

Chapter 1418 Caden's Thoughts

Liam's progress in the gray area hadn't gone unnoticed by the City Lord and the others, who had been keeping a close watch on Liam.

The City Lord had viewed the scene transmitted by the Network of Human Sovereign and noticed Liam's exceptional abilities, which pleased him.

The City Lord said excitedly, "Liam is extraordinary! Out of all the talented individuals I have encountered in my lifetime, he can be ranked number one."

The City Lord's compliments made Caden feel overjoyed. From the City Lord's words, it was evident that he thought highly of Liam.

After all, anyone would appreciate having such a talented person around.

Caden believed that Liam was bound to become a disciple of the City Lord!

With Liam's emergence, Caden foresaw a swift ascent in the standing of the Rosefinch Galaxy within the Human Clan.

Traditionally, the Rosefinch Galaxy was responsible for managing the resources among the four galaxies of the Human Clan. However, after Liam, a rare talent, appeared, Caden felt confident that, with Liam's help, he could raise the status of the Rosefinch Galaxy.

Consequently, the Rosefinch Galaxy would develop. It would surely receive better treatment in the Human Clan then.

Caden's intentions were not self-serving. After all, he ruled the Rosefinch Galaxy, and everything he did was for its growth.

The City Lord noticed the smile on Caden's face and instantly understood his thoughts.

Caden's intentions were not self-serving. After all, he ruled the Rosefinch Galaxy, and everything he did was for its growth.

The City Lord noticed the smile on Caden's face and instantly understood his thoughts.

The City Lord said, "Caden, it's wonderful that Liam, an unparalleled genius, emerged in the Rosefinch Galaxy and was discovered by you promptly. Since you are the Lord of Rosefinch, your contributions are significant. Traditionally in our Human Clan, when such an extraordinary talent arises in a galaxy, the inhabitants of that galaxy are indeed entitled to higher-level clearance and the benefits that come with it."

After a pause, he continued, "Yet, the circumstances of the Human Clan have changed a lot. The other three galaxies serve as permanent war zones and have thus made significant contributions to the Human Clan on the interstellar battlefield. Although the Rosefinch Galaxy only plays a role in providing logistical support to the Human Clan, its contribution is also vital to the interstellar battlefield. The Rosefinch Galaxy indeed deserves rewards now, but for the greater good of the Human Clan, it would be wise not to do anything to change it."

Upon hearing the City Lord's words, Caden realized that his hopes of unlocking advanced clearance for the Rosefinch Galaxy and turning it into a war theater for the Human Clan were likely lost.

Consequently, a look of disappointment spread across Caden's face.

Still, he was reluctant to let go of such a golden opportunity. After all, transforming the Rosefinch Galaxy into a war theater would provide numerous training opportunities for the younger members of the Rosefinch Galaxy, which would be beneficial for their development.

Thus, Caden was determined not to give up and prepared to make a heartfelt appeal to the City Lord, hoping for his approval.

If the Rosefinch Galaxy could emerge as a central force in the interstellar battlefield, it would significantly benefit its development.

Yet, before Caden could make his plea, the City Lord, who was seated next to him, saw through his intentions. The City Lord's expression turned stern, and he fixed Caden with a serious look.

At this, Caden's spirits sank, and he didn't dare to speak anything.

Noticing Caden's disheartened expression, the City Lord chuckled. "Why the rush? I haven't finished speaking yet, and you're already trying to interrupt?"
