

Chapter 1389 The Dire Situation

After Liam realized that the team had been detected by the King of the Titan Bugs, his expression grew grim.

Despite his meticulous planning and careful maneuvers, the King of the Titan Bugs had pinpointed their location!

Liam cursed himself for the oversight.

He had been too careless!

The other team members also realized that their covert operation had been compromised; otherwise, the King of the Titan Bugs wouldn't have shown up.

Despite the grim circumstances, no one in the team showed fear.

Everett even broke into laughter and said to the group, "Guys, the King of the Titan Bugs showed up! We don't have to run around searching for it now. It's going to save us a lot of trouble!"

Hearing this, Liam couldn't help but muster a bitter smile. He appreciated Everett's attempt to lighten the mood and bolster their spirits.

Everyone understood that confronting the King of the Titan Bugs required a strategic approach, particularly sneak attacks, to enhance their chances of success. After all, the King of the Titan Bugs was a Primogem King at the peak of level nine, whose formidable strength could not be underestimated.

Battling with him head-on would be difficult.

Now, with their team's location exposed and them surrounded by swarms of Titan Bugs, their predicament had become evident. Although the Gibson family's sword array was highly destructive, it was impossible to eliminate the King of the Titan Bugs from a distance.

The biggest concern was not just defeating the King of the Titan Bugs. The real challenge would be escaping after such a victory.

With countless Titan Bugs swarming and the team's deep penetration into the stronghold, breaking out of the siege would be difficult.

It seemed impossible for them to escape without significant effort.

Liam took a deep breath. He knew there was no turning back now.

At this realization, his resolve hardened. Gripping his sword of darkness, he said to the team with a steely tone, "Comrades, we must fight to the death! If we don't give our all, we'll have no hope of survival!"

As Liam spoke, determination swept through the team. Everyone nodded in agreement and used their law powers and other abilities to fight.

Lewis and others surrounded Lindy and the other three people who had been assigned to logistics by Liam. This arrangement allowed Lindy and the three people to be shielded from the direct assaults of the Titan Bugs.

However, this also placed a heavier burden on those at the forefront.

As the relentless army of Titan Bugs charged fearlessly toward the team, exhibiting a disregard for their own lives, the intensity of the battle escalated. Even when faced with certain defeat against Lewis and the others, the bugs continued their assault.

Liam raised his sword and killed two Titan Bugs that had come perilously close to the team. He turned to his comrades and said, "Hold them off for a while. I'll take care of the low-level Titan Bugs!"

With that, Liam retreated to the center of the team, a relatively quiet area free from the chaos of the ongoing battle.

Then, Liam closed his eyes and began to harness the Death Power within him. Then, he activated his unique "Fatal Hex" ability.

While the Primogem Kings in the team could easily eliminate the low-level Titan Bugs, doing so would significantly drain their primogem energy and physical strength.

In a situation as dire as theirs, every member's strength was vital, so they couldn't afford to waste their strength on this.

Thus, Liam's "Fatal Hex" was very crucial now.
