

Chapter 1419 The Special Privilege

Caden had thought his hopes of elevating the status of the Rosefinch Galaxy through Liam were lost. However, as he observed the serious expression on the City Lord's face, a glimmer of hope ignited within him.

Eyes filled with anticipation, Caden fixed his gaze on the City Lord.

Under Caden's expectant gaze, the City Lord began to speak slowly. "The Rosefinch Galaxy may not become the main force in the interstellar battlefield, but this does not mean it will not be receiving rewards. Being the main force isn't the only way to gain honor. I intend to bestow upon the Rosefinch Galaxy a special privilege."

As soon as these words left the City Lord's mouth, a wave of excitement washed over Caden.

Unable to contain his curiosity, Caden quickly asked, "Please enlighten me. What exactly is this special privilege?"

The City Lord let out a chuckle. "I won't say for now. You'll have to wait until Liam becomes my disciple. That's when I'll tell you about it."

Caden was caught off guard. He hadn't expected the usually straightforward City Lord to be like this. A hint of annoyance flickered across Caden's face.

He was not fond of guessing games.

Seeing Caden's reaction, the City Lord chuckled and said, "You really are impatient, aren't you? Don't worry. I always keep my promises. All will be revealed in due time. However, bear in mind, if Liam doesn't become my disciple, the privilege I promised will not come true."

The implicit message from the City Lord was unmistakable. He was asking Caden to keep a close eye on Liam and make sure no other mentors could claim him as their disciple.

Given the City Lord's prestigious position within the Human Clan, his criteria for accepting disciples were incredibly high.

Having discovered an exceptional talent like Liam, the City Lord was concerned that such a rare genius might be enticed away by others.

Caden understood the City Lord's concerns. However, given the City Lord's esteemed status, Caden refrained from expressing his frustrations openly. He just muttered to himself, "If only I knew a few more Human Sovereigns, you wouldn't be able to keep me in the dark like this."

Of course, Caden knew better than to say this out loud. Doing so would only earn him a scolding from the City Lord.

Thus, Caden could do nothing but suppress his dissatisfaction. He reluctantly agreed to the City Lord's terms.

At the same time, he resolved to do everything in his power to make sure that Liam became the City Lord's disciple.

After all, the City Lord had made his request crystal clear.

Liam becoming the City Lord's disciple was important not just for his future cultivation but also for the Rosefinch Galaxy's opportunity to gain the special privilege the City Lord had mentioned.

Seeing that Caden had no more objections, the City Lord gave a subtle nod, signaling Caden to continue monitoring the feedback from the Network of Human Sovereign.
