

Chapter 1423 The Resistance

Liam was caught off guard by what had just happened.

He had never imagined that the life force could reject anyone.

Furrowing his brow, Liam paused to think and muttered to himself, "Could it be the Death Power in me that's making my aura feel so much like death aura? The life force from the Heart of Life fragment must be clashing with it. That's probably why the life force in the lake is pushing me away, right?"

After a moment of thought, Liam was convinced this was the only answer.

Liam decided to withdraw his Death Power domain and dipped his hand back into the lake to test it.

But his body still carried the death aura since his primogem energy had merged with it. So, when his hand touched the water, he still felt the sharp sting.

In short, since Liam had merged with the Death Power domain and was surrounded by its aura, the life force of the lake would always push him away if he tried to enter.

This meant it would be tough for him to check if the Heart of Life was really in the lake.

The life force of the lake kept resisting him, but Liam refused to give up. He stood by the lake, brainstorming different solutions and trying out various approaches.

However, no matter what Liam did, the lake always pushed him away because of the death aura on him.

Still, Liam didn't give up.

The lake's rejection made Liam even more convinced that a fragment of the Heart of Life was hidden deep within it!

Liam believed this fragment was incredibly powerful, possibly even stronger than all the Heart of Life fragments he had collected before combined!

Otherwise, the life force in the lake wouldn't be this strong.

Only a fragment of the Heart of Life, filled with immense vitality, could be this resistant to the death aura.

Liam believed the life force from the lake was the strongest one he had ever encountered.

Liam felt a rush of excitement.

He had searched tirelessly for the fragment of the Heart of Life, only to discover it by chance!

He had worked hard to reach the level of the Primogem King, eager to unlock level-five authority. His goal had been to find the Heart of Life fragment and activate the ones inside his body, giving him a stronger position on the interstellar battlefield.

Liam had never expected to find a fragment of the Heart of Life when he was doing his special mission.

With this vibrant piece of the Heart of Life and the Death Power domain, he felt truly lucky to have accepted the special mission this time.
