

Chapter 1421 Liam's Guess

Liam knew he would eventually have to go to the Saint Society of the Cosmic realm and the Blood Clan to rescue Julie and Asher.

But before rescuing anyone, he had to make sure he was safe first.

Only the Heart of Life could prevent him from being at a disadvantage in dangerous situations, and it would also give him a better chance of saving Julie and Asher.

Liam worked hard to control his excitement and calm himself down.

He then stepped into the white area.

This time, though, Liam didn't feel as relaxed as when he had entered the gray area a few days ago.

As soon as he walked into the white area, he sensed that every cell in his body seemed to have a mind of its own. They were jumping with excitement inside him!

It was as if these cells could burst out of his body at any moment.

Liam was shocked by what was happening in his body.

He hadn't expected the life force in this white area to be so dense that it could affect his body so intensely.

Liam had never heard of something like this before.

Though he knew that the Heart of Life fragment could absorb others' life force, convert it into primogem energy, and boost his power, he had never imagined it would make his cells so active.

After getting over his shock, Liam felt a wave of excitement.

Because if his guess was correct, the Heart of Life fragment here would be much more powerful than the ones he had found before!

But before rescuing anyone, he had to make sure he was safe first.

Only the Heart of Life could prevent him from being at a disadvantage in dangerous situations, and it would also give him a better chance of saving Julie and Asher.

Liam worked hard to control his excitement and calm himself down.

He then stepped into the white area.

This time, though, Liam didn't feel as relaxed as when he had entered the gray area a few days ago.

As soon as he walked into the white area, he sensed that every cell in his body seemed to have a mind of its own. They were jumping with excitement inside him!

It was as if these cells could burst out of his body at any moment.

Liam was shocked by what was happening in his body.

He hadn't expected the life force in this white area to be so dense that it could affect his body so intensely.

Liam had never heard of something like this before.

Though he knew that the Heart of Life fragment could absorb others' life force, convert it into primogem energy, and boost his power, he had never imagined it would make his cells so active.

After getting over his shock, Liam felt a wave of excitement.

Because if his guess was correct, the Heart of Life fragment here would be much more powerful than the ones he had found before!

Maybe by merging with this piece of the Heart of Life, he could activate the silent fragments of the Heart of Life inside him and bring Emer back to life.

The thought made Liam even more excited.

He had worked so hard for so long, and now, he finally had a lead on the location of another Heart of Life fragment!

Liam silently prayed, hoping his assumptions were right. There had to be a fragment of the Heart of Life in the white area.

However, since the Heart of Life within Liam had been injured and fallen silent, he couldn't rely on it to locate the fragment of the Heart of Life here.

Liam had no choice but to rely on his own instincts to search the white area, bit by bit.

Thankfully, despite the abundance of life force here, there were no fierce beasts in the area.

Liam didn't encounter any danger during his search for the Heart of Life fragment.

But after three days and nights of searching, he found nothing.

He hadn't found the Heart of Life fragment, nor had he discovered any treasure containing vitality.

This made Liam begin to doubt himself. He couldn't help but wonder if there really was a fragment of the Heart of Life here.

But Liam wasn't ready to give up yet.

Even though he hadn't found any sign of the fragment of the Heart of Life here, he firmly believed that if he kept looking, he would eventually discover something.

Liam quietly encouraged himself, shook off the doubt, and pressed on with his search in the white area.