

Chapter 1415 An Unexpected Incident

Liam was eager to establish a connection with the domain of the Death Power.

Having mastered the Death Power, he was confident that gaining recognition in this domain wouldn't be too difficult for him.

With this in mind, Liam began to unleash the Death Power from his body, testing the domain of the Death Power here.

Unexpectedly, he encountered resistance from the start. The domain seemed to actively repel his efforts as if rejecting him.

Liam frowned, puzzled by this.

Nonetheless, he was undeterred and tried again.

Unfortunately, he was unsuccessful again.

The domain of the Death Power was exceptionally resistant to the Death Power emanating from Liam's body.

Liam calmed down. He began to analyze the situation.

"The domain of the Death Power repels the Death Power. How is that possible? Is the domain selecting the most suitable person based on some criteria?" Liam muttered.

His speculation wasn't far-fetched.

After all, everything in this world possessed varying levels of intelligence.

It was quite plausible that the domain of the Death Power had developed its own consciousness.

This reminded Liam of Emer.

It was quite plausible that the domain of the Death Power had developed its own consciousness.

This reminded Liam of Emer.

Emer was merely a fragment of the Heart of Life, yet it eventually developed its own consciousness.

At last, it dawned on Liam.

It appeared the Death Power he had previously released was not enough to sway this domain.

Liam's gaze hardened, and he continued to channel more power.

At this moment, he unleashed the full force of the Death Power within him.

A black aura burst forth, enveloping the area behind Liam like a massive net that obscured the sky, casting an oppressive shadow.

This black aura was the Death Power Liam had.

Liam's arms trembled. The next moment, he poured all his accumulated Death Power into the domain.

His guess proved correct.

The moment he infused the Death Power into the domain, he established a profound connection with the domain.

There was even a faint resonance between them.

Liam was thrilled. His plan had worked!

Without further ado, he channeled more into the domain.

However, he soon noticed something alarming.

The domain began to draw the Death Power from his body at an accelerated rate.

It was as if the domain intended to drain him completely.

Liam was taken aback. He hadn't anticipated being overwhelmed by the domain.

In a rush of panic, he tried to resist.

However, all his efforts was futile against the power of the domain.

Once the connection was established, breaking free from it was extremely difficult, if not impossible.

Chapter 1415 An Unexpected Incident

Left with no alternatives, Liam could only watch helplessly as the domain drew out not only his Death Power but also the core energy within his body.
