

Chapter 1422 The Lake

Soon, Liam reached a secluded valley.

As he gazed at the calm landscape ahead, his brows furrowed slightly. Something in his gut whispered that valuable treasures were hidden within this valley.

Since Liam had always trusted his instincts, he followed his intuition and ventured deeper into the valley without hesitation.

The valley stretched on endlessly. It took Liam several hours to reach deep inside the valley.

Before long, the high stone walls flanking the path vanished, and the view opened wide before him.

At the valley's end, an expansive grassland teemed with life. Just looking at it brought Liam a sense of peace and contentment.

The vegetation there was extraordinary. Trees soared to the skies, and the wild grass stood as tall as five meters.

Such a sight was beyond anything Liam had ever encountered or even thought of.

He realized the immense life force thriving here.

A glint of excitement appeared on Liam's face. After all, the state of the plants suggested hidden treasures.

Even if it wasn't the Heart of Life fragment he had long sought, it would surely be something brimming with life force.

With that in mind, Liam flew to the sky without delay.

As he hovered above, he scanned the land below.

In the middle of the grassland lay a vast lake.

When Liam noticed that, a spark of delight flickered in his eyes as he muttered, "The unusual growth of the plants must be connected to this lake!"

Liam felt certain of this. After all, the lake was the only distinct feature here.

Acting on his suspicion, he flew closer to the lake and gently descended near the shoreline.

Upon approaching the water, he immediately sensed a potent life force emanating from it. Just breathing in the air around the lake made him feel invigorated, as though he had consumed a powerful tonic.

This alone was enough to confirm Liam's theory.

There was definitely something significant hidden in this lake!

Upon closer inspection, Liam noticed the life force seemed to originate from the lake's depths.

His excitement grew. "There's no doubt—a fragment of the Heart of Life must be inside the lake. Even if it isn't, something equally powerful lies there!"

Thrilled by the discovery, Liam couldn't believe his luck.

Previously, his efforts to track down the Heart of Life fragment had proven fruitless.

But this time, guided by instinct, he had found a clue!

Wasting no time, Liam put his hand into the lake to check for danger.

Yet, the moment his hand touched the water, he quickly withdrew it.

Simultaneously, a shadow crossed Liam's face as he stared at the lake.

What alarmed him wasn't a threat lurking in the water.

It was the lake's life force itself, which had fiercely resisted his touch earlier.

Had he hesitated for a moment longer, his whole arm would have been hurt.

14108