Death began to cultivate a unique type of law power—the same Death Power that you now wield. Our human clan stands alone as the sole race within the entire Cosmic realm endowed with the ability to harness this formidable Death Power!"
