

Chapter 1394 Caden's Intention

The despairing team lifted their heads at the sound of the voice.

Liam's expression was one of sheer astonishment.

He was very familiar with this voice.

When his gaze met the face of the figure standing before him, his face lit up with excitement.

It was Caden, the Lord of Rosefinch, standing before him.

Caden's face was set in a stern expression, and the aura emanating from him was thick with lethal intent.

With a cold snort, Caden unleashed the full force of his Primogem Saint strength, revealing his true power.

The King of the Titan Bugs, previously so arrogant, now sensed the grave threat. It recognized Caden as a formidable Primogem Saint and, in panic, attempted to flee.

However, just as the King of the Titan Bugs turned to escape, it found itself frozen, unable to move.

Caden sneered as he approached the immobilized King of the Titan Bugs. He grasped the massive creature and spoke with icy clarity. "If you were just a Primogem King, I wouldn't bother with you. But since you've ascended to be a Primogem Emperor, I can't just stand idly by."

Unknown to many, after Liam had been assigned this special mission, Caden had been dispatched by the City Lord to infiltrate the Titan Bugs' stronghold. His primary task was to covertly ensure Liam's safety.

Liam's potential was extraordinary. With continued training, he was destined to become a Human Sovereign.

Right now, Liam was the pinnacle of the Human Clan's younger generation, and neither the City Lord nor Caden wanted to let anyone harm him.

This covert protection from the City Lord and Caden had proved to be pivotal. It had transformed a near-catastrophe into a potential victory for Liam's team.

Of course, Caden would never acknowledge these secret motives, so he had made up a plausible explanation for his presence.

The King of the Titan Bugs, terrified beyond measure, struggled to plead for mercy as Caden tightened his grip on its throat. "Please! Don't kill—"

Unfortunately, before it could finish its plea, Caden crushed its head effortlessly, an icy expression on his face.

Seeing the demise of their formidable leader, the other Titan Bugs were seized with terror. They scrambled to escape, fearing they might be next.

After killing the King of the Titan Bugs, Caden casually dusted off his hands as if he had merely swatted away a nuisance. He then turned to Liam and his team with a stern look and said, "Continue with your mission. I only stepped in because the King's strength was beyond your current capability. Remember, this is just an exception. Special missions require you to rely on your own strength. Don't expect to always have others save you."

Caden gave a stern warning. However, Chad and Everett tired hard to hold back their laughter, clearly not believing Caden's words.

Not only Chad and Everett, but other Primogem Kings on the team also realized the real reason behind Caden's intervention.

They all understood that Caden had stepped in primarily to protect Liam.

Luckily, Caden's timely intervention had flipped a dire situation completely in their favor.

Therefore, despite knowing the insincerity in Caden's words, the team members stifled their laughter and watched respectfully as Caden walked away.
