

Chapter 1402 Liam's Idea

Seeing that Liam was firm in his decision, Lewis and the others finally stopped dissuading him. With that, everyone disclosed their total points.

Liam noted down everyone's points. He then carefully reviewed the figures.

After some calculations, Liam announced, "I've totaled everyone's points. To equalize the distribution, I need to contribute about ninety thousand points."

Ninety thousand points were a lot.

Even for a formidable warrior like a Primogem Emperor, relinquishing ninety thousand points in one go would be hard.

Though the special points could be earned easily, ninety thousand was still a staggering figure.

Lewis stepped forward and said with apparent concern, "Liam, maybe you should reconsider this. We appreciate your intentions, but ninety thousand points is a massive amount. Even all of us can't spare that many, let alone you. It's too much for you to handle alone! We all trust your integrity, but the number is simply too large. It won't be easy to gather that many points."

Liam firmly shook his head. "The most important thing a person can do is keep his promise. If one can't, how can he expect others to trust him in the future?"

Realizing he couldn't sway Liam, Lewis paused to think for a moment. Then, he said, "How about we help contribute to Lindy and the others?"

Upon hearing this, Chad, Everett, and their friends immediately nodded in agreement. "Good idea. Let's do that!"

The Primogem Kings on the team all supported Lewis' suggestion.

Chad and his friends understood very well that Caden's decision to save everyone at the stronghold of the Titan Bugs was largely because of Liam.

Without Liam, their chances of survival would have been uncertain. Therefore, they were ready to support Liam in any way they could.

Despite their willingness to help, Liam responded with a smile, "You don't need to do this. Ninety thousand points are a lot, but I'm willing to do this all by myself."

Liam planned to accumulate the necessary points by utilizing his Death Power against enemies on future battlefields.

However, he quickly realized this method would take considerable time.

After giving it some thought, Liam suddenly had an idea.

He took out a bottle filled with thick red liquid.

Even with the lid firmly sealed, the potent smell of the liquid permeated the air.

Lewis and the others exchanged puzzled glances.

Everett, unable to contain his curiosity, asked, "What is inside the bottle? Why does it give off such an evil aura?"

Lewis immediately nodded. "I feel the same way. It feels like it's from the Blood Clan."

Surprised by Lewis' accurate guess, Liam looked at him with a mix of shock and admiration. With a smile, he nodded and said, "You're absolutely correct. This is the blood essence of a powerful source God from the Blood Clan. Specifically, it's from the Primogem Emperor!"
